Balky POWs May End Strike

Package Foreign, U. S. Defense Budget Sought

May Overcome Congress Resistance

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—The administration was reported today seriously considering a single budget request to Congress next January covering both U. S. defense needs and foreign military aid.

The main objective of a consolidated home-and-abroad defense budget, officials said, would be to overcome congressional resistance to a separate military aid bill in an election year.

A second and longer-range goal, these officials said, would be to establish the overlapping and interlocking connection between strictly U. S. defense needs and the defense of the whole free world, particularly Western Europe.

Move Is Discussed

One high official said the decision to wrap up military aid in the regular defense money bill had all but been made. Another said such a move is still being discussed.

The United States today is spending at the monthly rate of 300 to 350 million dollars for military goods, most of which are made in this country and shipped abroad. The balance, manufactured in friendly foreign nations, is called the off-shore procurement program and consists of military items made with U. S. dollars in North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and other friendly nations.

An important part of the proposed new plan, it was reported, might involve a system which would permit the transfer of military aid dollars directly into treasures of NATO countries to be exchanged for local currencies, such as French francs. The francs would be used for specific purposes, such as maintenance of troops. The dollars would be used to finance imports from the United States.

Congress Might like It

Despite almost certain congressional resistance to this kind of a program, administration officials think Congress might eventually like it. They point out, for instance, it costs approximately 200 million dollars less a year to support a French division than an American division.

Foreign aid budget requests have encountered opposition in Congress ever since the Marshall Plan first took form five years ago. This opposition has grown each year, despite recent emphasis on military rather than economic aid. Total foreign aid requests asked by the administration during each of the last three years, as compared to the amounts finally voted by Congress were: 1952—$8,500,000,000 and $7,328,903,000; 1953 — $7,900,000,000 and $4,410,000,000; 1954—$5,828,732,000 and $4,531,507,000.

U. S. To Build Atomic Power Reactor Plant

CHICAGO, Oct. 22 (AP) — The United States today told the world it will build a major atomic power plant—turning war's most destructive force to the constructive uses of peace.

The history-making announcement was made by Thomas E. Murray, a member of the Atomic Energy Commission.

It is this nation's first full-scale attempt to harness atomic energy for peaceful work.

Murray termed the move "America's answer to recent Soviet atomic weapons tests."

He also spoke of how the use of atomic energy in generating electric power will exert a powerful influence in the cold war and the competition for vital uranium.

Murray, in a speech on the Electric Companies Public Information Program, disclosed these details:

The AEC will build an industrial power reactor producing at least 60,000 kilowatts of electrical energy. That's enough for a city of 50,000 population.

Cost: "Many tens of millions of dollars."

Time: Hopes are geared to having an operating plant in three or four years.

Place: The project may be located "at or near" an AEC facility for separating uranium-235, the fissionable material in the A-bomb, from natural uranium. The AEC has one such facility at Oak Ridge, Tenn. It's building others at Paducah, Ky., and Portsmouth, Ohio.

Rear Adm. Hyman George Rickover, the Navy's atomic reactor expert, has been given the "immediate responsibility" for the new program.

He was chosen as boss because of his "unique experience and accomplishments in building propulsion power reactors for the commission and the Navy."

Another factor is that the power plant is of a design "inherited from a naval project."

Rickover, 53, was top naval officer concerned with the building of the first atomic-powered submarine.

His new assignment comes less than four months after he almost was forced into retirement.

Bank Officials Plead Guilty

HARRISONBURG, Va., Oct. 22 (AP) — Two bank officials — one a churchgoing former mayor of New Market—pleaded guilty today to cleaning out a bank vault and speeding to Canada with $103,372 crammed in a slit inner tube.

Immediately after the arraignment in Federal District Court here, Judge John Paul sentenced Theodore Roosevelt Beahm, 56-year-old former mayor and officer of the embezzled Citizens National Bank at New Market, to a total of eight years in prison. Beahm was cashier and executive vice president of the bank.

His companion, 55-year-old Don R. Simpson, who took out bankruptcy papers last month, received a total of 12 years. Simpson was a director of the bank.

FBI agents said only $10,820 of the loot, which included $34,500 in cash, had been recovered, although continuing efforts would be made to find the remainder.

Pickets Use Boat To Patrol Docks

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Oct. 22 (AP)—Pickets took to a boat today to patrol the Ohio River waterfront of the Jeffersonville Machine & Boat Works and turn back river barges bringing materials to the plant.

Production workers quit today in a wage dispute. Office workers were permitted to go in.

LONDON, Oct. 22 (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh will leave London airport Nov. 23 for their Commonwealth tour that will take them to Australia and New Zealand.

Dean Visits Hospital

Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, sitting cross legged on the grass as he talks, swaps mutual fighting experiences in Korea with patients at the army's Walter Reed Hospital in Washington. Dean was imprisoned 38 months by the Communists and like the general all the patients were from the 24th Division.

Wagner Strives To Reveal Fay Parole Seekers

NEW YORK, Oct. 22 (AP) —Democratic Mayoral Candidate Robert F. Wagner went to court today to try to force the lid off secret parole board files on labor extortionist Joey Fay.

State Supreme Court Justice Thomas A. Aurello signed an order directing the parole board to show cause why it should not make public the names of persons who sought a parole for Fay.

A hearing was scheduled for next Tuesday.

Wagner insisted there is reason to believe the secret files contain the names of "a member or members of the state and national administration and judiciary."

Traditionally, in New York the names of interceders in parole matters have been kept secret. Wagner's attorney, Henry Epstein, argued, however, that the time has come to open the files on the Fay case.

Wagner, in a campaign move, charged last week that among those who sought a parole for Fay was "one of the most important men in the United States—a national figure whose every word and action carry tremendous weight throughout the country."

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and the parole board denied flatly that any such person ever interceded for Fay.

Yesterday, Rudolph Halley, Liberal party candidate for mayor, released a list of nearly 100 names which he said included those who spoke up for Fay. He belittled Wagner's charge as campaign oratory.

However, the Wagner camp replied that Halley's list was not a complete one. The Democrats demanded the parole board release the full list.

McCardell Refuses To Resign Position

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22 (AP) — City Comptroller J. Neil McCardell charged by a grand jury with fraud in a city off-street parking probe, said today he has no intention of resigning his job.

"I was elected by the people of Baltimore and I have a duty and obligation to them until my innocence is eatablished by the courts," he told a reporter.

Meanwhile, indictments were being drawn up against the comptroller and nine other persons named yesterday in presentments which followed an 11-week probe.

LONDON, Oct. 22 (AP)—A wildcat strike of 2,600 tank truck drivers tonight dried up London's gasoline supply and stalled traffic for miles around London.

U. S. Soldiers Had Moments Of Fun In Red POW Camps

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Being a prisoner of war in Korea obviously was a grim experience. But since Americans are what they are, there were moments of fun, too.

Lt. Ray M. Dowe Jr. learned this the hard way, by spending 34 dreary months as a prisoner of the Communists. The months seemed especially long for him, for when he was shipped to Korea he left behind a bride of 43 days.

But it was of some of the more pleasant experiences that Dowe fell to talking about today: The baseball games in which the balls were made of combat boot heels, and of the homemade dramas that kept the Communists in a dither.

Not that Dowe didn't have his grim period, too.

He's a West Point graduate, 26 years old. Yet he's so boyish and healthy looking it's hard to picture him as he once was so ailing of malnutrition that he's convinced he'd be a dead soldier today but for one thing:

When the negotiations began at Panmunjom, he said, the Communists changed their policy, and he was given adequate food at last.

"They also decided to permit prisoners to amuse themselves," Dowe said.

So the prisoners at his camp busily went to work making baseball equipment. As for the balls, they were made of boot heels, unravelled sweaters, pieces of parachutes, with boot tops for the cover. Bases were made, a diamond was laid out, bats were carved.

The POWs also were allowed to put on shows on special occasions, and these were Dowe's babies.

UN Increases Soviet's Share Of Upkeep Cost

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP) — Despite Russian protests, the U. N. voted today to increase Soviet bloc contributions to its upkeep and to reduce the U. S. share.

The vote in the 60-nation Budget Committee was 39 to 6, with 3 countries abstaining. The negative votes were cast by the five Iron Curtain countries and Cuba. The necessary two-thirds vote in the General Assembly thus seemed assured.

Under the new scale of charges, the United States will pay 33.3 per cent of the 42 million dollars to be raised from contributing countries. Last year it was 35 per cent. The Soviet share will be 14.15 per cent instead of 12.28 per cent. There were also small increases for White Russia, the Ukraine and Poland.

U. S. Chemist Shares Nobel

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 22 (AP)—Two German-born biochemists, one an American and the other a Briton, were awarded the 1953 Nobel prize for medicine and physiology jointly today for their discoveries concerning the basic life processes carried on within human cells.

Dr. Fritz Albert Lipmann, 54, professor of biochemistry at the Harvard Medical School, Cambridge, Mass., and Dr. Hans Adolph Krebs, 54, professor of biochemistry at Sheffield University, Sheffield, England, share the honors and a prize of 175,292 swedish crowns ($33,840).

Dr. Lipmann has devoted much of his career to studying the mechanisms of biosynthesis—how the body builds and renews itself out of the basic factors in food. From this came his discovery of co-enzyme A, an organic substance that plays an important part in nearly every biological process.

Dr. Krebs was cited for his explanation — variously called the Krebs cycle, the citric acid cycle and the wheel of fortune—of how food becomes energy in living tissue. This explanation provides a general background for the study of many problems of metabolic diseases.

The award was the 44th made by Stockholm's Caroline Institute of Medicine under the will of Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite. The winner last year was Dr. Selman A. Waksman of Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N. J., discoverer of the earth mold from which came the wonder drug streptomycin.

Potato Surplus Problem Is Aired

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Representatives of the potato industry discussed with Agriculture Department officials today the problem of a potato surplus and low prices.

Max Wilks, a shipper of Bakersfield, Calif., among about 20 attending the closed-door session, told reporters: "We have a surplus and we are trying to find a solution."

Commons Votes Confidence In Guiana Ouster

LONDON, Oct. 22 (AP)—The House of Commons tonight gave a clear-cut vote of confidence to the Churchill government for its action in suspending the constitution of British Guiana and ousting the government of leftist Premier Cheddi Jagan.

The House rejected, by a vote of 294-256, a labor amendment denouncing the government's move and then endorsed the Conservatives' action without a count.

The 38-vote margin was considered a decisive victory for the government of Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill which charged the Jagan government was plotting to set up South America's first Communist regime in the rich colony.

One spectator at the stormy five-hour debate which preceded the vote was Jagan himself, who flew to London to present his case. At a news conference the dapper East India-born dentist declared that the story of a plot was "invented" and challenged the government to arrest him if it believed he and his ministers had plotted to burn government buildings. He denied that his people's Progressive Party, which won 18 of the 24 seats in the colonial Assembly at the last election, was Communist, though he declared it definitely was not anti-Communist.

Colonial Secretary Oliver Lyttelton told the House the government was considering bringing several of the deposed ministers to trial on charges of plotting a campaign of arson. But he admitted there was difficulty in getting sufficient evidence as some "agents are unwilling for fear of intimidation to make written statements or give evidence in court."

He declared the British government had acted entirely on its own in dismissing the Jagan government and had not been urged to take action by the United States.

Churchill and Lyttelton directed the swift moves in the rich colony of rum, sugar and bauxite on Oct. 8 after British troops had been moved in as a precaution.

In their attack, Laborites called the government's action too drastic.

Sen. Kerr Strikes Out At Benson

PADUCAH, Tex., Oct. 22 (AP) — Sen. Kerr (D-Okla today said farm policies of Secretary of Agriculture Benson were ruining farmers and that "the administration should get a new secretary."

"If the administration continues to refuse to do this," Kerr said in a speech prepared for a Farmers Union gathering, "then the people should have—and will get—a new administration."

Dean Asks Leniency For Korean Traitors

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Maj. Gen. William F. Dean said today he has renewed his appeal to President Syngman Rhee for leniency for the South Koreans alleged to have helped bring about Dean's capture by Communist troops in 1950.

Humphrey States Tax Reductions Not Near

Defense Cuts May Balance Budget

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Oct. 22 (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey today declared the administration "can make no promises of any tax reductions at all" next year except the corporation excess profits and individual income taxes.

Humphrey told reporters that the federal budget cannot be balanced, even in fiscal 1955, unless there are "very substantial" cuts in national defense outlays.

The Treasury secretary spoke today at the opening of a three-day, closed meeting here of the Commerce Department's Business Advisory Council, made up of many of the nation's biggest industrial leaders.

Off The Record

His words to corporation chiefs were off the record, but he later told newsmen that the task of paring the 68 billion dollar federal budget has proved "very tough."

"We will have another deficit in 1955 unless we can very substantially reduce our military expenditures," he said.

Humphrey said that President Eisenhower's request last May for extension of the present 52 per cent corporation tax rate still stands, although the law calls for a 5 point reduction by April 1.

Humphrey and other officials, it was reported, assured the businessmen that the administration is striving mightily for a balanced budget in fiscal 1955, and for tax relief—but that the going is hard.

Though Humphrey spoke only in general terms, reliable informants said, he and other officials left the impression:

Grows More Difficult

1. It is growing more difficult by the day—because of inherited obligations and high defense costs to find savings substantial enough to make federal income match up with spending in the budget which President Eisenhower will send to Congress in January, covering the year starting next July 1.

2. The administration has not changed its view that tax relief be postponed until a balance is in sight.

3. The administration not only will ask Congress to extend the 52 per cent corporation tax rate scheduled to drop to 47 on April 1, as already announced, but may also resist any net drop in excise tax collections. Some of the high emergency excise rates are due to decline on the same date.

Storm Floods Toe Of Italy

REGGIO CALABRIA, Italy, Oct. 22 (AP)—Italian troops were rushed tonight to rescue work in the cloudburst-flooded toe of the Italian boot, where 60 bodies already have been recovered and the death toll may reach 200.

Public officials appealed for all aid possible. U. S. Navy helicopters may be flown in to help rescue flood victims. The U. S. embassy in Rome asked the government what aid it could offer. In some cases entire families were buried in the debris of their homes.

The disaster in the traditionally poverty-ridden tip of barren Calabria appeared likely to surpass the flood ruin there two years ago. It followed last week's North Italian floods which took 15 lives.

There was no way yet—with swirling floodwaters still rising and storm winds lashing the mountainous tip of Italy—to measure the full scope of the disaster. The damage spreads over 100 miles north from Reggio Calabria, on the tip of land opposite Sicily, to Cosenza, a third of the way to Naples.

Scores of villages housing thousands of persons were completely cut off from communication. Phone lines were down, bridges washed out and main roads buried by landslides. Rail lines were cut by avalanches and rising water.

Young Blasts "Vague" Farm Policy Of GOP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Sen. Milton R. Young (R-ND) today aimed a double blast at the Eisenhower administration in attacking what he described as its "vague" farm policy and its costly "give-away" foreign aid programs.

Both are highly unpopular in the Midwest, Young said.

Caustically applauding President Eisenhower's decision not to stump for Republican party members in state and congressional campaigns, Young said in a statement:

"It will help the Republicans greatly in the Midwest."

Eisenhower set forth his hands-off policy at his news conference yesterday, declaring he does not intend to use the presidency to help sway partisan elections.

However, Chairman Leonard W. Hall of the Republican National Committee said after a White House visit today he is certain the President will support the Republican party, in some degree, in next year's congressional campaign.

GOP leaders pointed out that the Republicans, now outnumbered by the Democrats 48-47 in the Senate and holding a bare majority in the House, can ill afford any losses in the 1954 congressional elections.

Sen. Young in a statement dictated to his office here, indicated he thought Eisenhower's no-campaign policy would be a boon—rather than a drawback—to GOP candidates in the Midwest farm belt.

As Young let fly with his critical barbs, there were these developments bearing on the farm situation:

1. The White House announced the President will confer at luncheon tomorrow with his top farm advisors, including Secretary Benson.

2. The President's National Agricultural Advisory Commission began a three-day closed session to consider recommendations for new farm law legislation. The group will meet with Eisenhower and Benson Saturday.

3. Benson and Agriculture Department officials conferred with representatives of the potato industry on the problem of a potato surplus and low prices.

4. The Agriculture Department announced its buying program to bolster sagging cattle prices reached a new peak this week, with the award of new contracts to buy 20,238,946 pounds of hamburger and canned beef.

Red Vietminh Army Flees French Troops

HANOI, Indochina, Oct. 22 (AP)—French Union troops captured the deserted city of Phu Nho Quan today and stabbed into the nearby entrenchments of Vietminh division No. 320, only to find their quarry had fled.

A French army spokesman said there was "no major contact" in this phase of an offensive launched south of the French-held Red River Delta a week ago.

The Vietminh division, rated as one of the Communist-led rebels' best, retreated into the surrounding mountains as the French-Vietnamese troops and armored columns advanced.

Lad And His Dog Get Tired And Leave AWOL Stepfather

RICHMOND, Ind., Oct. 22 (AP)—A 12-year-old schoolboy and his dog, tired of eight days of rambling with his AWOL stepfather, were on their way home to Alamorgordo, N. M., today.

The Red Cross and military authorities got on the trail of Sgt. Richard Farmer, 32, and his stepson, Billy, after the boy slipped away to a telephone and called his mother.

A filling station attendant in Dublin, Ind., 20 miles west of Richmond, overheard the boy's frantic long distance call to Alamorgordo and called police.

Farmer was taken to Ft. Benjamin Harrison at Indianapolis as an AWOL from Holloman Air Force Base, N. M. Mrs. Lee Cogswell, a Red Cross worker, took Billy and his fox terrier, Snowball, to her home.

"He said he wasn't hungry," Mrs. Cogswell said today, "but he ate grapefruit, cereal, two pieces of toast, an egg, drank some milk and cocoa and finished up with cookies.

'He didn't have a thing for himself, but he had a can of dog food in his pocket."

Before Mrs. Cogswell put Billy on a train yesterday, he went to see his stepfather. But first Billy went to the family car to get another can of dog food and a can of flea powder.

Snowball will be a day later arriving. He had to go on another train and in an orange crate.

Fate Of Korea Armistice Now Rests On Move

Anti-Red Soldiers Are Believed Ready To Make Decision

PANMUNJOM, Friday, Oct. 23 (AP)—Defiant North Korean prisoners may decide today whether to end a sitdown against Communist explanation teams—a decision on which the fate of the armistice may rest.

After a week of silent brooding, the stubborn Korean anti-Reds were believed ready to tell their Indian guards whether they were willing to listen to Communists trying to return them to Red rule.

If the answer is "yes," it will be a resounding triumph for Indian patience and will go far toward a peaceful completion late in December of the explanation period.

Could Mean Breakup

If the answer is "no," it could lead to a breakup of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission, a mass breakout of the prisoners, and to a new and unfathomable military-political crisis.

The Communists Thursday ended their boycott of the commission, but not their demand that the prisoners be forced to listen. And their propaganda outlets showed nervousness over the situation.

One Peiping broadcast asserted that President Syngman Rhee "has called up powerful forces, including tanks, planes and artillery" to rescue the prisoners if they are compelled to attend explanations.

Another broadcast said the "crucial question" was whether Indian guards "will take up the challenge thrown down by ringleaders in the prison camps." It was an implied call to India to use force.

Peiping repeated its familiar charge that South Korean and Nationalist Chinese "agents" in the camps were using terror tactics to keep prisoners from going to the explanation tents.

No exact hour was set for the North Koreans reply. It is possible it might come early since today's meeting of the Repatriation Commission is set for 10 a.m. (8 p.m. Thursday, EST).

Will Seek Interviews

It is almost certain that the Communist members—the Czechs and the Poles—will press again for interviews with the North Korean prisoners.

If at all possible the Indian chairman, Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, would like to announce a peaceful ending of the dangerous North Korean holdout at that time. But there was no absolute guarantee that the answer would come at all.

Soviet Menace Not Imminent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP) — Adm. Robert Carney, Navy member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said today the Soviet atomic menace is "definite but not imminent."

He made that comment in replying to questions at a National Press Club luncheon. The admiral was asked whether he thought the Russians have the capability of producing hydrogen weapons.

"If we can do it, there is no reason to believe the Soviets can't do it," Carney replied.

Carney emphasized the growing menace of the Russian naval forces, including the submarine fleet. He mentioned that the United States now has developed a method of firing guided missiles from submarines and said, again, that if Americans can do it the Russians must be presumed to have the same ability.

He said the "possibilities of submarines are unfolding so fast that it is almost impossible to keep track of them."

Carney said he has recommended building or at least designing, still more atomic submarines.

Gov. McKeldin Asks Leniency For Israel

CLEVELAND, Oct. 22 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin of Maryland tonight asked American diplomats not to be too harsh with Israel in its scrapes with neighboring countries and the United Nations.

Secretary of State Dulles announced yesterday the United States would hold up economic aid slated for Israel. He said the Israeli government had defied the U. N. by continuing work on a hydroelectric project in the Jordan River.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22 (AP) — City Comptroller J. Neil McCardell charged by a grand jury with fraud in a city off-street parking probe, said today he has no intention of resigning his job.

"I was elected by the people of Baltimore and I have a duty and obligation to them until my innocence is eatablished by the courts," he told a reporter.

Meanwhile, indictments were being drawn up against the comptroller and nine other persons named yesterday in presentments which followed an 11-week probe.

Strike Stalls London

LONDON, Oct. 22 (AP)—A wildcat strike of 2,600 tank truck drivers tonight dried up London's gasoline supply and stalled traffic for miles around London.

U. S. Soldiers Had Moments Of Fun In Red POW Camps

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Being a prisoner of war in Korea obviously was a grim experience. But since Americans are what they are, there were moments of fun, too.

Lt. Ray M. Dowe Jr. learned this the hard way, by spending 34 dreary months as a prisoner of the Communists. The months seemed especially long for him, for when he was shipped to Korea he left behind a bride of 43 days.

But it was of some of the more pleasant experiences that Dowe fell to talking about today: The baseball games in which the balls were made of combat boot heels, and of the homemade dramas that kept the Communists in a dither.

Not that Dowe didn't have his grim period, too.

He's a West Point graduate, 26 years old. Yet he's so boyish and healthy looking it's hard to picture him as he once was so ailing of malnutrition that he's convinced he'd be a dead soldier today but for one thing:

When the negotiations began at Panmunjom, he said, the Communists changed their policy, and he was given adequate food at last.

"They also decided to permit prisoners to amuse themselves," Dowe said.

So the prisoners at his camp busily went to work making baseball equipment. As for the balls, they were made of boot heels, unravelled sweaters, pieces of parachutes, with boot tops for the cover. Bases were made, a diamond was laid out, bats were carved.

The POWs also were allowed to put on shows on special occasions, and these were Dowe's babies.

UN Increases Soviet's Share Of Upkeep Cost

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP) — Despite Russian protests, the U. N. voted today to increase Soviet bloc contributions to its upkeep and to reduce the U. S. share.

The vote in the 60-nation Budget Committee was 39 to 6, with 3 countries abstaining. The negative votes were cast by the five Iron Curtain countries and Cuba. The necessary two-thirds vote in the General Assembly thus seemed assured.

Under the new scale of charges, the United States will pay 33.3 per cent of the 42 million dollars to be raised from contributing countries. Last year it was 35 per cent. The Soviet share will be 14.15 per cent instead of 12.28 per cent. There were also small increases for White Russia, the Ukraine and Poland.

U. S. Chemist Shares Nobel

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 22 (AP)—Two German-born biochemists, one an American and the other a Briton, were awarded the 1953 Nobel prize for medicine and physiology jointly today for their discoveries concerning the basic life processes carried on within human cells.

Dr. Fritz Albert Lipmann, 54, professor of biochemistry at the Harvard Medical School, Cambridge, Mass., and Dr. Hans Adolph Krebs, 54, professor of biochemistry at Sheffield University, Sheffield, England, share the honors and a prize of 175,292 swedish crowns ($33,840).

Dr. Lipmann has devoted much of his career to studying the mechanisms of biosynthesis—how the body builds and renews itself out of the basic factors in food. From this came his discovery of co-enzyme A, an organic substance that plays an important part in nearly every biological process.

Dr. Krebs was cited for his explanation — variously called the Krebs cycle, the citric acid cycle and the wheel of fortune—of how food becomes energy in living tissue. This explanation provides a general background for the study of many problems of metabolic diseases.

The award was the 44th made by Stockholm's Caroline Institute of Medicine under the will of Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite. The winner last year was Dr. Selman A. Waksman of Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N. J., discoverer of the earth mold from which came the wonder drug streptomycin.

Potato Surplus Problem Is Aired

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Representatives of the potato industry discussed with Agriculture Department officials today the problem of a potato surplus and low prices.

Max Wilks, a shipper of Bakersfield, Calif., among about 20 attending the closed-door session, told reporters: "We have a surplus and we are trying to find a solution."

Commons Votes Confidence In Guiana Ouster

LONDON, Oct. 22 (AP)—The House of Commons tonight gave a clear-cut vote of confidence to the Churchill government for its action in suspending the constitution of British Guiana and ousting the government of leftist Premier Cheddi Jagan.

The House rejected, by a vote of 294-256, a labor amendment denouncing the government's move and then endorsed the Conservatives' action without a count.

The 38-vote margin was considered a decisive victory for the government of Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill which charged the Jagan government was plotting to set up South America's first Communist regime in the rich colony.

One spectator at the stormy five-hour debate which preceded the vote was Jagan himself, who flew to London to present his case. At a news conference the dapper East India-born dentist declared that the story of a plot was "invented" and challenged the government to arrest him if it believed he and his ministers had plotted to burn government buildings. He denied that his people's Progressive Party, which won 18 of the 24 seats in the colonial Assembly at the last election, was Communist, though he declared it definitely was not anti-Communist.

Colonial Secretary Oliver Lyttelton told the House the government was considering bringing several of the deposed ministers to trial on charges of plotting a campaign of arson. But he admitted there was difficulty in getting sufficient evidence as some "agents are unwilling for fear of intimidation to make written statements or give evidence in court."

He declared the British government had acted entirely on its own in dismissing the Jagan government and had not been urged to take action by the United States.

Churchill and Lyttelton directed the swift moves in the rich colony of rum, sugar and bauxite on Oct. 8 after British troops had been moved in as a precaution.

In their attack, Laborites called the government's action too drastic.

Sen. Kerr Strikes Out At Benson

PADUCAH, Tex., Oct. 22 (AP) — Sen. Kerr (D-Okla today said farm policies of Secretary of Agriculture Benson were ruining farmers and that "the administration should get a new secretary."

"If the administration continues to refuse to do this," Kerr said in a speech prepared for a Farmers Union gathering, "then the people should have—and will get—a new administration."

Dean Asks Leniency For Korean Traitors

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Maj. Gen. William F. Dean said today he has renewed his appeal to President Syngman Rhee for leniency for the South Koreans alleged to have helped bring about Dean's capture by Communist troops in 1950.

Humphrey States Tax Reductions Not Near

Defense Cuts May Balance Budget

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Oct. 22 (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey today declared the administration "can make no promises of any tax reductions at all" next year except the corporation excess profits and individual income taxes.

Humphrey told reporters that the federal budget cannot be balanced, even in fiscal 1955, unless there are "very substantial" cuts in national defense outlays.

The Treasury secretary spoke today at the opening of a three-day, closed meeting here of the Commerce Department's Business Advisory Council, made up of many of the nation's biggest industrial leaders.

Off The Record

His words to corporation chiefs were off the record, but he later told newsmen that the task of paring the 68 billion dollar federal budget has proved "very tough."

"We will have another deficit in 1955 unless we can very substantially reduce our military expenditures," he said.

Humphrey said that President Eisenhower's request last May for extension of the present 52 per cent corporation tax rate still stands, although the law calls for a 5 point reduction by April 1.

Humphrey and other officials, it was reported, assured the businessmen that the administration is striving mightily for a balanced budget in fiscal 1955, and for tax relief—but that the going is hard.

Though Humphrey spoke only in general terms, reliable informants said, he and other officials left the impression:

Grows More Difficult

1. It is growing more difficult by the day—because of inherited obligations and high defense costs to find savings substantial enough to make federal income match up with spending in the budget which President Eisenhower will send to Congress in January, covering the year starting next July 1.

2. The administration has not changed its view that tax relief be postponed until a balance is in sight.

3. The administration not only will ask Congress to extend the 52 per cent corporation tax rate scheduled to drop to 47 on April 1, as already announced, but may also resist any net drop in excise tax collections. Some of the high emergency excise rates are due to decline on the same date.

Storm Floods Toe Of Italy

REGGIO CALABRIA, Italy, Oct. 22 (AP)—Italian troops were rushed tonight to rescue work in the cloudburst-flooded toe of the Italian boot, where 60 bodies already have been recovered and the death toll may reach 200.

Public officials appealed for all aid possible. U. S. Navy helicopters may be flown in to help rescue flood victims. The U. S. embassy in Rome asked the government what aid it could offer. In some cases entire families were buried in the debris of their homes.

The disaster in the traditionally poverty-ridden tip of barren Calabria appeared likely to surpass the flood ruin there two years ago. It followed last week's North Italian floods which took 15 lives.

There was no way yet—with swirling floodwaters still rising and storm winds lashing the mountainous tip of Italy—to measure the full scope of the disaster. The damage spreads over 100 miles north from Reggio Calabria, on the tip of land opposite Sicily, to Cosenza, a third of the way to Naples.

Scores of villages housing thousands of persons were completely cut off from communication. Phone lines were down, bridges washed out and main roads buried by landslides. Rail lines were cut by avalanches and rising water.

Young Blasts "Vague" Farm Policy Of GOP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Sen. Milton R. Young (R-ND) today aimed a double blast at the Eisenhower administration in attacking what he described as its "vague" farm policy and its costly "give-away" foreign aid programs.

Both are highly unpopular in the Midwest, Young said.

Caustically applauding President Eisenhower's decision not to stump for Republican party members in state and congressional campaigns, Young said in a statement:

"It will help the Republicans greatly in the Midwest."

Eisenhower set forth his hands-off policy at his news conference yesterday, declaring he does not intend to use the presidency to help sway partisan elections.

However, Chairman Leonard W. Hall of the Republican National Committee said after a White House visit today he is certain the President will support the Republican party, in some degree, in next year's congressional campaign.

GOP leaders pointed out that the Republicans, now outnumbered by the Democrats 48-47 in the Senate and holding a bare majority in the House, can ill afford any losses in the 1954 congressional elections.

Sen. Young in a statement dictated to his office here, indicated he thought Eisenhower's no-campaign policy would be a boon—rather than a drawback—to GOP candidates in the Midwest farm belt.

As Young let fly with his critical barbs, there were these developments bearing on the farm situation:

1. The White House announced the President will confer at luncheon tomorrow with his top farm advisors, including Secretary Benson.

2. The President's National Agricultural Advisory Commission began a three-day closed session to consider recommendations for new farm law legislation. The group will meet with Eisenhower and Benson Saturday.

3. Benson and Agriculture Department officials conferred with representatives of the potato industry on the problem of a potato surplus and low prices.

4. The Agriculture Department announced its buying program to bolster sagging cattle prices reached a new peak this week, with the award of new contracts to buy 20,238,946 pounds of hamburger and canned beef.

Red Vietminh Army Flees French Troops

HANOI, Indochina, Oct. 22 (AP)—French Union troops captured the deserted city of Phu Nho Quan today and stabbed into the nearby entrenchments of Vietminh division No. 320, only to find their quarry had fled.

A French army spokesman said there was "no major contact" in this phase of an offensive launched south of the French-held Red River Delta a week ago.

The Vietminh division, rated as one of the Communist-led rebels' best, retreated into the surrounding mountains as the French-Vietnamese troops and armored columns advanced.

Lad And His Dog Get Tired And Leave AWOL Stepfather

RICHMOND, Ind., Oct. 22 (AP)—A 12-year-old schoolboy and his dog, tired of eight days of rambling with his AWOL stepfather, were on their way home to Alamorgordo, N. M., today.

The Red Cross and military authorities got on the trail of Sgt. Richard Farmer, 32, and his stepson, Billy, after the boy slipped away to a telephone and called his mother.

A filling station attendant in Dublin, Ind., 20 miles west of Richmond, overheard the boy's frantic long distance call to Alamorgordo and called police.

Farmer was taken to Ft. Benjamin Harrison at Indianapolis as an AWOL from Holloman Air Force Base, N. M. Mrs. Lee Cogswell, a Red Cross worker, took Billy and his fox terrier, Snowball, to her home.

"He said he wasn't hungry," Mrs. Cogswell said today, "but he ate grapefruit, cereal, two pieces of toast, an egg, drank some milk and cocoa and finished up with cookies.

'He didn't have a thing for himself, but he had a can of dog food in his pocket."

Before Mrs. Cogswell put Billy on a train yesterday, he went to see his stepfather. But first Billy went to the family car to get another can of dog food and a can of flea powder.

Snowball will be a day later arriving. He had to go on another train and in an orange crate.

Anti-Red Soldiers Are Believed Ready To Make Decision

PANMUNJOM, Friday, Oct. 23 (AP)—Defiant North Korean prisoners may decide today whether to end a sitdown against Communist explanation teams—a decision on which the fate of the armistice may rest.

After a week of silent brooding, the stubborn Korean anti-Reds were believed ready to tell their Indian guards whether they were willing to listen to Communists trying to return them to Red rule.

If the answer is "yes," it will be a resounding triumph for Indian patience and will go far toward a peaceful completion late in December of the explanation period.

Could Mean Breakup

If the answer is "no," it could lead to a breakup of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission, a mass breakout of the prisoners, and to a new and unfathomable military-political crisis.

The Communists Thursday ended their boycott of the commission, but not their demand that the prisoners be forced to listen. And their propaganda outlets showed nervousness over the situation.

One Peiping broadcast asserted that President Syngman Rhee "has called up powerful forces, including tanks, planes and artillery" to rescue the prisoners if they are compelled to attend explanations.

Another broadcast said the "crucial question" was whether Indian guards "will take up the challenge thrown down by ringleaders in the prison camps." It was an implied call to India to use force.

Peiping repeated its familiar charge that South Korean and Nationalist Chinese "agents" in the camps were using terror tactics to keep prisoners from going to the explanation tents.

No exact hour was set for the North Koreans reply. It is possible it might come early since today's meeting of the Repatriation Commission is set for 10 a.m. (8 p.m. Thursday, EST).

Will Seek Interviews

It is almost certain that the Communist members—the Czechs and the Poles—will press again for interviews with the North Korean prisoners.

If at all possible the Indian chairman, Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, would like to announce a peaceful ending of the dangerous North Korean holdout at that time. But there was no absolute guarantee that the answer would come at all.

Soviet Menace Not Imminent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP) — Adm. Robert Carney, Navy member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said today the Soviet atomic menace is "definite but not imminent."

He made that comment in replying to questions at a National Press Club luncheon. The admiral was asked whether he thought the Russians have the capability of producing hydrogen weapons.

"If we can do it, there is no reason to believe the Soviets can't do it," Carney replied.

Carney emphasized the growing menace of the Russian naval forces, including the submarine fleet. He mentioned that the United States now has developed a method of firing guided missiles from submarines and said, again, that if Americans can do it the Russians must be presumed to have the same ability.

He said the "possibilities of submarines are unfolding so fast that it is almost impossible to keep track of them."

Carney said he has recommended building or at least designing, still more atomic submarines.

Gov. McKeldin Asks Leniency For Israel

CLEVELAND, Oct. 22 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin of Maryland tonight asked American diplomats not to be too harsh with Israel in its scrapes with neighboring countries and the United Nations.

Secretary of State Dulles announced yesterday the United States would hold up economic aid slated for Israel. He said the Israeli government had defied the U. N. by continuing work on a hydroelectric project in the Jordan River.

Holy Land Truce Supervisor Says Situation Tense

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Vagn Bennike, U. N. truce supervisor in Palestine, said today on arrival for a report to the Security Council that the situation in the Holy Land is critically tense but not likely to cause a major conflict.

Bennike looked weary after a two-day flight. He expressed hope that the crisis could be solved at a "higher level." He said direct negotiations in the Holy Land would not produce results now because of retaliatory clashes between Jordan and Israel.

The truce supervisor probably will go before the Security Council Monday to give the delegates a full report.

His report may be delayed by a technical wrangle in the Security Council over an Arab proposal which would condemn Israel before the debate starts.

Top delegates of Lebanon, the sole Arab member of the Security Council, and Egypt, Syria, Iraq, Saudi Arabia and Yemen last night sent to the Council a request that this item be placed on the agenda of the council:

"Aggression by the armed forces of Israel upon Jordan at Kibya, Shukba and Budrus, which led to great destruction of property and slaughter of at least 66 innocent people on Oct. 14-15, 1953, in violation of Article 5, Paragraph 2, of the Jordan-Israel Armistice Agreement."

If the Council accepted an item for debate in that form it would mean a condemnation of Israel.

Soviets Given Radar Secrets

FT. MONMOUTH, N. J., Oct. 22 (AP)—U. S. Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) said today he had information that "top Soviet scientists" had acquired material from the super-secret Evans Radar Laboratory here.

McCarthy told a news conference his information came from an investigator, James Juliana, a former FBI agent, who returned a few hours ago from Germany and a talk with a German scientist.

"Juliana tells me the German scientist worked in three different laboratories in the Soviet zone," McCarthy said.

"He (the scientist) testified—gave a sworn statement—that while working with top Soviet scientists they freely talked of material they said came from Evans Laboratory.

"They bragged a number of times that they had access to material from the Evans Laboratory. They laughed at how the Americans would react if they knew how easily they obtained the information."

McCarthy said Juliana brought back a statement from the unidentified German scientist and a two-hour tape recording of his interrogation in German.

Woman Convicted As Baby Broker

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Mrs. Reve Walker, 41, College Park, Md., was convicted today of violating the District of Columbia baby brokerage law.

Sentencing was deferred for three weeks.

She was charged with acting as an agent in the unlawful sale or transfer of an 11-months-old baby girl last April.

U. S. Quits Weather-Sea-Air Rescue Program In Atlantic

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP)—The United States said today it is quitting the U. N.-sponsored weather report and air-sea rescue program in the North Atlantic. The decision came as a shock to international air officials and to operators of American transatlantic airlines.

The United States has supplied 14 of 25 ships used in relays to operate 10 "floating ocean stations" spotted along transatlantic air routes. They are credited with having saved hundreds of lives.

A U. S. letter to the International Civil Aviation Organization said the ships—Coast Guard vessels—would be withdrawn from the rescue stations by June 30 because the program cost more than it was worth.

However, State Department officials in Washington said cost was not necessarily the main factor in the decision to pull out. The ICAO said it cost the United States about $978,000 a year to operate each of the 14 ships.

The State Department said technical advances in aviation made it unnecessary to continue the constant weather checks.

The U. S. letter, signed by Harold A. Jones, U. S. representative to ICAO, said the United States "as the result of a survey just concluded has determined that the services provided by the ocean stations in the North Atlantic are no longer required by the United States and that the benefits derived by the United States are no longer commensurate with the cost."

7-Months-Old Baby Survives Heart Operation

SEATTLE, Oct. 22 (AP)—A 7-month-old baby, victim of a rare heart ailment, has survived an "impossible" operation and is apparently on the road to a normal healthy life.

Dr. Robert A. Tidwell of Children's Orthopedic Hospital, gave the details yesterday in the case of Jerrold Cole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Cole of Seattle.

Jerrold, born last Feb. 27, had a defect known as the infantile type of coarctation of the aorta, the large blood vessel carrying blood from the heart to the body.

Operations on adults had been successful, Dr. Tidwell said, but medical authorities had believed an operation of this type to be "impossible" on infants because the child either died of heart failure or succumbed under surgery.

New Federal Road Opens October 28th

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21 (AP)—Workmen have started installing special signs which will shunt traffic onto the new Baltimore - Washington Parkway starting Oct. 28.

That is the day the National Capital Park Service in Washington plans to open the first federal section of the 38-mile parkway.

It is also the day Baltimore hopes to open an elaborate new viaduct and expressway system which will connect the parkway with the south edge of downtown Baltimore.

City officials indicated today a last-minute hitch may hold up the opening of the Baltimore end.

The part to be opened by the federal government runs between Jessups Road (Maryland Route 175) and the Laurel-Bowie Road, a seven mile stretch.

In between it and Baltimore are the 11 miles of parkway which the Maryland State Roads Commission built and opened to traffic last Aug. 1.

The new reflectorred signs were necessary because the new highway facility will not carry a federal or state number, although it is a substitute for U.S. 1 between the two cities.

The Bureau of Public Roads said in Washington today it will be unable to complete any more of the parkway before bad weather sets in.

Jurist Succumbs

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22 (AP)—Judge Samuel Lasch of Baltimore's Orphans Court died last night a few minutes after he collapsed on a city street. He was 73.

Deadly Chemical Still Not Moved

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—The White House turned down a plea by Sen. Clements (D-Ky) for urgent federal action to dispose of 45,000 gallons of dangerous chemicals stored at Horse Cave, Ky.

Instead Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams had the Army send Gov. Wetherby of Kentucky "the names of chemical companies which are willing to undertake such disposal."

The chemical, arsenic trichloride, is stored in tank cars on a railroad siding and residents of the area are alarmed over danger to the community from leakage.

Community officials have said that moisture would react on the chemicals and produce deadly hydrochloric acid fumes and arsenic oxide. Clements told President Eisenhower yesterday that residents of the town were "in mortal danger."

The Army sold the chemical some time ago to a firm which has since gone out of business. Local authorities at first asked the Army to help dispose of the chemical. When the Army refused, Clements telegraphed President Eisenhower an appeal to intervene.

Adams, acting for the President, replied that the chemical is privately owned, and "we are advised that the federal government has no authority to take back or dispose of this acid."

The 35 circuses which operated in the United States in 1952 drew a record audience of more than 35 million persons.

Schreiber Elected West Berlin Mayor

BERLIN, Oct. 22 (AP)—Control of West Berlin's government shifted from the Socialists to the conservatives today, but all factions pledged unity on one issue—a common front against communism.

The City Parliament elected Dr. Walther Schreiber, 69, a Christian Democrat, as lord mayor to succeed Socialist Ernst Reuter, who died of a heart attack Sept. 29. He will serve until the next municipal election in December, 1954.

CARE OF WALL TO WALL CARPETING

To maintain the new appearance of carpeting, experience proves that spots should be removed as they appear rather than doing an over-all cleaning job once or twice each year.

There is available a foam cleaner that does not leave rings when removing spots since it contains no naphtha or solvents. The use of this foam when spots appear, preserves the new appearance and life of carpeting. This cleaner known as Fina Foam may be purchased at ROSENBAUM'S.

How the CROSLEY Picture-Sentry gives you true-to-life pictures

In the studio—cameras pick up perfect image. Diagram represents television wave pattern as it appears on engineer's oscilloscope.

But outside interference—a passing truck, a neighbor's vacuum cleaner—can distort TV waves. Such interference scrambles the wave pattern like this.

Crosley Picture-Sentry (an advanced electronic circuit) controls TV wave pattern; guards against scrambling. The image on your '54 Crosley stays as clear, sharp, true to life...as in the studio.

Holy Land Truce Supervisor Says Situation Tense

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Vagn Bennike, U. N. truce supervisor in Palestine, said today on arrival for a report to the Security Council that the situation in the Holy Land is critically tense but not likely to cause a major conflict.

Bennike looked weary after a two-day flight. He expressed hope that the crisis could be solved at a "higher level." He said direct negotiations in the Holy Land would not produce results now because of retaliatory clashes between Jordan and Israel.

The truce supervisor probably will go before the Security Council Monday to give the delegates a full report.

His report may be delayed by a technical wrangle in the Security Council over an Arab proposal which would condemn Israel before the debate starts.

Top delegates of Lebanon, the sole Arab member of the Security Council, and Egypt, Syria, Iraq, Saudi Arabia and Yemen last night sent to the Council a request that this item be placed on the agenda of the council:

"Aggression by the armed forces of Israel upon Jordan at Kibya, Shukba and Budrus, which led to great destruction of property and slaughter of at least 66 innocent people on Oct. 14-15, 1953, in violation of Article 5, Paragraph 2, of the Jordan-Israel Armistice Agreement."

If the Council accepted an item for debate in that form it would mean a condemnation of Israel.

Soviets Given Radar Secrets

FT. MONMOUTH, N. J., Oct. 22 (AP)—U. S. Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) said today he had information that "top Soviet scientists" had acquired material from the super-secret Evans Radar Laboratory here.

McCarthy told a news conference his information came from an investigator, James Juliana, a former FBI agent, who returned a few hours ago from Germany and a talk with a German scientist.

"Juliana tells me the German scientist worked in three different laboratories in the Soviet zone," McCarthy said.

"He (the scientist) testified—gave a sworn statement—that while working with top Soviet scientists they freely talked of material they said came from Evans Laboratory.

"They bragged a number of times that they had access to material from the Evans Laboratory. They laughed at how the Americans would react if they knew how easily they obtained the information."

McCarthy said Juliana brought back a statement from the unidentified German scientist and a two-hour tape recording of his interrogation in German.

Woman Convicted As Baby Broker

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Mrs. Reve Walker, 41, College Park, Md., was convicted today of violating the District of Columbia baby brokerage law.

Sentencing was deferred for three weeks.

She was charged with acting as an agent in the unlawful sale or transfer of an 11-months-old baby girl last April.

U. S. Quits Weather-Sea-Air Rescue Program In Atlantic

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP)—The United States said today it is quitting the U. N.-sponsored weather report and air-sea rescue program in the North Atlantic. The decision came as a shock to international air officials and to operators of American transatlantic airlines.

The United States has supplied 14 of 25 ships used in relays to operate 10 "floating ocean stations" spotted along transatlantic air routes. They are credited with having saved hundreds of lives.

A U. S. letter to the International Civil Aviation Organization said the ships—Coast Guard vessels—would be withdrawn from the rescue stations by June 30 because the program cost more than it was worth.

However, State Department officials in Washington said cost was not necessarily the main factor in the decision to pull out. The ICAO said it cost the United States about $978,000 a year to operate each of the 14 ships.

The State Department said technical advances in aviation made it unnecessary to continue the constant weather checks.

The U. S. letter, signed by Harold A. Jones, U. S. representative to ICAO, said the United States "as the result of a survey just concluded has determined that the services provided by the ocean stations in the North Atlantic are no longer required by the United States and that the benefits derived by the United States are no longer commensurate with the cost."

7-Months-Old Baby Survives Heart Operation

SEATTLE, Oct. 22 (AP)—A 7-month-old baby, victim of a rare heart ailment, has survived an "impossible" operation and is apparently on the road to a normal healthy life.

Dr. Robert A. Tidwell of Children's Orthopedic Hospital, gave the details yesterday in the case of Jerrold Cole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Cole of Seattle.

Jerrold, born last Feb. 27, had a defect known as the infantile type of coarctation of the aorta, the large blood vessel carrying blood from the heart to the body.

Operations on adults had been successful, Dr. Tidwell said, but medical authorities had believed an operation of this type to be "impossible" on infants because the child either died of heart failure or succumbed under surgery.

New Federal Road Opens October 28th

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21 (AP)—Workmen have started installing special signs which will shunt traffic onto the new Baltimore - Washington Parkway starting Oct. 28.

That is the day the National Capital Park Service in Washington plans to open the first federal section of the 38-mile parkway.

It is also the day Baltimore hopes to open an elaborate new viaduct and expressway system which will connect the parkway with the south edge of downtown Baltimore.

City officials indicated today a last-minute hitch may hold up the opening of the Baltimore end.

The part to be opened by the federal government runs between Jessups Road (Maryland Route 175) and the Laurel-Bowie Road, a seven mile stretch.

In between it and Baltimore are the 11 miles of parkway which the Maryland State Roads Commission built and opened to traffic last Aug. 1.

The new reflectorred signs were necessary because the new highway facility will not carry a federal or state number, although it is a substitute for U.S. 1 between the two cities.

The Bureau of Public Roads said in Washington today it will be unable to complete any more of the parkway before bad weather sets in.

Jurist Succumbs

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22 (AP)—Judge Samuel Lasch of Baltimore's Orphans Court died last night a few minutes after he collapsed on a city street. He was 73.

Deadly Chemical Still Not Moved

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—The White House turned down a plea by Sen. Clements (D-Ky) for urgent federal action to dispose of 45,000 gallons of dangerous chemicals stored at Horse Cave, Ky.

Instead Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams had the Army send Gov. Wetherby of Kentucky "the names of chemical companies which are willing to undertake such disposal."

The chemical, arsenic trichloride, is stored in tank cars on a railroad siding and residents of the area are alarmed over danger to the community from leakage.

Community officials have said that moisture would react on the chemicals and produce deadly hydrochloric acid fumes and arsenic oxide. Clements told President Eisenhower yesterday that residents of the town were "in mortal danger."

The Army sold the chemical some time ago to a firm which has since gone out of business. Local authorities at first asked the Army to help dispose of the chemical. When the Army refused, Clements telegraphed President Eisenhower an appeal to intervene.

Adams, acting for the President, replied that the chemical is privately owned, and "we are advised that the federal government has no authority to take back or dispose of this acid."

The 35 circuses which operated in the United States in 1952 drew a record audience of more than 35 million persons.

Schreiber Elected West Berlin Mayor

BERLIN, Oct. 22 (AP)—Control of West Berlin's government shifted from the Socialists to the conservatives today, but all factions pledged unity on one issue—a common front against communism.

The City Parliament elected Dr. Walther Schreiber, 69, a Christian Democrat, as lord mayor to succeed Socialist Ernst Reuter, who died of a heart attack Sept. 29. He will serve until the next municipal election in December, 1954.

CARE OF WALL TO WALL CARPETING

To maintain the new appearance of carpeting, experience proves that spots should be removed as they appear rather than doing an over-all cleaning job once or twice each year.

There is available a foam cleaner that does not leave rings when removing spots since it contains no naphtha or solvents. The use of this foam when spots appear, preserves the new appearance and life of carpeting. This cleaner known as Fina Foam may be purchased at ROSENBAUM'S.

How the CROSLEY Picture-Sentry gives you true-to-life pictures

In the studio—cameras pick up perfect image. Diagram represents television wave pattern as it appears on engineer's oscilloscope.

But outside interference—a passing truck, a neighbor's vacuum cleaner—can distort TV waves. Such interference scrambles the wave pattern like this.

Crosley Picture-Sentry (an advanced electronic circuit) controls TV wave pattern; guards against scrambling. The image on your '54 Crosley stays as clear, sharp, true to life... as in the studio.

U. S., Britain At Odds During French Invasion

NEW YORK, Oct. 22 (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill says "the first important divergence on high strategy" between the United States and Britain in World War II came over taking strong Allied forces from the Italian front for use in a landing in southern France.

Sir Winston said he favored maintaining heavy forces in Italy for a drive northward toward Vienna and the Balkans.

Roosevelt Disagreed

President Roosevelt, he added, disagreed and almost 100,000 Allied troops were withdrawn from Italy for the landing in southern France. As a result, Sir Winston says:

"Italy was not to be wholly free until May 2, 1945; the right-handed drive to Vienna was denied to us; and, except in Greece, our military power to influence the liberation of southeastern Europe was gone."

Life Magazine, out today, publishes the first installment of "Triumph and Tragedy," the sixth and final volume of the Nobel Prize-winning memoirs of the wartime and present British Prime Minister.

It traces World War II from Operation Overlord, the Allied landings in Normandy on June 6, 1944, to the final surrender of the enemy 14 months later.

Sir Winston said the landing in the south of France "was originally conceived as a feint or threat to keep German troops on the Riviera and stop them joining the battles in Normandy, but the Americans in Cairo had pressed for a real attack by 10 divisions and at Tehran Stalin had supported them."

After Rome fell June 4, 1944, Sir Winston said the use of the Allied forces in Italy and the Mediterranean had to be revived.

"The American chiefs of staff . . . condemned what they called the 'commitment of Mediterranean resources to large-scale operations in northern Italy and into the Balkans,'" Churchill says. "Our own chiefs of staff took the opposite view."

Churchill appealed to President Roosevelt, who replied:

"'I cannot agree to the employment of United States troops . . . into the Balkans, nor can I see the French agreeing to such use of French troops. . . . For purely political considerations over here, I should never survive even a slight setback in 'Overlord' if it were known that fairly large forces had been diverted to the Balkans."

Attack Was Ordered

An attack on the south of France was ordered for Aug. 15, and the 5th Army in Italy was reduced from nearly 250,000 men to 153,000 by the shift.

"But I saw the effect of this depletion of our forces in Italy for myself. On Aug. 19, while I was visiting the front in that theater, Mark Clark received me at his headquarters. In our friendly and confidential talks I realized how painful the tearing to pieces of this fine army had been to those who controlled it. The general seemed embittered that his army had been robbed of what he thought—and I could not disagree—was a great opportunity . . .

"A very little more, half what had been taken from us and we could have broken into the valley of the Po, with all the gleaming possibilitizes which lay open towards Vienna."

United Nations Day

Saturday is United Nations Day, the eighth anniversary of the day when the U. N. charter became effective. The Soviet Union deposited its document of ratification on October 24, 1945, by which time the other four veto-power states, also a majority of the original 51 members, had already made their ratifications official.

The way had been paved for the charter in the late summer and fall of 1944 by conferences at Dumbarton Oaks in Washington, first between the Americans, British and Russians, then between the Americans, British and Chinese. The charter itself was drawn up at the two-months' conference in San Francisco in April-June, 1945.

Admission to U. N. is by vote of the General Assembly on recommendation of the Security Council, with the veto power effective. In addition to the original 51 members, nine states have become members. A dozen important states are not members: Austria, Bulgaria, East Germany, Eire, Finland, Hungary, Italy, Japan, Portugal, Romania, Spain, West Germany.

However widely individuals may disagree today on U. N. all persons must agree that it it has so far failed to fulfill the high hopes vested in it eight years ago. President Truman predicted that the Allies (the war against Japan was still on) would always remain united in the United Nations. James F. Byrnes, then U. S. secretary of State, called October 24, 1945 "a memorable day for the peace-loving peoples of all nations," and John Foster Dulles, the present secretary of State, called the charter a "greater Magna Carta."

The late Senator Vandenberg, admitting that the charter had "infirmities," argued that it was a "sound basis for seeking organized peace." And the late Senator Taft, while contending that the veto power reduced the U. N. to a consultative body, agreed that consultation could be a deterrent to war.

Israel's Borders

Israel's border conflicts with Jordan and with Syria are pointing up the acute disquiet between Israel and its Arab neighbors that has existed virtually since armistice agreements were negotiated under United Nations supervision in the spring of 1949.

These general agreements established borders which basically followed the division of territory that had been achieved by military operations. Israel gained an area almost one-third larger than that to which the Jewish state would have been entitled under the U. N. partition plan of November 1947, with de facto authority over three-fourths of Palestine. Jordan occupied the east-central district of Palestine and formally annexed that territory in April 1950. Egypt retained military control over the small Gaza strip on the southwest coast.

The U. N. Security Council in 1951 helped to end fighting in the Israel-Syrian demilitarized zone, but relations between the two states remained severely strained thereafter. The 1951 hostilities had erupted after an Israeli land development company refused to suspend drainage activities in the Huleh marshes.

The border dispute between Israel and Jordan dates back to the flight of Arab Palestinian refugees into Jordan-held territory beginning in 1947. Reasons for the mass exodus remains a matter of bitter controversy.

Prime Minister Ben-Gurion of Israel now maintains that the recent attack on the Jordanian village of Kibya had been provoked by years of raids by Arab refugees across the border into Israel. "If, in the reprisal raid on Kibya, innocent blood was spilled, all the responsibility," Ben-Gurion said in a broadcast on October 19, "rests with the Jordan government, which for years has tolerated, and thereby encouraged, acts of murder and pillage against inhabitants of Israel." An Israeli army spokesman had broadcast on the previous day the charge that 421 Israelis had been killed on the border with Jordan since 1950.

Israel has openly offered to make peace with individual Arab states, though it would prefer to negotiate on a bilateral basis. Negotiations with Jordan in 1951 were frustrated by the threat of expulsion of Jordan from the Arab League, which opposes conclusion of a separate peace by any Arab state.

If a solution of Arab-Israel difficulties is to materialize in the foreseeable future, it appears that the initiative will have to come from outside the Middle East. U. N. action thus far has produced little more than stalemate. The U. S. note to Israel on the Kibya incident called the attack "shocking," and this country threatens to withhold financial aid to Israel until Israel stops diverting water from the Jordan.

On March 22, after conferring with Jewish leaders, President Eisenhower had announced the intention of the United States "to use its best offices to bring about peace in the Middle East." And the 1952 Republican platform had pledged the party to promote peace between Israel and the Arab states and to cooperate "to bring economic and social stability to that area."

Give Them The Hot Seat

Investigations of the Senate subcommittee headed by Senator McCarthy have turned up something really big at Fort Monmouth, N. J. The government should not rest until those involved have been sent to the electric chair.

Briefly, that something was amiss at Fort Monmouth, the Army's Signal Corps center, first came to light in 1951. A number of top secret Army Signal Corps documents were missing, and civilian employes at Fort Monmouth petitioned the Army to investigate. The Army assigned an officer to the job, and he worked a full year on it.

Not only did he discover that documents, including radar secrets, were missing, but the vital logs, which should have indicated the disposition of the documents, had also been destroyed. Destruction of the logs was unprecedented, and the officer noted that this would be the logical move made by anyone trying to cover up the thefts.

But, apparently, the Army took no action until the McCarthy committee moved in. Questioning of witnesses by the committee in executive session in New York has revealed, according to Senator McCarthy, that at least one civilian Army employe had been closely associated with the executed atom spy, Julius Rosenberg, who was an employe at Fort Monmouth in 1951. The senator says the results of his investigation definitely point to espionage, and that some of the documents turned up in the East Zone of Germany.

The American people can only wonder how many of the nation's vital communications secrets have been passed to enemy hands. Certainly the Department of Justice should move into this case and ask for indictments.

How To Keep Well

Undercurrents In Asthma

Relief of an asthmatic attack with epinephrine is a dramatic affair. Most of these bouts occur at night and when the physician enters the sickroom diagnosis is easy because of the typical gasping inspirations and wheezing expirations. The sufferer usually is leaning forward on a table or sitting in bed with the legs crossed and the elbows on the knees. He can't talk and obviously needs help quickly. Within a few minutes after receiving an injection, wheezing becomes less noticeable, coughing starts, and as soon as the tenacious sputum is dislodged he begins to breathe easier.

Not every siege is eased this rapidly; now and then a second injection is needed. In the severe asthmatic, the medicine may fail to relieve the condition. In the past some of these patients had to be sent to a more favorable climate as a life saving measure. A patient of mine always went to Arizona where she felt better the moment she stepped off the train. Nowadays these stubborn cases are given ACTH or cortisone, which rarely fails to bring improvement.

Bronchial asthma is a form of allergy in which there is sensitivity to something eaten, inhaled, or touched. These irritants must be avoided for prevention but before this can be done the culprits must be discovered. Skin tests are of value for this purpose when the offenders are inhaled or touched but are unreliable so far as foods are concerned. Dietary factors are uncovered via the elimination diet but a particular item need not be kept off the menus for more than three weeks if no improvement ensues. When food is responsible the asthmatic feels better when he avoids it and develops symptoms after eating it.

The nervous aspect of allergy enters the picture when all the tests, trials, and desensitizing agents fail to control the condition. In such instances there is a possibility that feelings of fear, anger, guilt, or rejection are playing a role in precipitating the attacks. These persons, in addition to their asthma, often have fatigue, headache, or indigestion. They are discouraged, confused, or uncertain about life in general. In the long run they do better with a psychiatrist than with epinephrine, ACTH, or cortisone.

Another question that confronts the asthmatic is whether infection is to blame. The likelihood is good that it is if the bout develops at a time when the throat is red or the sinuses are acutely inflamed. In the circumstances, the asthmatic coughs up purulent material and the secretions from the nose are thick rather than watery. Many have fever or unmistakable signs of a cold at this time. When this combination exists the disorder responds to the wonder drugs because of their effect on the causative organisms. However, it is well for all asthmatics to remember that because of their allergies they ought not to take penicillin or any other antibiotic for more than two or three days unless the desired results are being obtained.

STOOP SHOULDERED

Mrs. K. writes: My 13-year-old daughter is extremely round shouldered. It doesn't do any good to keep telling her to straighten up. Do you think braces would do any good?

REPLY

Braces help, and occasionally plaster of Paris casts are used. Why not have your family physician see the girl? He may be able to impress her with the need for good posture, not only from the standpoint of appearance but of health. In addition, he can determine whether a defect is responsible for her faulty posture.

IT'S WITHIN

R.C. writes: What is an intrinsic allergy?

REPLY

This type of allergy develops because of something from within; some factor that the victim carries around with him. It differs from the extrinsic type resulting from the inhalation of pollens or dusts or the swallowing of irritating foods or drugs.

DISCOLORED NAIL

W. D. writes: The nail on my right big toe has turned black and a shoe salesman tells me that short, narrow shoes are responsible. I wondered if the nail should be taken off.

REPLY

If the shoe man is correct, buy larger shoes and let the nail grow out by itself.

CRACKED HEELS

L. P. writes: My heels are always splitting. What causes this condition?

REPLY

Thickness and dryness are the most common causes. Soaking the feet in warm water nightly and applying cream containing lanolin or other oily substances will discourage cracks and fissures.

BIG BABIES

Mrs. F. writes: Why do some women deliver "outsize" infants?

REPLY

Like begets like, and big people have big babies. Other causes of oversized infants are delayed delivery and diabetes in the mother.

Adlai Jokes About Reported Romance With Margaret Truman; Texas Judge Issues Court Order For Dulles; Joe McCarthy's Right About Leaks

WASHINGTON—Mike Di Salle, the ex-price administrator, was talking to Adlai Stevenson, the ex-candidate for President.

"If you're seen so much with Margaret Truman," chided Di Salle, "people are going to start talking."

"I hope they do," replied Adlai.

Texas-Go-Round

John Foster Dulles outfoxed a federal judge when he flew to London instead of going with Ike to the Mexican border. U. S. District Judge Ben Rice had issued an order for Dulles to appear in federal court October 19—the date Eisenhower dedicated the Falcon Dam—and "show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court for failure to obey the order of this court of June 5, 1953." . . . The order of June 5 required Dulles to admit Kok Jon Gong, an American citizen of Chinese ancestry, barred by the U. S. consul in Hong Kong from coming to testify at his own citizenship hearing . . . . Dulles had expected to go to Falcon Dam and a U. S. marshal expected to serve him. But Dulles flew to London to see Churchill instead . . . . The Kok Jon Gong case is important because it sets a precedent for Americans of Chinese ancestry; which was why Judge Rice took the unusual step of citing the secretary of state for possible contempt . . . . The 24-room mansion in which Governor Shivers entertained the Eisenhowers was built by the former regional public works administrator under Roosevelt. John H. Shary, father-in-law of Governor Shivers, built the mansion to house Iowa-Nebraska prospects who came on special trains to buy land. Shary was a big real estate promoter; also spent millions for PWA. Some of it didn't do the Shary properties any harm.

Signal Corps Leaks

Joe McCarthy will almost drop dead when he reads this, but in my opinion he is absolutely right in probing the leak of Signal Corps radar secrets at Fort Monmouth, N. J. Furthermore he is absolutely right in saying that the leaks go back about 10 years. Actually they go back even further.

Joe has forgotten it, but three years ago I testified before a Senate committee that 12 drawers of irreplaceable records giving the dates and details of radar development mysteriously disappeared from Fort Monmouth in 1946. The Army immediately issued a denial.

Entirely aside from the 12 drawers, there was also evidence of leaks to Russia, however, and I personally reported this to the Army and warned that one technician born in Russia working in the Signal Corps bore watching.

Six years ago — December 19, 1947—this column also published facts regarding the use of radar secrets by the Radio Corporation of America. RCA had no connection whatsoever with leaks to Soviet Russia, and I'm sure the last thing RCA officials would do would be to condone use of radar patents by the Communists. However, the pre-Pearl Harbor leak to RCA showed, first of all, sloppy security by the Signal Corps. Second, RCA proceeded to file application for radar patents in foreign countries, including prewar Japan, where they became available to foreign powers. At that time Radar was the most priceless secret the Army had.

What happened was that RCA hired one of the Signal Corps' top experts on radar, William D. Hershberger; then in 1937 proceeded to use some of the discoveries made by Hershberger for the Army and apply for radar patents in Japan and Australia. Patents were also filed in the U. S. Patent Office—all this at a time when Hitler was invading Austria and later Czechoslovakia, and when it was apparent to every competent newsman that war was inescapable.

The Signal Corps was so flabbergasted at RCA's action in using the Army-Hershberger secrets to file for radar patents, especially in Japan, then a potential enemy of the U.S.A., that some Signal Corps officers wanted to take action against RCA. It was believed, however, that such action would only serve to spotlight the importance of the sensational new discovery whereby an electronic eye could detect invisible shapes in the distance. So the Signal Corps delayed action.

After the war was over, however, Maj. Gen. Harry Ingles, then chief of the Signal Corps, wrote RCA protesting that it had violated not only the Army's radar patent, but also security, by applying for radar patents in foreign countries. To use the official words of the Army:

"Gen. Ingles . . . . wrote RCA authorities expressing a belief in government rights to the impulse generator patents; pointing out that there was some question of violation of security in that the impulse generator applications had been distributed to foreign affiliates of RCA, and that it appeared information contained in the impulse generator applications was similar to secret information to which Mr. Hershberger might have had access while working in Signal Corps laboratories."

But suddenly General Ingles, author of this protest, went to work for RCA; after that the protest lapsed. It had already been sent to the Justice Department, however, where it was mulled over by Justice Department attorneys for some years. In the end nothing happened.

The Army has issued all sorts of alibis to condone and excuse its laxity and still seems to be issuing alibis. However, the important point is that the Signal Corps did not crack down on an American corporation for sending the most priceless military secret we had to Japan before the war, and hasn't prevented the leak of secrets to Russia since the war.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Oct. 22 (INS)—Dr. Irving Sherwood Wright, one of the world's foremost heart specialists, told a convention of top marketing executives last weekend that industry is needlessly depriving itself of countless thousands of heart disease sufferers who are willing and able to work.

"It's time that industry as a whole followed the lead of a few mature companies, and the pattern set by the army during the war, and reclaimed hundreds of thousands of fine workers now forcibly idle because ancient taboos discriminate against heart cases," Dr. Wright told the Marketing Executives Society meeting at the Greenbrier, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

"Industry must survey its job and decide how many must be filled only by fully able bodied people and how many could be filled by people sitting quietly at a desk.

"The army did a good job along these lines during the war. There is no reason why industry cannot do it now. Ten million persons suffer from heart disease in the United States today. About a third of these are, or were, in industry. A majority of these have been forced out of their jobs. Many have become public or semi-public charges. The loss they represent in man hours runs into the billions. There is a corresponding loss to the federal and state governments in taxes they no longer pay."

It is Dr. Wright's belief that most of these men and women could return to work. The "benched" heart sufferer, if he is the father of a family, represents the beginning of a disastrous chain reaction. His family's buying power is sharply curtailed. Its standard of living falls off. The children are not properly educated, fed, clothed and housed.

"But a mature company could find a job for such a man, a job wherein he could render many additional years of good service to the firm at no risk to his health," Dr. Wright emphatically told his listeners.

The past president of the New York Heart Association, and consultant to the Surgeon General of the Army, told the top executives that American industry was especially blind about the way it handled heart cases among the top echelon.

"One big company lost 27 key men to heart disease last year," he said. "Most of them are on the sidelines today. A majority could be back at work more than earning their incomes. It took that company as many as 20 years to train some of these men. Relieved of details and executive pressures, these men have years of good work left in them. Many could be even more productive in a quiet job than in the jobs that brought about their condition."

Dr. Wright called for a complete reevaluation of the American working man's physicial limitations, his retirement age, and other critical problems rising out of a steady increase in longevity.

"It won't be too long before the life expectancy nears the 100 mark," he said. "Obviously, we've got to do something about the practice of retiring people at 65. The world has already seen enough examples of the shortsightedness and intolerance of such a practice.

"Suppose Churchill had been forcibly retired at 65; could England have survived the war? Edison was vastly productive after 65, so are Bernard Baruch, Toscanini, MacArthur, Herbert Hoover and so many others. The world moves on and man keeps pace. In the time of the Medicis a man who survived to the age of 30 considered himself blessed. In George Washington's age the life expectancy of an American was 32, and by 1900 only 42. We've increased it to just under 70 years, and it gets better every year.

"The longer people live, the more heart trouble there will be," concluded the brilliant specialist. "We must cope with this, extend the work of the New York Heart Association—which was the first to make a study of what kind of job a heart sufferer could successfully handle. For the good of the nation, we've got to put a stop to this wanton waste of experienced manpower."

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Monmouth Ring

When the whole story of the Monmouth spy ring is disclosed, a case not dissimilar to the Rosenberg spy apparatus activities for the theft of the atom bomb will be disclosed. And again, it will be shown that the center of the apparatus was Julius Rosenberg, who seems to have been more active than the evidence in his trial disclosed. Thus far, no evidence has been adduced as to who was Rosenberg's boss, which is important as he may still be on the job. The general pattern of such an apparatus as Rosenberg managed calls for a Russian as the directing head.

The staff of the McCarthy Committee stumbled on the Monmouth case in the course of probing for spies in military establishments. At first, the data seemed unbelievable because phases of it were long known to other agencies and ignored.

When the investigation is completed, this is likely to be the story:

While Julius Rosenberg was recruiting a spy ring in Los Alamos, he was also recruiting a spy ring at Fort Monmouth. Actually, Rosenberg worked at Fort Monmouth. It will be shown that Rosenberg succeeded in recruiting clever young engineers, mainly graduates of the College of the City of New York. It will probably not be shown that all these persons were Communists, and this is important to note because not all spies have been Communist party members.

It will be shown that some of the radar material went to Soviet Russia as part of the war service, possibly under Lend-Lease. But some of it was taken after Lend-Lease ceased and after the "Cold War" started. The question that arises is whether private judgment can be tolerated even in matters affecting an ally. In a word, does the United States, as a government, present data or material to an ally, or is it done by an individual scientist or engineer covertly at his own discretion?

It will probably further be shown that a number of persons now employed at Fort Monmouth take the plea of the Fifth Amendment on the ground that to answer a question concerning present or past espionage against the United States would incriminate the employe of the Government of the United States.

It will be shown that the enforcement of security provisions was lax and that the system of promotion, while recognizing ability, ignored security.

The method employed by the McCarthy Committee in the Monmouth case is a response to the criticism that innocent persons are smeared by being called to testify. The mere act of testifying, even as a friendly witness, seems to cast doubt upon the integrity of the witness. In the public mind, he is guilty by association.

Therefore, all the Monmouth hearings are held in executive session, a report being made of the content of the testimony without reference to the names of witnesses. There has been only one breach of this rule thus far and it should not have happened. The method ought to be given a good try because friendly witnesses are the only true lead to the facts and they must be protected or they will not testify, preferring to risk the consequences of contempt. Not all the persons involved were spies or are unfriendly witnesses. Decency requires that judgment be withheld until testimony is taken at open hearings.

Furthermore, the testimony in closed sessions makes it possible for the investigators to have the entire picture before them in advance of open hearings, thus avoiding unnecessary and irrelevant questioning. Also, it saves expenses, a large item being stenographic costs, which are enormous.

The significance of the Monmouth spy ring is that a number of laboratories are situated at this fort which are used in experimental and development work in physics and electronics. Here radar is being developed into a major defensive weapon.

If the enemy is able to know in advance what our defensive means are, he can devise counter-defensive weapons and processes to offset any advantage that we may have. In a word, our defenses can be neutralized.

It is only natural that the Russians should engage in this kind of espionage; it ought to be routine that every possible procedure is constantly being employed to safeguard such work from spies, whether American or foreign. This apparently is what the McCarthy Committee is checking with some success.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower is beginning to handle himself at his press conferences more and more like a veteran. His offhand comments cover an amazing amount of information. When one considers the variety of subjects that are brought up by the correspondents, it is nothing short of remarkable that the man who spent so much of his life in the Army can now discuss so readily many of the fine points of purely civilian problems.

The President makes a slip now and then in names or places — as everyone does — but his responses to the questions asked by the reporters are always direct and without evasion.

Thus, the press conference on Wednesday of this week showed that the President is not only well aware of the farm problem but that he is considerably more frank in his discussion of it than a political person might normally be. When asked, for example, what impressions he gathered on his Western trip as to the attitude of the farmers, Mr. Eisenhower might have resorted to the usual political jargon, but he confessed frankly that a President traveling around the country doesn't always hear the unfavorable side and that what he did hear gave him the feeling that the problems were not insoluble and that the conscientious approach of the Administration was appreciated.

The complexities of agriculture aren't going to be resolved overnight, and the President is hopeful that intensive study by his new commission of agricultural experts will bring out facts and reports which will show the farmer that, while the short-range picture may present a squeeze, it's a long-range policy of fundamentally sound economics that has to be sought.

No State-Stumping

Perhaps the most important manifestation of Mr. Eisenhower's evolution in the presidential job came in his forthright statement in answer to a question as to whether he would participate in the Congressional election campaigns of next year. The President said he would not. He declared that he did not intend to make the Presidency an agency to be used in partisan elections. He added that anybody elected to the highest office in the land has the responsibility of developing an effective program and that, if this is successful, the candidates of his party have a real umbrella under which to operate. He meant, of course, that a good record by a Republican administration will aid a Republican Congressman or Senator in getting elected.

But, the President remarked, he has no intention of getting into partisan struggles in any district or in any state because he feels sure the people of such a district or state would resent it. How true Mr. Eisenhower's words are may be noted from looking back at what happened when the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt and his successor, Harry Truman, intervened unsuccessfully again and again not only in primary contests between Democrats but also when they issued a lot of letters for individual nominees of the Democratic Party asking that the people support them at the polls. Some were elected and some defeated — the presidential support was rarely conclusive.

Back in the days of the Republican administration of President William Howard Taft, the rule was to refrain from endorsing Congressional candidates, but previously President Theodore Roosevelt intervened in vain in his own state —New York—to try to get the late Henry Stimson elected Governor on the Republican ticket, and this act of intervention hurt rather than helped.

Must Stand On Record

Perhaps the most conspicuous example, however, of an ill-fated intervention by the White House occurred when the late President Wilson, in October 1918, publicly asked the country — just before World War I ended — to elect a Democratic Congress. Resentment was widespread and both houses went Republican.

The spectacle of a President of the United States becoming a political partisan is something that isn't liked by the people, and certainly a President who tries to elect certain representatives and senators of his party opens up an area of resentment that injures his own prestige. Mr. Eisenhower is right — if he makes a bad record, no amount of letter-writing or campaigning will be of help to his party's nominees, whereas if he makes a good record the Republican Party will be helped all along the line. So Mr. Eisenhower is going to concentrate on making as good a record as he can and leave partisan politics to his party managers and the candidates themselves.

United Nations Day

Saturday is United Nations Day, the eighth anniversary of the day when the U. N. charter became effective. The Soviet Union deposited its document of ratification on October 24, 1945, by which time the other four veto-power states, also a majority of the original 51 members, had already made their ratifications official.

The way had been paved for the charter in the late summer and fall of 1944 by conferences at Dumbarton Oaks in Washington, first between the Americans, British and Russians, then between the Americans, British and Chinese. The charter itself was drawn up at the two-months' conference in San Francisco in April-June, 1945.

Admission to U. N. is by vote of the General Assembly on recommendation of the Security Council, with the veto power effective. In addition to the original 51 members, nine states have become members. A dozen important states are not members: Austria, Bulgaria, East Germany, Eire, Finland, Hungary, Italy, Japan, Portugal, Romania, Spain, West Germany.

However widely individuals may disagree today on U. N. all persons must agree that it it has so far failed to fulfill the high hopes vested in it eight years ago. President Truman predicted that the Allies (the war against Japan was still on) would always remain united in the United Nations. James F. Byrnes, then U. S. secretary of State, called October 24, 1945 "a memorable day for the peace-loving peoples of all nations," and John Foster Dulles, the present secretary of State, called the charter a "greater Magna Carta."

The late Senator Vandenberg, admitting that the charter had "infirmities," argued that it was a "sound basis for seeking organized peace." And the late Senator Taft, while contending that the veto power reduced the U. N. to a consultative body, agreed that consultation could be a deterrent to war.

Israel's Borders

Israel's border conflicts with Jordan and with Syria are pointing up the acute disquiet between Israel and its Arab neighbors that has existed virtually since armistice agreements were negotiated under United Nations supervision in the spring of 1949.

These general agreements established borders which basically followed the division of territory that had been achieved by military operations. Israel gained an area almost one-third larger than that to which the Jewish state would have been entitled under the U. N. partition plan of November 1947, with de facto authority over three-fourths of Palestine. Jordan occupied the east-central district of Palestine and formally annexed that territory in April 1950. Egypt retained military control over the small Gaza strip on the southwest coast.

The U. N. Security Council in 1951 helped to end fighting in the Israel-Syrian demilitarized zone, but relations between the two states remained severely strained thereafter. The 1951 hostilities had erupted after an Israeli land development company refused to suspend drainage activities in the Huleh marshes.

The border dispute between Israel and Jordan dates back to the flight of Arab Palestinian refugees into Jordan-held territory beginning in 1947. Reasons for the mass exodus remains a matter of bitter controversy.

Prime Minister Ben-Gurion of Israel now maintains that the recent attack on the Jordanian village of Kibya had been provoked by years of raids by Arab refugees across the border into Israel. "If, in the reprisal raid on Kibya, innocent blood was spilled, all the responsibility," Ben-Gurion said in a broadcast on October 19, "rests with the Jordan government, which for years has tolerated, and thereby encouraged, acts of murder and pillage against inhabitants of Israel." An Israeli army spokesman had broadcast on the previous day the charge that 421 Israelis had been killed on the border with Jordan since 1950.

Israel has openly offered to make peace with individual Arab states, though it would prefer to negotiate on a bilateral basis. Negotiations with Jordan in 1951 were frustrated by the threat of expulsion of Jordan from the Arab League, which opposes conclusion of a separate peace by any Arab state.

If a solution of Arab-Israel difficulties is to materialize in the foreseeable future, it appears that the initiative will have to come from outside the Middle East. U. N. action thus far has produced little more than stalemate. The U. S. note to Israel on the Kibya incident called the attack "shocking," and this country threatens to withhold financial aid to Israel until Israel stops diverting water from the Jordan.

On March 22, after conferring with Jewish leaders, President Eisenhower had announced the intention of the United States "to use its best offices to bring about peace in the Middle East." And the 1952 Republican platform had pledged the party to promote peace between Israel and the Arab states and to cooperate "to bring economic and social stability to that area."

Give Them The Hot Seat

Investigations of the Senate subcommittee headed by Senator McCarthy have turned up something really big at Fort Monmouth, N. J. The government should not rest until those involved have been sent to the electric chair.

Briefly, that something was amiss at Fort Monmouth, the Army's Signal Corps center, first came to light in 1951. Destruction of the logs was unprecedented, and the officer noted that this would be the logical move made by anyone trying to cover up the thefts.

But, apparently, the Army took no action until the McCarthy committee moved in. Questioning of witnesses by the committee in executive session in New York has revealed, according to Senator McCarthy, that at least one civilian Army employe had been closely associated with the executed atom spy, Julius Rosenberg, who was an employe at Fort Monmouth in 1951. The senator says the results of his investigation definitely point to espionage, and that some of the documents turned up in the East Zone of Germany.

The American people can only wonder how many of the nation's vital communications secrets have been passed to enemy hands. Certainly the Department of Justice should move into this case and ask for indictments.

In the circumstances, the asthmatic coughs up purulent material and the secretions from the nose are thick rather than watery. Many have fever or unmistakable signs of a cold at this time. When this combination exists the disorder responds to the wonder drugs because of their effect on the causative organisms. However, it is well for all asthmatics to remember that because of their allergies they ought not to take penicillin or any other antibiotic for more than two or three days unless the desired results are being obtained.

TOMORROW: Convulsions scare parents.

STOOP SHOULDERED

Mrs. K. writes: My 13-year-old daughter is extremely round shouldered. It doesn't do any good to keep telling her to straighten up. Do you think braces would do any good?

REPLY

Braces help, and occasionally plaster of Paris casts are used. Why not have your family physician see the girl? He may be able to impress her with the need for good posture, not only from the standpoint of appearance but of health. In addition, he can determine whether a defect is responsible for her faulty posture.

IT'S WITHIN

R.C. writes: What is an intrinsic allergy?

REPLY

This type of allergy develops because of something from within; some factor that the victim carries around with him. It differs from the extrinsic type resulting from the inhalation of pollens or dusts or the swallowing of irritating foods or drugs.

DISCOLORED NAIL

W. D. writes: The nail on my right big toe has turned black and a shoe salesman tells me that short, narrow shoes are responsible. I wondered if the nail should be taken off.

REPLY

If the shoe man is correct, buy larger shoes and let the nail grow out by itself.

CRACKED HEELS

L. P. writes: My heels are always splitting. What causes this condition?

REPLY

Thickness and dryness are the most common causes. Soaking the feet in warm water nightly and applying cream containing lanolin or other oily substances will discourage cracks and fissures.

BIG BABIES

Mrs. F. writes: Why do some women deliver "outsize" infants?

REPLY

Like begets like, and big people have big babies. Other causes of oversized infants are delayed delivery and diabetes in the mother.

Adlai Jokes About Reported Romance With Margaret Truman; Texas Judge Issues Court Order For Dulles; Joe McCarthy's Right About Leaks

WASHINGTON—Mike Di Salle, the ex-price administrator, was talking to Adlai Stevenson, the ex-candidate for President.

"If you're seen so much with Margaret Truman," chided Di Salle, "people are going to start talking."

Texas-Go-Round

John Foster Dulles outfoxed a federal judge when he flew to London instead of going with Ike to the Mexican border. U. S. District Judge Ben Rice had issued an order for Dulles to appear in federal court October 19—the date Eisenhower dedicated the Falcon Dam—and "show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court for failure to obey the order of this court of June 5, 1953." . . . The order of June 5 required Dulles to admit Kok Jon Gong, an American citizen of Chinese ancestry, barred by the U. S. consul in Hong Kong from coming to testify at his own citizenship hearing . . . . Dulles had expected to go to Falcon Dam and a U. S. marshal expected to serve him. But Dulles flew to London to see Churchill instead . . . . The Kok Jon Gong case is important because it sets a precedent for Americans of Chinese ancestry; which was why Judge Rice took the unusual step of citing the secretary of state for possible contempt . . . . The 24-room mansion in which Governor Shivers entertained the Eisenhowers was built by the former regional public works administrator under Roosevelt, John H. Shary, father-in-law of Governor Shivers, built the mansion to house Iowa-Nebraska prospects who came on special trains to buy land. Shary was a big real estate promoter; also spent millions for PWA. Some of it didn't do the Shary properties any harm.

Signal Corps Leaks

Joe McCarthy will almost drop dead when he reads this, but in my opinion he is absolutely right in probing the leak of Signal Corps radar secrets at Fort Monmouth, N. J. Furthermore he is absolutely right in saying that the leaks go back about 10 years. Actually they go back even further.

Joe has forgotten it, but three years ago I testified before a Senate committee that 12 drawers of irreplaceable records giving the dates and details of radar development mysteriously disappeared from Fort Monmouth in 1946. The Army immediately issued a denial.

Entirely aside from the 12 drawers, there was also evidence of leaks to Russia, however, and I personally reported this to the Army and warned that one technician born in Russia working in the Signal Corps bore watching.

Six years ago — December 19, 1947—this column also published facts regarding the use of radar secrets by the Radio Corporation of America. RCA had no connection whatsoever with leaks to Soviet Russia, and I'm sure the last thing RCA officials would do would be to condone use of radar patents by the Communists. However, the pre-Pearl Harbor leak to RCA showed, first of all, sloppy security by the Signal Corps. Second, RCA proceeded to file application for radar patents in foreign countries, including prewar Japan, where they became available to foreign powers. At that time Radar was the most priceless secret the Army had.

What happened was that RCA hired one of the Signal Corps' top experts on radar, William D. Hershberger; then in 1937 proceeded to use some of the discoveries made by Hershberger for the Army and apply for radar patents in Japan and Australia. Patents were also filed in the U. S. Patent Office—all this at a time when Hitler was invading Austria and later Czechoslovakia, and when it was apparent to every competent newsman that war was inescapable.

The Signal Corps was so flabbergasted at RCA's action in using the Army-Hershberger secrets to file for radar patents, especially in Japan, then a potential enemy of the U.S.A., that some Signal Corps officers wanted to take action against RCA. It was believed, however, that such action would only serve to spotlight the importance of the sensational new discovery whereby an electronic eye could detect invisible shapes in the distance. So the Signal Corps delayed action.

After the war was over, however, Maj. Gen. Harry Ingles, then chief of the Signal Corps, wrote RCA protesting that it had violated not only the Army's radar patent, but also security, by applying for radar patents in foreign countries. To use the official words of the Army:

"Gen. Ingles . . . . wrote RCA authorities expressing a belief in government rights to the impulse generator patents; pointing out that there was some question of violation of security in that the impulse generator applications had been distributed to foreign affiliates of RCA, and that it appeared information contained in the impulse generator applications was similar to secret information to which Mr. Hershberger might have had access while working in Signal Corps laboratories."

But suddenly General Ingles, author of this protest, went to work for RCA; after that the protest lapsed. It had already been sent to the Justice Department, however, where it was mulled over by Justice Department attorneys for some years. In the end nothing happened.

The Army has issued all sorts of alibis to condone and excuse its laxity and still seems to be issuing alibis. However, the important point is that the Signal Corps did not crack down on an American corporation for sending the most priceless military secret we had to Japan before the war, and hasn't prevented the leak of secrets to Russia since the war.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Oct. 22 (INS)—Dr. Irving Sherwood Wright, one of the world's foremost heart specialists, told a convention of top marketing executives last weekend that industry is needlessly depriving itself of countless thousands of heart disease sufferers who are willing and able to work.

"It's time that industry as a whole followed the lead of a few mature companies, and the pattern set by the army during the war, and reclaimed hundreds of thousands of fine workers now forcibly idle because ancient taboos discriminate against heart cases," Dr. Wright told the Marketing Executives Society meeting at the Greenbrier, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

"Industry must survey its job and decide how many must be filled only by fully able bodied people and how many could be filled by people sitting quietly at a desk.

"The army did a good job along these lines during the war. There is no reason why industry cannot do it now. Ten million persons suffer from heart disease in the United States today. About a third of these are, or were, in industry. A majority of these have been forced out of their jobs. Many have become public or semi-public charges. The loss they represent in man hours runs into the billions. There is a corresponding loss to the federal and state governments in taxes they no longer pay."

It is Dr. Wright's belief that most of these men and women could return to work. The "benched" heart sufferer, if he is the father of a family, represents the beginning of a disastrous chain reaction. His family's buying power is sharply curtailed. Its standard of living falls off. The children are not properly educated, fed, clothed and housed.

"But a mature company could find a job for such a man, a job wherein he could render many additional years of good service to the firm at no risk to his health," Dr. Wright emphatically told his listeners.

The past president of the New York Heart Association, and consultant to the Surgeon General of the Army, told the top executives that American industry was especially blind about the way it handled heart cases among the top echelon.

"One big company lost 27 key men to heart disease last year," he said. "Most of them are on the sidelines today. A majority could be back at work more than earning their incomes. It took that company as many as 20 years to train some of these men. Relieved of details and executive pressures, these men have years of good work left in them. Many could be even more productive in a quiet job than in the jobs that brought about their condition."

Dr. Wright called for a complete reevaluation of the American working man's physicial limitations, his retirement age, and other critical problems rising out of a steady increase in longevity.

"It won't be too long before the life expectancy nears the 100 mark," he said. "Obviously, we've got to do something about the practice of retiring people at 65. The world has already seen enough examples of the shortsightedness and intolerance of such a practice.

"Suppose Churchill had been forcibly retired at 65; could England have survived the war? Edison was vastly productive after 65, so are Bernard Baruch, Toscanini, MacArthur, Herbert Hoover and so many others. The world moves on and man keeps pace. In the time of the Medicis a man who survived to the age of 30 considered himself blessed. In George Washington's age the life expectancy of an American was 32, and by 1900 only 42. We've increased it to just under 70 years, and it gets better every year.

"The longer people live, the more heart trouble there will be," concluded the brilliant specialist. "We must cope with this, extend the work of the New York Heart Association—which was the first to make a study of what kind of job a heart sufferer could successfully handle. For the good of the nation, we've got to put a stop to this wanton waste of experienced manpower."

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Monmouth Ring

When the whole story of the Monmouth spy ring is disclosed, a case not dissimilar to the Rosenberg spy apparatus activities for the theft of the atom bomb will be disclosed. And again, it will be shown that the center of the apparatus was Julius Rosenberg, who seems to have been more active than the evidence in his trial disclosed. Thus far, no evidence has been adduced as to who was Rosenberg's boss, which is important as he may still be on the job. The general pattern of such an apparatus as Rosenberg managed calls for a Russian as the directing head.

The staff of the McCarthy Committee stumbled on the Monmouth case in the course of probing for spies in military establishments. At first, the data seemed unbelievable because phases of it were long known to other agencies and ignored.

When the investigation is completed, this is likely to be the story:

While Julius Rosenberg was recruiting a spy ring in Los Alamos, he was also recruiting a spy ring at Fort Monmouth. Actually, Rosenberg worked at Fort Monmouth. It will be shown that Rosenberg succeeded in recruiting clever young engineers, mainly graduates of the College of the City of New York. It will probably not be shown that all these persons were Communists, and this is important to note because not all spies have been Communist party members.

It will be shown that some of the radar material went to Soviet Russia as part of the war service, possibly under Lend-Lease. But some of it was taken after Lend-Lease ceased and after the "Cold War" started. The question that arises is whether private judgment can be tolerated even in matters affecting an ally. In a word, does the United States, as a government, present data or material to an ally, or is it done by an individual scientist or engineer covertly at his own discretion?

It will probably further be shown that a number of persons now employed at Fort Monmouth take the plea of the Fifth Amendment on the ground that to answer a question concerning present or past espionage against the United States would incriminate the employe of the Government of the United States.

It will be shown that the enforcement of security provisions was lax and that the system of promotion, while recognizing ability, ignored security.

The method employed by the McCarthy Committee in the Monmouth case is a response to the criticism that innocent persons are smeared by being called to testify. The mere act of testifying, even as a friendly witness, seems to cast doubt upon the integrity of the witness. In the public mind, he is guilty by association.

Therefore, all the Monmouth hearings are held in executive session, a report being made of the content of the testimony without reference to the names of witnesses. There has been only one breach of this rule thus far and it should not have happened. The method ought to be given a good try because friendly witnesses are the only true lead to the facts and they must be protected or they will not testify, preferring to risk the consequences of contempt. Not all the persons involved were spies or are unfriendly witnesses. Decency requires that judgment be withheld until testimony is taken at open hearings.

Furthermore, the testimony in closed sessions makes it possible for the investigators to have the entire picture before them in advance of open hearings, thus avoiding unnecessary and irrelevant questioning. Also, it saves expenses, a large item being stenographic costs, which are enormous.

The significance of the Monmouth spy ring is that a number of laboratories are situated at this fort which are used in experimental and development work in physics and electronics. Here radar is being developed into a major defensive weapon.

If the enemy is able to know in advance what our defensive means are, he can devise counter-defensive weapons and processes to offset any advantage that we may have. In a word, our defenses can be neutralized.

It is only natural that the Russians should engage in this kind of espionage; it ought to be routine that every possible procedure is constantly being employed to safeguard such work from spies, whether American or foreign. This apparently is what the McCarthy Committee is checking with some success.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower is beginning to handle himself at his press conferences more and more like a veteran. His offhand comments cover an amazing amount of information. When one considers the variety of subjects that are brought up by the correspondents, it is nothing short of remarkable that the man who spent so much of his life in the Army can now discuss so readily many of the fine points of purely civilian problems.

The President makes a slip now and then in names or places — as everyone does — but his responses to the questions asked by the reporters are always direct and without evasion.

Thus, the press conference on Wednesday of this week showed that the President is not only well aware of the farm problem but that he is considerably more frank in his discussion of it than a political person might normally be. When asked, for example, what impressions he gathered on his Western trip as to the attitude of the farmers, Mr. Eisenhower might have resorted to the usual political jargon, but he confessed frankly that a President traveling around the country doesn't always hear the unfavorable side and that what he did hear gave him the feeling that the problems were not insoluble and that the conscientious approach of the Administration was appreciated.

The complexities of agriculture aren't going to be resolved overnight, and the President is hopeful that intensive study by his new commission of agricultural experts will bring out facts and reports which will show the farmer that, while the short-range picture may present a squeeze, it's a long-range policy of fundamentally sound economics that has to be sought.

No State-Stumping

Perhaps the most important manifestation of Mr. Eisenhower's evolution in the presidential job came in his forthright statement in answer to a question as to whether he would participate in the Congressional election campaigns of next year. The President said he would not. He declared that he did not intend to make the Presidency an agency to be used in partisan elections. He added that anybody elected to the highest office in the land has the responsibility of developing an effective program and that, if this is successful, the candidates of his party have a real umbrella under which to operate. He meant, of course, that a good record by a Republican administration will aid a Republican Congressman or Senator in getting elected.

But, the President remarked, he has no intention of getting into partisan struggles in any district or in any state because he feels sure the people of such a district or state would resent it. How true Mr. Eisenhower's words are may be noted from looking back at what happened when the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt and his successor, Harry Truman, intervened unsuccessfully again and again not only in primary contests between Democrats but also when they issued a lot of letters for individual nominees of the Democratic Party asking that the people support them at the polls. Some were elected and some defeated — the presidential support was rarely conclusive.

Back in the days of the Republican administration of President William Howard Taft, the rule was to refrain from endorsing Congressional candidates, but previously President Theodore Roosevelt intervened in vain in his own state —New York—to try to get the late Henry Stimson elected Governor on the Republican ticket, and this act of intervention hurt rather than helped.

Must Stand On Record

Perhaps the most conspicuous example, however, of an ill-fated intervention by the White House occurred when the late President Wilson, in October 1918, publicly asked the country — just before World War I ended — to elect a Democratic Congress. Resentment was widespread and both houses went Republican.

The spectacle of a President of the United States becoming a political partisan is something that isn't liked by the people, and certainly a President who tries to elect certain representatives and senators of his party opens up an area of resentment that injures his own prestige. Mr. Eisenhower is right — if he makes a bad record, no amount of letter-writing or campaigning will be of help to his party's nominees, whereas if he makes a good record the Republican Party will be helped all along the line. So Mr. Eisenhower is going to concentrate on making as good a record as he can and leave partisan politics to his party managers and the candidates themselves.

National Church Council Sponsors Study Conference On World Order

By CHARLES MERCER
(For George W. Cornell)

NEW YORK, Oct. 22 (AP) —Some people argue that American church members should raise a louder voice in the nation's role of world leadership. Others, with equal heat contend this violates the principle of church-state separation.

It's a highly sensitive subject, bringing together man's religious and political beliefs. While organized religion always has stood clear of specific party lines in this country, the voices of "internationalism" and "isolationism" within the ecclesiastical ranks sometimes have generated hot debates of a political nature.

Steers Careful Course

For several years now a strong agency of American Protestantism has calmly steered a careful course through these troubled waters. It is the Department of International Justice and Goodwill of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A.

The National Council is a federation of 30 American churches with 35 million members formed to spread the Christian faith.

Next week the department will sponsor its fourth "National Study Conference on the Churches and World Order" in Cleveland. About 400 delegates from 30 denominations, representing nearly all walks of American life, will spend four days, beginning Oct. 27, studying world tensions.

Here are some of the general subjects they will discuss:

Are Americans willing to pay the price of world leadership?

What insights can the churches give to national leaders whose decisions affect peace, justice and freedom throughout the world?

What steps can the churches and their members take to prevent an attitude of moral isolation from the world community?

Specifically, the study groups are expected to probe such current issues as the question of collective security as highlighted in Korea; reciprocal trade; the Point Four program; the Bricker amendment on U. S. cooperation with the United Nations; international negotiations on the level of both foreign ministry and heads of state. Numerous experts in all fields will be on hand to lead discussions.

Dr. Walter W. VanKirk, executive director of the department, emphasizes that the conference will represent itself only. In other words, its conclusions about the international scene will not automatically be the official viewpoint of the National Council or its member churches.

Message Will Come

What, then, will be the accomplishment of the conference?

Out of it will come a message of general principles; a series of recommendations on issues of current import; and the specific conclusions of the various study groups.

The message of general principles will be transmitted to the heads of the various denominations. The conference also may recommend that copies of its various resolutions be transmitted to the denominations.

After past conferences various denominations have passed on conference conclusions to local church levels for discussion by church members.

After next week's sessions it is expected that a special deputation will present the findings of the conference to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. He, by the way, led the first conference of this type held at Delaware, Ohio, which offered the moral and ethical foundation for a peace-dedicated world body along the lines of the later-organized United Nations.

Thus the Cleveland conference, without infringement on anyone's theological beliefs or presuming to speak for anyone but those present, is a dramatic example of how moral forces work in a democracy.

Husband Slays Man, Wounds Wife

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Oct. 22 (AP) —A 50-year-old bottling company employe shot and killed a Waynesburg man and wounded his own wife today after he found them together in a parked auto, Police Chief Thomas Boyd of Waynesburg said.

Boyd identified the victims as Charles Cowell and Mrs. Della West. The police chief said an alert had been sounded for the arrest of Hal E. West of Waynesburg but added no formal charges have yet been placed against him.

Soldiers Can Wear Iron Crosses Again

BONN, Germany, Oct. 22 (AP)—German war veterans should be allowed to wear their Iron Crosses again, a presidential commission recommended tonight. But it added the ex-soldiers should be compelled to take off the Nazi swastikas first.

The Iron Cross military decoration was founded in 1813. The Nazis elaborated it by adding an eagle and swastika in the center.

Nancy Lee Steckert Becomes Bride Of Dale J. Wakefoose

Miss Nancy Lee Steckert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bertsell B. Haller, 217 Elder Street, became the bride of Dale John Wakefoose, 303 Decatur Street, son of Mrs. Helen Seifert, 49 North Mechanic Street, last evening.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized at 6 p. m. in St. Patrick's Catholic Church, with Rev. John U. Lyness officiating.

Miss Barbara Jean Haller was her sister's maid of honor, while Miss Janice O'Donnell was bridesmaid, and Mona Elaine Currence and Donald Ray Currence, twin cousins of the bride, were trainbearers. James McFarland served as Mr. Wakefoose's best man and Donald Huff was usher.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Jack Corley, the bride was attired in a gown of white satin trimmed in lace. It was fashioned with a V neckline and Queen Anne lace collar, with long fitted sleeves with a lace point on the hand and lace encircling the full sweeping train. Her fingertip length veil was held by a crown of pearls and rhinestones. Completing her costume, she carried a white prayer book with orchid marker and satin streamers.

Miss Haller wore an orchid dress and Miss O'Donnell, blue. They were ballerina length, net over satin with matching net stoles. With them they had half hats of ruffled net and carried nosegays of yellow roses, with yellow streamers. Mona Elaine had a yellow dotted Swiss frock with scalloped hemline, neck and puffed sleeves edged in lace and trimmed with black velvet bows. She had white satin flowers in her hair, Donald wore a blue suit.

Mrs. Haller chose a gold gabardine suit for her daughter's wedding, with it she had black velvet accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Seifert selected a gray costume with yellow roses and Mrs. Sophie Simmons, grandmother of the bride, a beige with fur jacket.

The bride is a graduate of Catholic Girls Central High School, class of 1953. While there she was a member of the church choir and took part in dramatics. She is employed at the Liberty Theater.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Bedford High School, served three years in the army, with two in Germany. He is employed by the Holland Service Station.

Mr. and Mrs. Haller entertained with a wedding reception honoring their daughter and her bridal party following the ceremony. It was held at the Macabees Lodge, which was decorated with white streamers and wedding bells across the ceiling. Fall flowers were used throughout the room and two wedding bells were suspended over the refreshment table, which was centered with a tiered wedding cake, adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Mrs. Ray Hawse, Mrs. Edith Currence and Mrs. Simmons assisted in serving.

For their wedding rip the bride has selected a cocoa colored suit, with cream colored poodle cloth jacket. With it she is wearing brown alligator slippers and bag and green accessories, with her orchid corsage.

Magistrate Issues Warning To Vandals During Halloween

A stern warning concerning vandalism during the approaching Halloween period was issued yesterday by Magistrate Alban C. Thompson, of Allegany County Juvenile Court.

Each year at this time there are many cases of wanton destruction of private and public property, Thompson said, and many young pranksters are brought to Juvenile Court.

Unlike previous years, the magistrate warned, there will be no paroles for young offenders. Persons brought before the court, he said, will be given sentences with no probations.

Destroying and marring property or endangering the lives of residents is a criminal offense, Thompson pointed out. Something has to be done to stop it from going on year after year, he declared.

The meeting of the Cumberland National Dinner Club at 7 p. m. Saturday at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club will feature a talk by Harold J. Kennedy, Broadway actor, playwright, producer and director.

Kennedy is known as the zany intellectual of the theatre, according to Lewis J. Ort, president of the local organization. The subject of Kennedy's talk will be "Theatrical Funny Business," Ort stated.

After taking degrees at Dartmouth and Yale universities, Kennedy descended upon Broadway and in a comparatively short time acquired varied theatre experiences. He has held 32 different positions in the theatre, varying from scene shifter to producer and director.

Kennedy has been leading man opposite such Hollywood stars as Kitty Carlisle, Gloria Stuart, Glenda Farrell and Gloria Swanson. Appearing under his direction in summer stock have been Tallulah Bankhead, Ina Claire, Edward Everett Horton, Jane Cowl, Francis Lederer and Thornton Wilder. On radio, he has appeared with Ethel Barrymore, Conrad Nagle, Ruth Chatterton and Maurice Evans.

While an undergraduate at Dartmouth, Kennedy published nine one-act plays which are still being performed regularly by little theatres and universities throughout the country. He was also a member of the cast in the historical broadcast of Orson Wells' "The War of the Worlds."

Ohio Governor Approves Rosenmarkle Extradition

An executive warrant was issued yesterday morning in Columbus, Ohio, by Governor Frank Lausche for the apprehension and delivery of a Cumberland man now residing in Ohio to Maryland authorities.

A hearing was held Wednesday in the extradition of Harold J. Rosenmarkle, former resident who is living in Willoughby, Ohio, and who is wanted in Cumberland for questioning in the embezzlement of $1,200 from The Dapper Dan Club here.

Rosenmarkle was treasurer of the club, an organization devoted to financing activities for children. The Dapper Dans sponsored a circus and other events this year to buy uniforms and equipment for Little League Baseball teams.

Rosenmarkle was not present at the hearing Wednesday before the governor's executive secretary in Columbus, but he was represented by counsel.

His attorney stated Rosenmarkle has offered to return the embezzled funds.

A warrant for the arrest of the Cumberland man was sent to the Ohio Highway Patrol on July 20 and Rosenmarkle was apprehended August 5 in Willoughby.

Rosenmarkle refused to be extradited and under Ohio law a hearing was called for. He has been free under bond.

The governor taking the case into consideration after Wednesday's hearing decided yesterday morning to issue the executive warrant for the apprehension and delivery of Rosenmarkle to authorized Maryland agents.

The warrant was mailed yesterday morning to State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher who was in Columbus yesterday along with Cpl. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the Maryland State Police here, and Joseph K. Mooney, president of the Dapper Dans.

Arrives In States

Sgt. First Class Jack Campbell, Wiley Ford, arrived Monday on the West Coast after spending 20 months in Korea. Following reassignment at Fort Knox, Ky., he will spend a furlough at home.

The continent of Asia contains nearly one-half of the world's population.

Area Woman Found Dead

A former resident of Cumberland was found dead Wednesday afternoon by her husband after he returned from work to his home at Russeldale, near Burlington, W. Va.

Frank B. Gano found the body of his wife, Mrs. Cora Lee Gano, 66, on the floor of the kitchen when he arrived home shortly after 5 p. m. Death was attributed to natural causes. An investigation was conducted by Mineral County Sheriff Earl Kemp and Prosecuting Attorney Vernon E. Rankin.

Authorities surmised that Mrs. Gano died shortly after her husband left for work Wednesday morning as the kitchen table was still set with the breakfast dishes when he returned home.

Born near Keyser, Mrs. Gano was a daughter of the late Sanford and Laura (Rotruck) Rawlings. She and her husband had resided in Russeldale about five years, moving there from Cumberland. They were also former residents of Elk Garden.

Surviving, besides her husband, are four daughters, Mrs. Ila Bracht, Silver Spring; Mrs. Norma Blaker, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Mrs. Minnie Hanlin, Elk Garden, and Mrs. Nellie Evans, Keyser; two brothers, Grover Rawlings, St. Petersburg, Fla., and Paul S. Rawlings, Roanoke, Va.; two halfsisters, Mrs. Pearl Liller and Mrs. Laverna Murphy, both of Elk Garden, and nine grandchildren.

Head Of Civitan To Visit Here

Ernest A. Moore, of Toronto, Canada, international president of the Civitan Clubs, will attend the charter night program of the Cumberland Civitan Club on Saturday at 7 p. m. at the Cumberland Country Club.

The recently-organized Civitan Club here will have the names of 28 charter members inscribed on the document at the event Saturday.

Toastmaster for the dinner will be Thomas Campbell of Hagerstown, district Civitan governor.

Moore is the first Canadian to be international president of the Civitan Clubs. He was elected president of the Toronto club the second year after he became a member.

Moore has been in the publishing business for 32 years, the last 12 as Toronto advertising representative of the National Business Publications, Ltd., of Montreal. A graduate of Humberside Collegiate at Toronto, he is a member of the United Church of Canada. He was instrumental in organizing Civitan Clubs in Canada and became charter governor of the Ontario district as a result.

Explorer Training Course Set Tomorrow At Camp Potomac

A training course for Explorer Scouts of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, will get underway tomorrow morning at Camp Potomac, near Oldtown.

Fern Kenney, this city, council camping activities chairman, and K. S. McKee of Keyser, council training chairman, are in charge of the two-day outing.

Registration will be conducted by Hugh Jeffries of Frostburg while the welcome will be given by the council president, Miles G. Thompson Sr., of this city.

Field sports will be held in the afternoon under the direction of Charles Simpson, Merle Shumaker, Robert Turner, Walter Keiser, and Robert Metger, council field executive, all of this city. Sports will be archery, rifle shooting, angling and mo-skeet, a clay pigeon event using .22 calibre shells loaded with bird shot.

Dr. Paul McCoy of Westernport will conduct a course on emergency service. Saturday evening Ivan Hall of Cumberland will show a film strip on program planning and a color movie on the scout ranch in New Mexico.

Other classes and their instructors are: Explorer recognition, Arden Kolkhorst of Keyser; Explorer activities, Brother Nicholas of the LaSalle High School faculty; district roundtable, W. T. Allen, of this city; Explorer advisors, Franklin Martens of Frostburg.

Sunday morning services will be conducted at the camp for Protestant scouts by Rev. Kenneth W. Grove, pastor of Emmanuel Methodist Church, while Catholic scouts will attend mass at St. Mary's Church here.

The final activities will include a talk on Explorer organization, Julian C. Patrick of Westernport, council chairman, will present certificates to those completing the course.

Weymouth Cleaver of Cresaptown will be in charge of a service crew of Explorers during the two-day period.

Lodging will be in the winter troop lodges and meals will be served in the dining hall by Mrs. Lillian Confer of Oldtown, the camp cook.

About 50 scouts are expected. Others interested, including adult leaders, should contact the council office, County Building, Union Street.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

M J D G M K P H P K G K Z U N A K H C G M K O Z K D X. L E Z L H I K N I O E G G J K I S D Q K G H U K U H Z F — I J D X K I L K D Z K.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: HIS FACE WAS OF THE DOUBTFUL KIND THAT WINS THE EYE, BUT NOT THE MIND—SCOTT.

Prince Albert, the consort of Queen Victoria, introduced the Christmas tree into England.

Celanese Planning Fashion Show Tour

High style use of spun dyed acetate was foreshadowed in a showing by Celanese Corporation of America in New York City last week.

Celanese presented a collection of 21 dresses from couture designers in France, Italy, England, Ireland and Spain. The designs will go on tour of the United States and later in Japan and South America.

Fabrics shown were made at Lyons, of yarn supplied by Celanese Corporation, Mrs. Norma Geer, fashion coordinator, of the company, said.

The collection also showed a revival of interest in heavy satins. Some of the yarns employed in the collection were yarn dyed, but observers indicated that they illustrated the prospective place for spun dyed acetate in the fine fabrics.

A blue satin cocktail dress, for example, was made with a white acetate warp and blue yarn, yielding a pale blue opalescent fabric. The prominence of Calais laces was said to protend further developments in acetate laces here.

Combinations of acetate and wool, acetate and silk, and acetate and rayon were included.

Mrs. Geer mentioned the Peau-de-faille of 100 per cent acetate which was considered to have promise for suits and dresses. In the showing it was represented in an evening dress.

Evening sheers made with two layers of fabric, a novelty boucle with metal threads, metal embroidered faille, and lace over taffeta were shown.

William O'Donovan, vice-president of Celanese, pointed out the significance of the establishment of the Fabric Development Department, Fabric Marketing Department, Consumer Services Department and Fashion Coordinating Department of the company as adjuncts of yarn and fiber sales.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

M J D G M K P H P K G K Z U N A K H C G M K O Z K D X. L E Z L H I K N I O E G G J K I S D Q K G H U K U H Z F — I J D X K I L K D Z K.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: HIS FACE WAS OF THE DOUBTFUL KIND THAT WINS THE EYE, BUT NOT THE MIND—SCOTT.

Prince Albert, the consort of Queen Victoria, introduced the Christmas tree into England.

The male ostrich takes its turn setting on the eggs to hatch them.

Celanese Planning Fashion Show Tour

High style use of spun dyed acetate was foreshadowed in a showing by Celanese Corporation of America in New York City last week.

Celanese presented a collection of 21 dresses from couture designers in France, Italy, England, Ireland and Spain. The designs will go on tour of the United States and later in Japan and South America.

Fabrics shown were made at Lyons, of yarn supplied by Celanese Corporation, Mrs. Norma Geer, fashion coordinator, of the company, said.

The collection also showed a revival of interest in heavy satins. Some of the yarns employed in the collection were yarn dyed, but observers indicated that they illustrated the prospective place for spun dyed acetate in the fine fabrics.

A blue satin cocktail dress, for example, was made with a white acetate warp and blue yarn, yielding a pale blue opalescent fabric. The prominence of Calais laces was said to protend further developments in acetate laces here.

Combinations of acetate and wool, acetate and silk, and acetate and rayon were included.

Mrs. Geer mentioned the Peau-de-faille of 100 per cent acetate which was considered to have promise for suits and dresses. In the showing it was represented in an evening dress.

Evening sheers made with two layers of fabric, a novelty boucle with metal threads, metal embroidered faille, and lace over taffeta were shown.

William O'Donovan, vice-president of Celanese, pointed out the significance of the establishment of the Fabric Development Department, Fabric Marketing Department, Consumer Services Department and Fashion Coordinating Department of the company as adjuncts of yarn and fiber sales.

Philadelphia Pigeon Found At Mt. Storm

Two Mt. Storm (W.Va.) men brought a crippled racing pigeon found about four miles west of that town to Cumberland Wednesday because they thought it belonged to a local pigeon fancier.

A check with C. A. Smith, LaVale, a leader in the Allegany Racing Pigeon Club, revealed that the banded pigeon belonged to a Philadelphia club. The Mt. Storm men, Ezra Rinker and H. C. Head, arranged to leave the pigeon with R. L. Spiker, who keeps pigeons. He plans to doctor the bird and if it recuperates liberate it in hopes it will get back to its rightful owner.

Rinker and Head were coming to Cumberland to see Rinker's wife who is a patient in Memorial Hospital. They thought the pigeon was locally-owned because they had read about the racing pigeons in the Cumberland News.

first, but promised to check and provide figures on the flow of water.

Channel Delayed

The high-speed channel work has been deferred until the last part of the work, it was explained earlier this week, until the mouth of Wills Creek and the river bed is lowered so it will take the water rushing in at an accelerated rate.

Finan brought up the subject of pumping stations planned at the Viaduct and at the mouth of Wills Creek, and Mayor Eves said the people want the pressure conduits put into service.

Wadsworth said the stations will not be needed until the walls are built and that most pressure conduits are in operation.

He emphasized, however, that none of the plan will really be effective until the whole job is done.

Future negotiations will be needed to settle one point brought up the cost of bridges planned at Valley, Market and Baltimore streets.

Bridge Figures Differ

Col. Adams said there is a $295,000 differential in the cost of bridges being planned by the city and the revamping called for under the original flood control plans.

Under original plans the bridge work was to cost $135,000. Based on present costs, the bridges would cost $305,000. The clear - span bridges being planned now will cost about $600,000.

Finan said the financial problem is serious, since about $30,900 will be left after the city pays for the bridges and remaining construction costs chargeable to local interests.

He said remaining land needed for the Wills Creek channel work is not expected to be too great, but that the properties needed for the river will be. Col. Adams later reported that real estate experts had set the figure at about a half million dollars during a "horseback appraisal" Wednesday.

Finance Commissioner Keegan said the city wants to save its homes on the West Side and in Ridgeley, and that the loss of the homes would be a severe blow to the people displaced.

Could Make Floods Worse

Wadsworth said the Corps of Engineers will be glad to check on the proposal to complete Wills Creek work, including pumping stations, first, but said he believes the schedule will come out as now planned, since the idea has already been studied.

It could, he added, result in higher flood levels in the city should a flood come before the project is completed.

Col. Adams said Cumberland and Ridgeley should try to get Congressional approval on the plan to substitute flood walls for levees, since the Corps of Engineers must adhere to plans already approved by Congress.

Up To Congress

The levees on the West Side of Cumberland are to be about 15 feet higher than the present bank of the river and will require about 100 feet at the base.

Wadsworth said that the present estimates of cost of the work stand at about $17,000,000, including $15,391,000 to be borne by the government and $2,500,000 of local costs.

The current schedule calls for letting the final contract on June 1, 1957, and for the project to be completed in 1958.

The actual schedule, however, will depend upon how funds are made available by Congress.

Bridge Figures Differ

Col. Adams said there is a $295,000 differential in the cost of bridges being planned by the city and the revamping called for under the original flood control plans.

Under original plans the bridge work was to cost $135,000. Based on present costs, the bridges would cost $305,000. The clear - span bridges being planned now will cost about $600,000.

Finan said the financial problem is serious, since about $30,900 will be left after the city pays for the bridges and remaining construction costs chargeable to local interests.

He said remaining land needed for the Wills Creek channel work is not expected to be too great, but that the properties needed for the river will be. Col. Adams later reported that real estate experts had set the figure at about a half million dollars during a "horseback appraisal" Wednesday.

Finance Commissioner Keegan said the city wants to save its homes on the West Side and in Ridgeley, and that the loss of the homes would be a severe blow to the people displaced.

Couid Make Floods Worse

Wadsworth said the Corps of Engineers will be glad to check on the proposal to complete Wills Creek work, including pumping stations, first, but said he believes the schedule will come out as now planned, since the idea has already been studied.

It could, he added, result in higher flood levels in the city should a flood come before the project is completed.

Col. Adams said Cumberland and Ridgeley should try to get Congressional approval on the plan to substitute flood walls for levees, since the Corps of Engineers must adhere to plans already approved by Congress.

Up To Congress

The levees on the West Side of Cumberland are to be about 15 feet higher than the present bank of the river and will require about 100 feet at the base.

Wadsworth said that the present estimates of cost of the work stand at about $17,000,000, including $15,391,000 to be borne by the government and $2,500,000 of local costs.

The current schedule calls for letting the final contract on June 1, 1957, and for the project to be completed in 1958.

Three Injured Near Keyser

KEYSER — Three persons were injured in a two-car crash on Allegheny Front near Bill's Tavern, about 10 miles west of here.

S. J. Darden, 57, Parkersburg, was driving west and Paul R. Banes, 32, Charleston, was headed east when the accident happened. Darden's wife, Mrs. Nancy Darden, 50, is a patient in Potomac Valley Hospital where she is being treated for probable fractured ribs. Darden was treated for facial lacerations and body bruises. Banes sustained a laceration over the left eye.

Darden was cited by State Trooper W. Frank Bowley for failure to keep to the right of the highway. The trooper estimated damage to the two cars at $1,000.

Savage River Dam Aids During Drought Period

The Savage River Dam continues to prove its effectiveness by still having a large reserve despite continual use of its supply since June 23.

Julian C. Patrick, supervising engineer for the huge dam and also chief chemist at the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, released information substantiating this yesterday.

Since June 23, there has been a continual drag on the reservoir to keep the flow of the North Branch of the Potomac River at Luke constant at 60,000,000 gallons per day.

During this period there has been little or no rainfall, but the level of the dam still has held up through the water it stored during the winter and spring.

In fact, the water level is 50 feet below the spillway, just a little lower than it was a year ago.

Under continual use, with conditions of no rainfall, the dam still has a three-month supply. Its water is supplemented by the supply in the paper mill's Stony River Dam.

Both of these dams impound a three-month supply, Patrick stated. When full, the Savage River Dam holds 6,000,000,000 gallons while the Stony River Dam contains 2,000,000,000 gallons.

Three Injured Near Keyser

KEYSER — Three persons were injured in a two-car crash on Allegheny Front near Bill's Tavern, about 10 miles west of here.

S. J. Darden, 57, Parkersburg, was driving west and Paul R. Banes, 32, Charleston, was headed east when the accident happened. Darden's wife, Mrs. Nancy Darden, 50, is a patient in Potomac Valley Hospital where she is being treated for probable fractured ribs. Darden was treated for facial lacerations and body bruises. Banes sustained a laceration over the left eye.

Darden was cited by State Trooper W. Frank Bowley for failure to keep to the right of the highway. The trooper estimated damage to the two cars at $1,000.

FROSTBURG — The Frostburg Fire Department was summoned early yesterday afternoon to Mt. Pleasant Street extended where a grass fire was threatening homes.

The blaze flared up the second time and the department was called again to put out the fire.

Savage River Dam Aids During Drought Period

The Savage River Dam continues to prove its effectiveness by still having a large reserve despite continual use of its supply since June 23.

Julian C. Patrick, supervising engineer for the huge dam and also chief chemist at the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, released information substantiating this yesterday.

Since June 23, there has been a continual drag on the reservoir to keep the flow of the North Branch of the Potomac River at Luke constant at 60,000,000 gallons per day.

During this period there has been little or no rainfall, but the level of the dam still has held up through the water it stored during the winter and spring.

In fact, the water level is 50 feet below the spillway, just a little lower than it was a year ago.

Under continual use, with conditions of no rainfall, the dam still has a three-month supply. Its water is supplemented by the supply in the paper mill's Stony River Dam.

Both of these dams impound a three-month supply, Patrick stated. When full, the Savage River Dam holds 6,000,000,000 gallons while the Stony River Dam contains 2,000,000,000 gallons.

Miriam Marmein Gives Program At Frostburg

FROSTBURG — Miriam Marmein appeared recently in an assembly program at Frostburg State Teachers College.

Her program of original creations included "Pierrot Encounters The Doctor," in which the traditional clown, upon meeting a diagnostician, fancies that he has every possible malady finally digs his own grave and jumps into it.

"Marine Fantasy," an interpretation of the movement of the subjective soul of man slowly awakening.

"Garcon," a caricature of a French waiter of the Paris boulevards.

"Death of the First Son Born," from Miss Marmein's Biblical motion drama, "Behold the Glory."

"And So To Bed," the nightly beauty ritual of a glamour girl.

"The Fountain," interpretation dance of Chopin's composition.

"Get Your Man-1892 Version," a Miss who would be a Mrs.

Streets Improved

WESTERNPORT — Oakview Drive from the intersection of Main Street to Oakview has been improved.

Philos Avenue from intersection of Main Street to intersection of Smoot Street, was also improved. The materials used on both streets were tar and chips and the streets were closed while the work was being done. Both streets, however, have been reopened.

Miriam Marmein Gives Program At Frostburg

FROSTBURG — Miriam Marmein appeared recently in an assembly program at Frostburg State Teachers College.

Her program of original creations included "Pierrot Encounters The Doctor," in which the traditional clown, upon meeting a diagnostician, fancies that he has every possible malady finally digs his own grave and jumps into it.

"Marine Fantasy," an interpretation of the movement of the subjective soul of man slowly awakening.

"Garcon," a caricature of a French waiter of the Paris boulevards.

"Death of the First Son Born," from Miss Marmein's Biblical motion drama, "Behold the Glory."

"And So To Bed," the nightly beauty ritual of a glamour girl.

"The Fountain," interpretation dance of Chopin's composition.

"Get Your Man-1892 Version," a Miss who would be a Mrs.

Streets Improved

WESTERNPORT — Oakview Drive from the intersection of Main Street to Oakview has been improved.

Philos Avenue from intersection of Main Street to intersection of Smoot Street, was also improved. The materials used on both streets were tar and chips and the streets were closed while the work was being done. Both streets, however, have been reopened.

Mrs. Payne Is President Of Hill Street Mothers

FROSTBURG—Mrs. H. H. Payne has been elected president of the Hill Street School Mother's Club.

John Manley, principal of the school, attended the meeting and announced that the program for the coming months includes the formation of an adult study group, a home room mother's group and a school activities planning group. It is planned to have these groups hold monthly meetings which will be attended by Principal Manley in the capacity of guidance counsellor.

It was also decided to hold the annual Halloween party Friday, October 30 from 1 to 2:30 p. m., and to observe American Education Week, November 8 to 14 with a special program Wednesday afternoon November 11.

Potomac Fire Company Is Taking Courses

WESTERNPORT—Potomac Fire Company is conducting a fire extension course at their quarters above the Potomac Club.

A basic course was started on October 20 and the advanced course is now in its fourth week. Firemen from the Bloomington Fire Company and the Luke Fire Company are also attending the course. Joseph Stuckey, Corriganville, past president of the Allegany and Garrett Firemen's Association is conducting the courses on Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

Beef Stew Teams With Dumplings

Autumn days are meant for hearty meat stews. To give a new touch to beef stew prepare it with dumplings. For a complete change this stew is accompanied by corn meal dumplings.

Beef Stew With Corn Meal Dumplings

- 1½ pounds boneless beef for stew, cut in 1-inch cubes
- 3 tablespoons lard or drippings
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 3 cups water
- 6 medium carrots
- 6 medium onions
- Corn meal dumplings

Brown meat on all sides in lard or drippings. Season. Add water, carrots and onions. Cover closely and cook slowly about 1½ hours or until meat is tender. Drop dumplings by tablespoons onto meat and vegetables. Cover tightly and steam for 12 to 15 minutes. Arrange meat, vegetables and dumplings on a warm platter and thicken cooking liquid for gravy, if desired. 6 servings.

Corn Meal Dumplings

- ½ cup sifted enriched flour
- ½ cup corn meal
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 egg, beaten
- ¼ cup milk

Sift together flour, corn meal, baking powder and salt. Add egg and milk to flour mixture and stir until well blended.

VEAL SCALOPPINE ON SPAGHETTI IS TEMPTING TREAT FOR DINNER

How about having a delicious Italian dinner tonight? For your main course, serve this tasty version of Veal Scaloppine on Spaghetti which has been developed by the home economists of the National Macaroni Institute in honor of their annual promotion, National Macaroni Week, October 15-24.

You might carry out the Italian theme by starting your meal with antipasto—Italian salami, anchovies, ripe olives, onion rings, radishes, etc. — served on a Lazy Susan or in small bowls so everyone will have the fun of picking and choosing his or her own plateful. For dessert, spumoni, biscuit tortoni or fresh fruit and cheese would be an ideal way to end a delightful meal.

Veal Scaloppine on Spaghetti
(Makes 4-6 servings)

- 2 pounds boned veal shoulder, sliced thin
- ⅓ cup all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ⅓ cup butter or margarine
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- ½ cup minced onion
- 1 3-ounce can sliced mushrooms, drained
- 1 No. 2 can tomatoes
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 3 quarts boiling water
- 8 ounces spaghetti

Have meatman flatten veal for scaloppine. Dredge veal in flour combined with 1 teaspoon salt and pepper. In a skillet, melt butter or margarine over low heat. Add veal; saute until lightly browned. Remove veal from skillet. Add garlic and onion to butter or margarine; cook until onion is tender. Gradually add mushrooms, tomatoes, sugar, 1 teaspoon salt and browned veal. Cover and cook over low heat, or until veal is tender.

Meanwhile, add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add spaghetti so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Serve veal scaloppine over cooked spaghetti.

Vegetables Combine With Cheese

Recommended for your seasonal enjoyment is the Cheese Vegetable Casserole with Biscuit Swirls. It includes a colorful combination of vegetables — small carrots, tiny onions, green beans and peas—all mingled with cheese sauce. Of course, you can substitute other vegetables you have on hand, and can vary the biscuit topping with muffins or toast points.

You'll find the cheese sauce easy to make when you use a pasteurized process American cheese that blends smoothly into your cream sauce. Or you can use a new product now on the market—a pasteurized process cheese spread—that needs only to be heated and it converts to a sauce.*

Cheese Vegetable Casserole With Biscuit Swirls

8 small carrots, cooked; 8 small onions, cooked; 1½ cups cooked green beans; 1 cup cooked peas; 4 tablespoons margarine or butter; 4 tablespoons flour; 2 cups milk; ½ lb. pasteurized American cheese, shredded; salt, pepper.

Place the well drained vegetables in a casserole. Make a cream sauce with the margarine or butter flour and milk. Add the shredded cheese and stir until it is melted. Season to taste, and pour over the vegetables. Cover with biscuit swirls and bake in a hot oven, 425°, 20 minutes or until the biscuits are a light brown.

Biscuit Swirls

2 cups flour; 3 teaspoons baking powder; ½ teaspoon salt; 4 tablespoons margarine or butter. ¾ cups milk; ¼ cup melted margarine or butter.

Sift the dry ingredients together. Cut in 4 tablespoons margarine or butter with a pastry blender or with two knives until it is the consistency of coarse cornmeal. Stir in the milk to make a smooth dough. Turn out on a floured board, knead one-half minute and roll lightly to ¼-inch thickness. Spread with the ¼ cup of melted margarine or butter and roll up like a jelly roll. Cut off 1-inch slices and lay on top of the casserole.

LOUISIANA YAMS IN SIMPLE SUPPER

You will agree Louisiana Yams, pineapple and ham make a flavorful trio once you have tasted Yam Triple Deckers. It is a complete tasty supper menu when tossed green salad and crusty French bread are added. During October when fresh yams from Louisiana are plentiful, this recipe is especially timely and will be enjoyed by the entire family.

Yam Triple Deckers
(Makes 4 servings)

2 cups ground cooked ham
¼ cup dry bread crumbs
3 tablespoons pineapple juice
Dash ground cloves
4 slices canned pineapple
2 cups mashed cooked Louisiana Yams
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg yolk
¾ cup dry bread crumbs
1 tablespoon pineapple juice

In a bowl, combine ham, ¼ cup bread crumbs, 3 tablespoons pineapple juice and cloves; mix well. Shape into four patties. Place patties in greased shallow baking pan; top each patty with a pineapple slice. In another bowl, combine yams, salt, egg yolk, ¾ cup bread crumbs and 1 tablespoon pineapple juice; mix well. Shape into four patties and place 1 yam patty over each pineapple slice. Bake in moderate oven (350°) 30 minutes. Serve piping hot.

Upside Down Ham Loaves

Topping:
6 tablespoons brown sugar
½ teaspoon dry mustard
6 orange cartwheel slices, unpeeled
Loaves:
1 pound smoked ground ham (2 cups)
1 pound pork sausage
1 small onion, finely chopped
½ cup bread crumbs
1 egg
½ cup fresh orange juice
½ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon dry mustard
pinch of cloves (optional)

Place 1 tablespoon brown sugar in each of 6 small casseroles or baking dishes. Sprinkle a little of the mustard in each, and top with slice of orange. Mix other ingredients until well blended. Pack lightly over orange slice in each baking dish. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 45 minutes. Remove from oven, let stand about 5 minutes, then turn upside down. Serves 6.

Heavenly Fluff Lemon Pie

4 egg yolks; ¼ teaspoon salt; 2 teaspoons grated lemon peel; ½ cup fresh lemon juice; ½ cup sugar; 1 tablespoon plain gelatin; ¼ cup cold water; 4 egg whites; ½ cup sugar; ½ cup whipping cream; cocoanut.

Beat egg yolks slightly, add salt, lemon peel, lemon juice, and ½ cup sugar. Cook over hot water until thick (about 5 minutes). Remove from heat. Add gelatin soaked in ¼ cup cold water. Stir until dissolved. Cool. Beat egg whites until stiff. Add ½ cup sugar gradually. Beat 1 minute longer. Fold into cooked mixture. Whip cream and fold in. Pile lightly into cooked, cooled 9-inch pie shell. Sprnikle cocoanut on top.

Canned Salmon Is Nutritious

BACK to school time means back home to lunch for lots of school kids. And the children being home for lunch means that Mother has to think of quick dishes which will be nourishing and appetite appealing. Here is a delectable Open Salmon Sandwich Grill, sure to become a favorite noontime treat. It's made with full-flavored flaked salmon on toasted hamburger buns, served with asparagus sauce. The recipe will be found elsewhere on this page.

When you treat the children to canned salmon, you're not only serving flavor and attractive color; you're serving big portions of health-giving protein, vitamins and minerals as well. Few single foods bring as many valuable contributions to the table as canned salmon.

It provides a large amount of complete protein for the replacement of worn-out tissues and the building of new tissues in growing children. It provides iodine to assist in the normal growth and proper maintenance of the body: it supplies vitamins A and D, niacin and riboflavin to build strong bones and prevent infection. It also offers large amounts of calcium and phosphorus for the formation of sound, healthy teeth and sturdy bones.

Benjamin Franklin invented the rocking chair.

Open Salmon Sandwich Grill

1-½ pound can salmon; 4 hamburger buns; 2 tablespoons lemon or lime juice.

Chill unopened can of salmon in refrigerator several hours or overnight. Drain salmon; remove carefully from can in one piece; cut crosswise into 4 slices. Place on broiler rack with surface of food 3 inches below heat. Broil 10 minutes or until salmon is heated through. Place top halves of buns cut side up in broiler last 2 minutes broiling time. Top salmon with toasted halves of buns; serve with *Aspargus sauce. Yield: 4 servings.

Asparagus Sauce

1 can condensed asparagus soup; ½ cup light cream.

Win Prize With Tomato Macaroni

You'll carry home the prize from the potluck supper if you take a casserole of Macaroni and Cheese—made with tomato soup. There are 2 easy steps. Make sauce by blending 1 can (1¼ cups) condensed tomato soup with ½ cup milk and 1½ cups shredded sharp cheese. Heat over low heat till cheese melts. Blend sauce with 4 cups cooked macaroni. Pour all into a buttered 2-quart casserole. Top with more grated cheese and buttered bread crumbs. Bake 20 minutes in hot oven (400° F.). 6 servings.

*The expression to give someone a "cold shoulder" dates back to medieval times when honored guests were served hot foods, but when they overstayed their welcome they were served a cold shoulder of beef or mutton.

Exclusive double-wrapped Aluminum Package keeps

GOOD LUCK fresher and better tasting than any other margarine!

Read the proof! In flavor tests, new Reynolds Wrap kept GOOD LUCK fresh as the day it was made—even after 8 weeks! Only GOOD LUCK has it!

Now YOU can serve perfect table spread every time—fresh, sweet and delicious as the day it was packed! Just look for GOOD LUCK margarine in this revolutionary new package made of shiny Reynolds aluminum foil.

To test this package we put GOOD LUCK in a refrigerator along with other table spreads wrapped in ordinary waxed cartons. Next to them we placed sliced onions—and the strongest cheese we could find.

Fresh and Sweet After Eight Weeks

After eight weeks, GOOD LUCK in its new aluminum package was still as fresh, sweet and delicious as the day it was made! But the other quality margarines in the usual waxed cartons had lost flavor and picked up odors very quickly, some after only six days.

Here's the reason for the difference: We wrap each quarter-pound print in pure Reynolds Wrap, then we put the quarter pounds in a waxed carton for extra protection, and finally, we seal the whole carton in shiny aluminum foil.

As a result, GOOD LUCK not only tastes delicious when we wrap it, but stays fresher and better tasting than any other margarine.

Remember: GOOD LUCK in its new package is unconditionally guaranteed by Lever Brothers Company, 390 Park Avenue, New York 22, New York.

Keep GOOD LUCK in Your Refrigerator—it Spreads Easily!

The delicate flavor of this fine quality margarine is perishable. That's why we carefully refrigerate GOOD LUCK during processing – also while awaiting shipment, and in transit.

If you want to enjoy GOOD LUCK at its delicious best, always keep it in your refrigerator. You'll find GOOD LUCK spreads smoothly even when cold.

1 LB. FAMILY STYLE ROLL SAVES TIME—AND MONEY!

GOOD LUCK'S Family-Style Roll is now wrapped in Reynolds Aluminum Foil. It's easy to unwrap, handy for cooking or serving at the table. It's the same quality margarine—yet saves you 2¢ more than the individually wrapped quarters!

There's something special about this coffee!

It's the kind of coffee you've hoped for! Why? Because Chase & Sanborn is an exclusive blend of the world's choicest coffees. And because that smooth, rich blend is pressure packed! Only pressure packing can pack coffee practically smack out of the roaster while flavor is richest . . . hold the flavor in as no other packing method can. That's why "Pressure Packed" Chase & Sanborn is fresher than coffee packed any other way, whether in vacuum cans or bags!

There's something special about this can!

You can tell by the rounded top it's different from ordinary coffee cans. Every trace of flavor-stealing air has been drawn out and replaced by flavor-saving pressure. You can test this can to prove coffee's fresher, better tasting. The directions for testing are right there on top of the can. And remember—you can't test any other kind!

Canned Salmon Is Nutritious

BACK to school time means back home to lunch for lots of school kids. And the children being home for lunch means that Mother has to think of quick dishes which will be nourishing and appetite appealing. Here is a delectable Open Salmon Sandwich Grill, sure to become a favorite noontime treat. It's made with full-flavored flaked salmon on toasted hamburger buns, served with asparagus sauce. The recipe will be found elsewhere on this page.

When you treat the children to canned salmon, you're not only serving flavor and attractive color; you're serving big portions of health-giving protein, vitamins and minerals as well. Few single foods bring as many valuable contributions to the table as canned salmon.

It provides a large amount of complete protein for the replacement of worn-out tissues and the building of new tissues in growing children. It provides iodine to assist in the normal growth and proper maintenance of the body: it supplies vitamins A and D, niacin and riboflavin to build strong bones and prevent infection. It also offers large amounts of calcium and phosphorus for the formation of sound, healthy teeth and sturdy bones.

Benjamin Franklin invented the rocking chair.

Open Salmon Sandwich Grill

1-½ pound can salmon; 4 hamburger buns; 2 tablespoons lemon or lime juice.

Chill unopened can of salmon in refrigerator several hours or overnight. Drain salmon; remove carefully from can in one piece; cut crosswise into 4 slices. Place on broiler rack with surface of food 3 inches below heat. Broil 10 minutes or until salmon is heated through. Place top halves of buns cut side up in broiler last 2 minutes broiling time. Top salmon with toasted halves of buns; serve with *Aspargus sauce. Yield: 4 servings.

Asparagus Sauce

1 can condensed asparagus soup; ⅓ cup light cream.

Win Prize With Tomato Macaroni

You'll carry home the prize from the potluck supper if you take a casserole of Macaroni and Cheese—made with tomato soup. There are 2 easy steps. Make sauce by blending 1 can (1¼ cups) condensed tomato soup with ½ cup milk and 1½ cups shredded sharp cheese. Heat over low heat till cheese melts. Blend sauce with 4 cups cooked macaroni. Pour all into a buttered 2-quart casserole. Top with more grated cheese and buttered bread crumbs. Bake 20 minutes in hot oven (400° F.). 6 servings.

*The expression to give someone a "cold shoulder" dates back to medieval times when honored guests were served hot foods, but when they overstayed their welcome they were served a cold shoulder of beef or mutton.

Exclusive double-wrapped Aluminum Package keeps

GOOD LUCK fresher and better tasting than any other margarine!

Read the proof! In flavor tests, new Reynolds Wrap kept GOOD LUCK fresh as the day it was made—even after 8 weeks! Only GOOD LUCK has it!

NOW YOU can serve perfect table spread every time—fresh, sweet and delicious as the day it was packed! Just look for GOOD LUCK margarine in this revolutionary new package made of shiny Reynolds aluminum foil.

To test this package we put GOOD LUCK in a refrigerator along with other table spreads wrapped in ordinary waxed cartons. Next to them we placed sliced onions—and the strongest cheese we could find.

Fresh and Sweet After Eight Weeks

After eight weeks, GOOD LUCK in its new aluminum package was still as fresh, sweet and delicious as the day it was made! But the other quality margarines in the usual waxed cartons had lost flavor and picked up odors very quickly, some after only six days.

Here's the reason for the difference: We wrap each quarter-pound print in pure Reynolds Wrap, then we put the quarter pounds in a waxed carton for extra protection, and finally, we seal the whole carton in shiny aluminum foil.

As a result, GOOD LUCK not only tastes delicious when we wrap it, but stays fresher and better tasting than any other margarine.

Remember: GOOD LUCK in its new package is unconditionally guaranteed by Lever Brothers Company, 390 Park Avenue, New York 22, New York.

Keep GOOD LUCK in Your Refrigerator—it Spreads Easily!

The delicate flavor of this fine quality margarine is perishable. That's why we carefully refrigerate GOOD LUCK during processing—also while awaiting shipment, and in transit.

If you want to enjoy GOOD LUCK at its delicious best, always keep it in your refrigerator. You'll find GOOD LUCK spreads smoothly even when cold.

1 LB. FAMILY STYLE ROLL SAVES TIME—AND MONEY!

GOOD LUCK'S Family-Style Roll is now wrapped in Reynolds Aluminum Foil. It's easy to unwrap, handy for cooking or serving at the table. It's the same quality margarine—yet saves you 2¢ more than the individually wrapped quarters!

Cook For Once Without Shortcuts To Fashion Dessert

Everybody likes those shortcuts that cut cooking to the vanishing point. But you can't always cook in a hurry, or you'll miss some of the greatest dishes of all time. When you feel like creating a labor of love in your kitchen, you'll value our recipe for Semi-Sweet Chocolate Meringue Mound.

It's a great dessert right from the authentic old Viennese tradition. To make this dessert, no less than three big, paper-light meringues are heaped with the most wonderful, rich, semi-sweet chocolate filling, and perched one on top of the other. Then the chocolate filled meringues are capped by a third meringue for a crown. To serve, cut the delectable thing in small wedges from top to bottom. Too rich for big servings, you know.

Chocolate Morsels Flavor Filling

The secret of the filling's sumptuous flavor is simple. Just use a package of semi-sweet chocolate morsels that have the famous delicate, candy-like flavor. Semi-sweet Chocolate Meringue Mound is the kind of dessert that used to be served in vienna with coffee topped by a wicked drift of whipped cream. That was in the days when there was time for everything.

It's good to take time for some creative cooking when things have been too hectic for fun. So what if Semi-Sweet Chocolate Meringue Mound isn't a quickie. It's a classic, and that is more important. So when it's beauty, elegance, superb flavor you want, make a Meringue Mound. It will remind your family that you still have time to give the mthe best things in life.

Semi-Sweet Chocolate Meringue Mound

Meringue:
- 4 egg whites
- 1 cup sugar
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- ⅓ cup nutmeats, finely chopped

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Add gradually sugar and salt and continue to beat until stiff and satiny. Fold in nutmeats. Spread on four 8-inch circles cut from brown paper. Place on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake at 350° F. for 30 minutes, or until crisp and lightly browned.

Filling:
- 1 package semi-sweet chocolate morsels
- 4 egg yolks
- ¼ cup sugar
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 1½ cups scalded milk
- ½ cup cold milk
- ¼ cup cornstarch
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Melt the semi-sweet chocolate over hot, not boiling water. Beat the egg yolks until thick. Add the sugar and salt gradually and beat until very thick and lemon colored. Add the scalded milk slowly. Cook, stirring, over hot water until mixture coats a metal spoon, approximately 5 minutes. Add the melted chocolate. Blend the cold milk and cornstarch. Add slowly, stirring to the chocolate mixture. Cook over hot water until thickened, approximately 15 minutes. Remove fro mheat. Add vanilla, and mix well. Let cool. Spread over three cooled meringue rings. Place one ring above other, topping with a plain meringue. Chill 2 hours. Cut in wedges.

YIELD: 8 servings.

Orange Flavor Adds Appeal To Doughnuts

Doughnut making time may find the youngsters gathered round the range watching as each doughnut is carefully dropped in the fat and waiting for it to rise to the top And a flavor that's long remembered is that of the still warm doughnut well coated with confectioners' sugar.

Doughnuts are easy to make. Make sure, however, that you keep the temperature at 360° F. Lard is a favorite fat for deep-fat frying because it gives the much desired rich flavor. Lard is economical too. Here is a recipe for a delicate orange doughnut.

Orange Drop Doughnuts
- 3 cups sifted enriched flour
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1¼ teaspoons salt
- 2 tablespoons lard, melted
- ¾ cup sugar
- 4 egg yolks
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- 1 tablespoon grated orange rind
- 1 cup milk
- Lard for deep-fat frying

Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Beat together thoroughly lard, sugar, egg yolks, vanilla and orange rind. Add milk. Stir in dry ingredients until thoroughly mixed. Drop batter by small teaspoonfuls into deep hot lard (360° F.). Fry until golden brown on both sides. Roll in sugar if desired. Yield: 3 dozen doughnuts.

Serve A Bean Banquet

Skillet browned, juicy ham and a helping of pork and beans make a supper that's a banquet. To make 4 servings, brown a 1-pound slice of pre-cooked ham in skillet; cook some fruit (apple wedges, canned peach halves and/or sliced bananas) along with the meat. Remove meat and fruit from pan. If there's an excess of fruit juice, pour off all but ⅓ cup. Pour into skillet 2 cans of beans; heat till bubbling hot. Serve with ham. Crisp cabbage slaw with chopped green pepper completes this meal.

This rice and beef main dish is as quick to fix as any you have ever made, and it is one of the most delicious and sumptuous. You will get a great big "THANKS" from the family every time you have this extra tasty rice-beef-vegetable casserole. Being budget wise and on the look out for the most flavor and food value for the least amount of money, you will recognize this super savory rice and beef dish as TOPS.

INGREDIENTS:

⅔ cup uncooked rice
1 pound ground beef
1 cup celery, cut in small pieces
½ cup finely chopped onion.
½ cup diced green pepper
1, No. 2 can tomatoes
2 cups water
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon steak sauce

METHOD: Mix together the rice, beef, celery, onion, green pepper, tomatoes, water, salt, pepper and steak sauce. Pour into a 2½ to 3 quart oven dish and bake in a preheated 350°F. oven for 1½ hours or until the rice is tender and the liquid is absorbed. This recipe makes 10 servings.

Spaghetti Sauce Tops Noodles

Here's a captivating noodle casserole with a fast-fix sauce—a can of spaghetti sauce with meat. Mix about 2 cups of cooked noodles (3 ounces uncooked) with 1 can (1¼ cups) of the spaghetti sauce. Place in a greased casserole. Sprinkle ½ cup shredded American cheese on top. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) about 20 minutes until noodle mixture is well heated. Cheese should be lightly browned. 4 servings.

Food Has International Appeal

During United Nations Week in October, it's timely to compare the food we eat with that of other countries. This is always a subject with international appeal. One dish popular almost everywhere is hot, savory soup. In this country, it's likely to be a flavorful good soup from a can. Quite a contrast to China. There a soup is sometimes brewed in half a watermelon. The contents may be gently steamed for 24 hours; resulting soup is a delicate essence, thought to cure broken hearts.

Roughly half the earth's known uranium ore lies in the Belgian Congo in the fantastic open-pit mine at Shinkolobwe, 70 miles northwest of Elisabethville. Shinkolobwe's name was dropped from maps for secrecy's sake during World War II.

Swordfish weigh well over 200 pounds each.

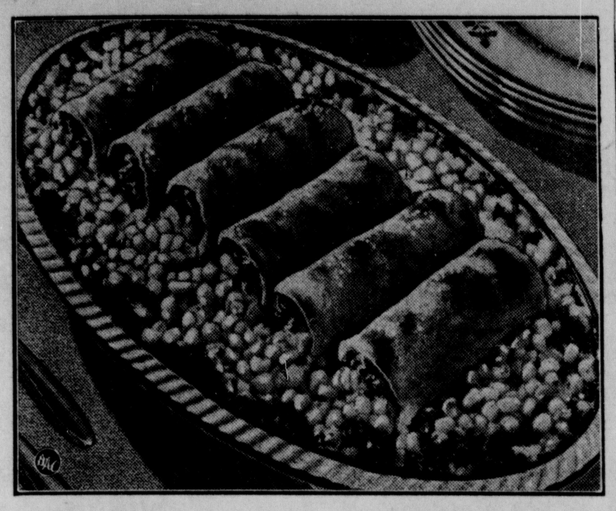
Try Salmon Sandwich Roll Baked With Corn



A NEW food combination that will really hit the spot these early fall days is canned salmon and canned corn baked together in a quick 15 minute casserole.

In delicious Corn and Salmon Wrap-A-Rounds, the salmon is combined with mayonnaise, chopped olives and seasonings in a mixture which is spread on bread slices and rolled into a kind of hot sandwich. Surrounding this is a plentiful array of golden juicy whole kernel corn. Baking time gives the flavors of these two good foods a chance to mingle and blend.

This is a main dish economical in cost but packed with that "school kid" energy. It's vitamin-rich and provides body-building complete protein.

Corn and Salmon Wrap-A-Rounds

- ⅓ cup mayonnaise
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- ⅛ teaspoon Tabasco
- 1 1-pound can salmon, drained and flaked
- 2 tablespoons chopped ripe or stuffed olives
- 6 ½-inch thick slices very fresh bread
- 2 1-lb. cans whole kernel corn
- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, optional
- 1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine
- Paprika

Combine mayonnaise, lemon juice and Tabasco; mix in salmon and chopped olives. Trim crust from bread; roll with rolling pin to make bread very thin. Spread ⅓ cup salmon mixture on each slice; roll as for jelly roll; reserve. Drain corn; add onion and butter to liquid. Boil liquid rapidly until reduced to ½ cup. Add drained corn; heat. Turn into an oval or a 10 x 6 x 2-inch casserole. Sprinkle with parsley. Place salmon wrap-a-rounds on corn; brush with melted butter or margarine. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake in a hot oven (425°F.) 15 minutes. YIELD: 6 servings.

NOTE: Two 1-pound cans cream style corn may be substituted for whole kernel corn. Heat corn to serving temperature with onion and butter; continue as directed.

Citrus Adds Tang To Meats

Spicy Lemon Barbecued Hamburgers

- ¼ cup salad oil
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- ⅓ cup chopped celery
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- 2 tablespoons granulated sugar
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- ½ teaspoon chili powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons catsup
- Few drops Tabasco sauce
- 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
- ⅓ cup fresh lemon juice
- 1 small clove garlic
- ¾ cup water

Heat oil in saucepan. Saute onion and celery mixed with brown sugar until golden brown. Add granulated sugar and boil rapidly for 1 minute. Add remaining ingredients and simmer for 15 minutes. Do not over-cook. Baste hamburgers with the sauce while they cook and spoon additional sauce over meat when served. Makes about 1 cup sauce, enough for 6 large hamburgers.

Lemon Barbecued Ribs

- 3 to 4 pounds spareribs
- ⅓ cup lemon juice
- ⅓ cup catsup or chili sauce
- 1 teaspoon horseradish sauce
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Dash Tabasco sauce
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- ½ cup fresh orange juice
- 2 teaspoons dry mustard
- ½ teaspoon paprika
- ¼ cup honey or brown sugar
- 1 clove garlic
- 2 lemons unpeeled and sliced

Cut ribs in pieces; place in roasting plan and brown at 450 degrees F. for 50 minutes. Drain off fat. Combine remaining ingredients except the sliced lemons; brush over spareribs. Place a slice of lemon on each piece of meat. Reduce heat to 350 degrees F. for 1 hour, basting frequently with sauce. Serves 5 to 6.

Lemon Barbecued Franks

- 6 frankfurters
- 1 8-ounce can tomato sauce
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 4 onion slices
- 4 thin lemon slices, quartered

Slice frankfurters on angle. Melt butter in pan; add franks and saute until brown. Add onion and cook until brown. Stir in lemon slices and tomato sauce; heat. (If tomato sauce is not seasoned, add ⅛ teaspoon celery salt and a dash of Worcestershire sauce.) Serve on noodles or rice.

Cranberry Orange Relish

. . . the finishing touch for chicken or turkey.

Put 4 cups cranberries and two unpeeled California oranges through a food chopper. Add two cups sugar and mix well. Chill several hours. Serve in orange shells.

The average American walks between seven and eight miles a day.

Stopped for the first time this season at Winchester, Va., last Saturday, Coach William P. Hahn's Fort Hill High School Sentinels will be striving to return to the win column tonight when they lock horns with Mel Henry's Maroon and Gray clad gridiron warriors from Hagerstown High School at the local stadium at 8 o'clock.

It's the 18th meeting of the Hilltoppers and Hubs and in the 17 contests played since 1936 the locals hold a 13-3 edge in victories. One game ended in a tie. Last year Hagerstown won by the score of 14-7.

Allegany Defeated Hubs

Allegany, Fort Hill's Turkey Day rival, knocked off the Hubs to the tune of 20-6 here several weeks ago and the result of tonight's game will give local grid fans an opportunity to get a line on the city teams, if comparative scores mean anything. Allegany whipped Montgomery Blair by the margin of a touchdown while Hagerstown lost to the Blazers by the margin of 12 points.

Hagerstown is having a poor season and now owns a 1-5 record. Four of the Hubs defeats have been via the shutout route while Fort Hill holds the distinction of going 65 games without a blanking.

Coach Henry is a former Penn Avenue player and coached Fort Hill in 1943, 1944 and 1945 when his teams won 23, lost 3 and tied one. Since he took over the job at Hagerstown his Hubs have faced Fort Hill four times, winning one and losing three.

Russ Poling Returns

Russell Poling, regular fullback of the Sentinels, who has been inactive for five weeks due to a broken finger, is expected to play in tonight's game.

Officials from Johntown, Pa., will handle tonight's contest.

Here are the probable starting lineups:

Like their crosstown rivals, the Allegany Campers, whom they meet one week from tonight, LaSalle High School Explorers will be trying to make it five victories in a row when they tackle winless Altoona Catholic High School tonight at Altoona, Pa.

Norman Geatz's North Centre Street aggregation has turned back Petersburg, Keyser, Parsons and Thomas in their last four outings and figures to whip the Marauders in the 10th game of their series tonight. LaSalle won at Altoona in 1951 to the tune of 30-0 but trails in the series, 2-6, with one game having ended in a tie.

LaSalle will play without the services of Leo Franklin, tackle, who suffered a broken hand last week and Guard Jack Long, who has been idled with blood clots of the leg and hip. Phil Geatz, regular end, has a torn leg ligament but may see some action.

The Explorers' squad is scheduled to leave at 3:30 p. m. for Altoona. Opening kickoff is set for 8.

If the Explorers cop tonight's game they will have equalled the school's longest winning streak of five games set by the 1929 LaSalle eleven.

Altoona Catholic has failed to win a single game in six starts this season. The Marauders are coached by Joe O'Bara, former Penn State College athlete.

The Explorers will be playing their 19th game since Geatz took over the reins late in the 1951 campaign. They've won 13, lost 4 and tied one, and eight of the last nine starts have been victories.

Here are the probable starting lineups:

Price's Rectortown Pays $26.40 To Place At Waterford Park

Rectortown, 4-year-old gelding, owned by Enoch P. Price, Frostburg, rewarded backers with $26.40 and $11.40 by finishing second to First Boston in the eighth race yesterday at Waterford Park, W. Va.

S. Small was aboard Rectortown, the only one of the Price string of ten thoroughbreds quartered at Waterford.

Busy Beacon, Bonziah Seniah and Hunters Glory are at Wheeling awaiting the opening of the 21-day meeting November 4 and Fighting Harp is at Thistledown near Cleveland.

Five of the Price horses, Melissa W. Bus N Bus, Hurry Beacon La Vega and Stanley are resting up at Fairgo and will not run until next year. Tiz Tiz It and Nimble K Fox have been sold.

Allegany JVs Beat Keyser Eleven, 27-0

Cecil Gets Three TDs, Runs 75 Yards For 3rd

Eddie Cecil accounted for three touchdowns yesterday as Coach Jim Hosack's Allegany High School's Jayvees racked up their third straight gridiron triumph at Campobello at the expense of the Keyser High junior varsity. The score was 27-0.

Cecil climaxed a 70-yard drive in the opening period by smashing over from the one, made a 13-yard end run for a six-pointer in the second quarter and broke over tackle and sprinted 75 yards for his third TD in the third stanza.

The Little Campers' final score came in the last quarter when Ronnie Dick hit Jake Marker with a 30-yard pass on the ten and the latter scampered into the end zone.

Marker kicked extra points after the first three scores but his fourth in a row was nullified due to a holding penalty. His second try fell short of the crossbar. Jake has made seven conversions in nine tries in the past two games.

Dick Perdew co-starred with Cecil in the ground-gaining department while Carl Brown, Barry Sterner and Jerry Proud were towers of strength on defense. Kuykendall and Tribbett were Keyser's standouts.

Allegany led in first downs, 8 to 3, piled up 173 yards to Keyser's 81 rushing and completed one pass in two tries for 40 yards. Keyser completed one aerial in three attempts for a gain of seven yards and had one intercepted. The lineups:

Pos.	Allegany 27	Keyser (6)

Victorious in their last four engagements, Allegany High School's Campers will invade Martinsburg tonight to test Coach John Cobourn's Bulldogs in the 29th game of their gridiron series.

Coach Roy Lester's eleven will be angling for its fifth consecutive victory after having knocked off Beall, Hagerstown, Keyser and Montgomery Blair in that order. A five-game winning skein would be Allegany's best performance since 1948 when Bob Pence's Campers bagged nine in a row.

Martinsburg High is being tutored by John Cobourn for the 21st year. The Orange and Black defeated Hagerstown last week by the score of 6-0 while A.H.S. defeated the Hubs by the margin of two touchdowns three weeks ago. The Bulldogs go into tonight's fray with a 2-3 record and one of the defeats came at the hands of Fort Hill (20-0) which battles Allegany on Thanksgiving Day.

In the long grid series that was inaugurated in 1919, Allegany holds a 17-9 edge in wins. Two games ended in ties.

Coach Lester last night announced that Don Puhalla, fullback, and Herb Gaither, tackle, will co-captain the Campers in tonight's game. The Allegany squad will leave at 1:30 p. m. for Martinsburg. Game time is 8 o'clock.

Troy To Fight Sandy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Willie Troy of Washington and Randy Sandy of New York, a pair of high-ranking middleweights, signed today for a 10-round rematch Nov. 11. The fight will be televised nationally by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Top Shuffle Teams Lose

Hahn's, Cas Taylor's, Purple Heart Score

The three top teams in the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League suffered defeats in matches held last night. Hann's Tavern scored a 2-1 decision over the Cumberland Knights of Columbia, Stadium Inn, Frostburg, dropped two games to the Purple Heart Club and Cas Taylor's defeated the Frostburg American Legion, 2-1.

The local K-C shufflers (11-4) retained their one-game lead over Stadium Inn, Frostburg Legion and Frostburg K. of C., now deadlocked for the runner-up spot with 10-5 records.

Frostburg's K. of C. moved into the triple tie by sweeping three games from the Cumberland Amvets.

Other results were:

Hi Dee Bar 2, Cumberland V.F. W. 1; Mike Miller's, Frostburg 3, Mt. Savage V.F.W. 0; Fisher and Robinette 2, Goodfellowship Club 1. Tonight the Frostburg Golden Nugget will play the Woodmen of the World here.

Last night's high scorers:

"Butch" Minnicks, Frostburg K-C 30; Esposito and Macfarlane, Amvets, tied at 20; Carl Landis, Hann's 24; Kilroy, Cumberland K-C 22; D.Pusso, Hi Dee Bar, 20; Glenn Watson, Cumberland V.F.W. 21; Tom Kilduff, Mt. Savage V.F.W. 16; Mike Miller, of Mike Miller's 23; Stangle, Stadium Inn, 20; Burkey, Purple Heart, 16; Dayton, Frostburg Legion, 17; Bob Powers, Cas Taylor's, 21; Roby, Goodfellowship Club, 24; Valentine, Fisher and Robinette 32.

Lakers To Battle All-Stars Tonight

CHICAGO, Oct. 22 (AP)—A collegiate squad, equipped with seven players 6-feet, 6-inches or taller, will try to even the All-Star basketball series against the pros at the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night.

Again the opposition is provided by the champion Minneapolis Lakers of the National Basketball Association. The rivalry has produced seven pro victories against six for the collegians.

Directing the college squad is Seton Hall's John (Honey) Russell, who believes his height-emphasized unit is capable of spilling the slick Lakers, featuring skyscrapers as George Mikan and Clyde Lovellette.

The game's tallest player will be 6-11 Walter Dukes from Russell's own Seton Hall. The "short" of the All-Star attack will be represented by the little O'Brien twins of Seattle University, Johnny and Eddie, both 5-9. They have been given Army leave to play.

Black Knights, Aggies To Play At Home Today

Beall Tests Flintstone, Valley Hosts Mt. Savage

Flintstone High's Aggies and Valley High's Black Knights of Lonaconing, deadlocked for first place with 3-1 records, play home games today with Beall and Mt. Savage as the last half of the W.M.I. Soccer League race gets under way.

Coach Orville (Stoney) Jackson's Aggies will be shooting for a sweep of the Beall series as they opened the season with a 4-0 decision over the Frostburg eleven. Beall has won one and lost three games.

John Frank will officiate in the game at Flintstone.

Johnny Meyers' Valley High booters are hopeful of repeating over Mt. Savage (1-3) whom they defeated in the series opener, 3-1.

Cecil Warnick will do the whistle tooting in this contest, scheduled at Barton.

Maryland Plays Miami Tonight

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 22 (AP)—Maryland's terrible Terrapins, a good bet to play in the Orange Bowl football game next New Year's Day, will get the feel of the big stadium when they meet Miami's Hurricanes tomorrow night.

A crowd of 45,000 is expected at the bowl to see Coach Jim Tatum's mighty Maryland team, ranked third in the nation, go after its sixth straight win of the season against a Miami team that is twice beaten but no pushover. Maryland is a three-touchdown favorite.

Keyser's Tilt With Jackets Tops PVC Card

Romney To Seek 7th In Row Over Hawks

Keyser's engagement with Moorefield High's Yellow Jackets looms as the top attraction in the Potomac Valley Conference today.

The contest is scheduled for Keyser and it will be the twenty-third of a series that started in 1927. Keyser holds a 14-9 edge in victories.

Keyser has an overall record of 4-2 and is 1-0 in the conference while Moorefield's season mark is 2-2-2 and 2-2-1 in the PVC.

Dick McElwee's high-flying Romney High Pioneers are scheduled to play hosts to the Ridgeley Blackhawks today. Romney is 6-0 for the season and 2-0 in the PVC and is an overwhelming favorite to defeat the Hawks who have split even in six contests.

Jesse Riggleman's Petersburg High Vikings who have won three and tied once in the nine-school circuit meet Guy Propst's Circleville Indians (1-2) today at Petersburg.

Tucker county teams will be in action on two fronts today. At Thomas, Ed Supak's Thomas High eleven (4-2) plays host to the Berkeley Springs Indians while Parsons' Panthers (2-4) invade Romney for a contest with the West Virginia School for the Deaf (0-5) at 2:45 o'clock.

In another non-conference test, Franklin's Panthers (4-2) entertain the Elkins High School "B" eleven.

Beall is at home Saturday with the Charles Town (W. Va.) Panthers while Potomac State battles the Shepherd Rams at Shepherdstown.

The jerboa, an Egyptian animal about the size of a mouse, can leap nine feet at a time.

Stopped for the first time this season at Winchester, Va., last Saturday, Coach William P. Hahn's Fort Hill High School Sentinels will be striving to return to the win column tonight when they lock horns with Mel Henry's Maroon and Gray clad gridiron warriors from Hagerstown High School at the local stadium at 8 o'clock.

It's the 18th meeting of the Hilltoppers and Hubs and in the 17 contests played since 1936 the locals hold a 13-3 edge in victories. One game ended in a tie. Last year Hagerstown won by the score of 14-7.

Allegany Defeated Hubs

Allegany, Fort Hill's Turkey Day rival, knocked off the Hubs to the tune of 20-6 here several weeks ago and the result of tonight's game will give local grid fans an opportunity to get a line on the city teams, if comparative scores mean anything. Allegany whipped Montgomery Blair by the margin of a touchdown while Hagerstown lost to the Blazers by the margin of 12 points.

Hagerstown is having a poor season and now owns a 1-5 record. Four of the Hubs defeats have been via the shutout route while Fort Hill holds the distinction of going 65 games without a blanking.

Coach Henry is a former Penn Avenue player and coached Fort Hill in 1943, 1944 and 1945 when his teams won 23, lost 3 and tied one. Since he took over the job at Hagerstown his Hubs have faced Fort Hill four times, winning one and losing three.

Russ Poling Returns

Russell Poling, regular fullback of the Sentinels, who has been inactive for five weeks due to a broken finger, is expected to play in tonight's game.

Officials from Johntown, Pa., will handle tonight's contest.

Here are the probable starting lineups:

Explorers Set For 10th Game With Altoona

Locals Play Minus Franklin And Long In Pennsy Invasion

RECORD OF TEAMS

			Won 0, Lost 6

Like their crosstown rivals, the Allegany Campers, whom they meet one week from tonight, LaSalle High School Explorers will be trying to make it five victories in a row when they tackle winless Altoona Catholic High School tonight at Altoona, Pa.

Norman Geatz's North Centre Street aggregation has turned back Petersburg, Keyser, Parsons and Thomas in their last four outings and figures to whip the Marauders in the 10th game of their series tonight. LaSalle won at Altoona in 1951 to the tune of 30-0 but trails in the series, 2-6, with one game having ended in a tie.

LaSalle will play without the services of Leo Franklin, tackle, who suffered a broken hand last week and Guard Jack Long, who has been idled with blood clots of the leg and hip. Phil Geatz, regular end, has a torn leg ligament but may see some action.

The Explorers' squad is scheduled to leave at 3:30 p. m. for Altoona. Opening kickoff is set for 8.

If the Explorers cop tonight's game they will have equalled the school's longest winning streak of five games set by the 1929 LaSalle eleven.

Altoona Catholic has failed to win a single game in six starts this season. The Marauders are coached by Joe O'Bara, former Penn State College athlete.

The Explorers will be playing their 19th game since Geatz took over the reins late in the 1951 campaign. They've won 13, lost 4 and tied one, and eight of the last nine starts have been victories.

Here are the probable starting lineups:

Pos.	Altoona	LaSalle
LE	Burns	Wilt
LT	DiVentura	Dove
LG	Dibert	Harris

Price's Rectortown Pays $26.40 To Place At Waterford Park

Rectortown, 4-year-old gelding, owned by Enoch P. Price, Frostburg, rewarded backers with $26.40 and $11.40 by finishing second to First Boston in the eighth race yesterday at Waterford Park, W. Va.

S. Small was aboard Rectortown, the only one of the Price string of ten thoroughbreds quartered at Waterford.

Busy Beacon, Bonziah Seniah and Hunters Glory are at Wheeling awaiting the opening of the 21-day meeting November 4 and Fighting Harp is at Thistledown near Cleveland.

Five of the Price horses, Melissa W. Bus N Bus, Hurry Beacon La Vega and Stanley are resting up at Fairgo and will not run until next year. Tiz Tiz It and Nimble K Fox have been sold.

Allegany JVs Beat Keyser Eleven, 27-0

Cecil Gets Three TDs, Runs 75 Yards For 3rd

Eddie Cecil accounted for three touchdowns yesterday as Coach Jim Hosack's Allegany High School's Jayvees racked up their third straight gridiron triumph at Campobello at the expense of the Keyser High junior varsity. The score was 27-0.

Cecil climaxed a 70-yard drive in the opening period by smashing over from the one, made a 13-yard end run for a six-pointer in the second quarter and broke over tackle and sprinted 75 yards for his third TD in the third stanza.

The Little Campers' final score came in the last quarter when Ronnie Dick hit Jake Marker with a 30-yard pass on the ten and the latter scampered into the end zone.

Marker kicked extra points after the first three scores but his fourth in a row was nullified due to a holding penalty. His second try fell short of the crossbar. Jake has made seven conversions in nine tries in the past two games.

Dick Perdew co-starred with Cecil in the ground-gaining department while Carl Brown, Barry Sterner and Jerry Proud were towers of strength on defense. Kuykendall and Tribbett were Keyser's standouts.

Allegany led in first downs, 8 to 3, piled up 173 yards to Keyser's 81 rushing and completed one pass in two tries for 40 yards. Keyser completed one aerial in three attempts for a gain of seven yards and had one intercepted. The lineups:

Pos.	Allegany 27	Keyser (0)
LE	Lacy	Alt
LT	Lowendick	Wells
LG	Brown	Athey
C	Lueck	Mills
RG	Yankelevitz	Welch
RT	Sterner	Watring

Victorious in their last four engagements, Allegany High School's Campers will invade Martinsburg tonight to test Coach John Cobourn's Bulldogs in the 29th game of their gridiron series.

Coach Roy Lester's eleven will be angling for its fifth consecutive victory after having knocked off Beall, Hagerstown, Keyser and Montgomery Blair in that order. A five-game winning skein would be Allegany's best performance since 1948 when Bob Pence's Campers bagged nine in a row.

Martinsburg High is being tutored by John Cobourn for the 21st year. The Orange and Black defeated Hagerstown last week by the score of 6-0 while A.H.S. defeated the Hubs by the margin of two touchdowns three weeks ago. The Bulldogs go into tonight's fray with a 2-3 record and one of the defeats came at the hands of Fort Hill (20-0) which battles Allegany on Thanksgiving Day.

In the long grid series that was inaugurated in 1919, Allegany holds a 17-9 edge in wins. Two games ended in ties.

Coach Lester last night announced that Don Puhalla, fullback, and Herb Gaither, tackle, will co-captain the Campers in tonight's game. The Allegany squad will leave at 1:30 p. m. for Martinsburg. Game time is 8 o'clock.

Troy To Fight Sandy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Willie Troy of Washington and Randy Sandy of New York, a pair of high-ranking middleweights, signed today for a 10-round rematch Nov. 11. The fight will be televised nationally by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Top Shuffle Teams Lose

Hahn's, Cas Taylor's, Purple Heart Score

The three top teams in the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League suffered defeats in matches held last night. Hann's Tavern scored a 2-1 decision over the Cumberland Knights of Columbia, Stadium Inn, Frostburg, dropped two games to the Purple Heart Club and Cas Taylor's defeated the Frostburg American Legion, 2-1.

The local K-C shufflers (11-4) retained their one-game lead over Stadium Inn, Frostburg Legion and Frostburg K. of C., now deadlocked for the runner-up spot with 10-5 records.

Frostburg's K. of C. moved into the triple tie by sweeping three games from the Cumberland Amvets.

Other results were:

Hi Dee Bar 2, Cumberland V.F.W. 1; Mike Miller's, Frostburg 3, Mt. Savage V.F.W. 0; Fisher and Robinette 2, Goodfellowship Club 1. Tonight the Frostburg Golden Nugget will play the Woodmen of the World here.

Last night's high scorers:

"Butch" Minnicks, Frostburg K-C 30; Esposito and Macfarlane, Amvets, tied at 20; Carl Landis, Hann's 24; Kilroy, Cumberland K-C 22; D.Pusso, Hi Dee Bar, 20; Glenn Watson, Cumberland V.F.W. 21; Tom Kilduff, Mt. Savage V.F.W. 16; Mike Miller, of Mike Miller's 23; Stangle, Stadium Inn, 20; Burkey, Purple Heart, 16; Dayton, Frostburg Legion, 17; Bob Powers, Cas Taylor's, 21; Roby, Goodfellowship Club, 24; Valentine, Fisher and Robinette 32.

Lakers To Battle All-Stars Tonight

CHICAGO, Oct. 22 (AP)—A collegiate squad, equipped with seven players 6-feet, 6-inches or taller, will try to even the All-Star basketball series against the pros at the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night.

Again the opposition is provided by the champion Minneapolis Lakers of the National Basketball Association. The rivalry has produced seven pro victories against six for the collegians.

Directing the college squad is Seton Hall's John (Honey) Russell, who believes his height-emphasized unit is capable of spilling the slick Lakers, featuring skyscrapers as George Mikan and Clyde Lovellette.

The game's tallest player will be 6-11 Walter Dukes from Russell's own Seton Hall. The "short" of the All-Star attack will be represented by the little O'Brien twins of Seattle University, Johnny and Eddie, both 5-9. They have been given Army leave to play.

Black Knights, Aggies To Play At Home Today

Beall Tests Flintstone, Valley Hosts Mt. Savage

Flintstone High's Aggies and Valley High's Black Knights of Lonaconing, deadlocked for first place with 3-1 records, play home games today with Beall and Mt. Savage as the last half of the W.M.I. Soccer League race gets under way.

Coach Orville (Stoney) Jackson's Aggies will be shooting for a sweep of the Beall series as they opened the season with a 4-0 decision over the Frostburg eleven. Beall has won one and lost three games.

John Frank will officiate in the game at Flintstone.

Johnny Meyers' Valley High booters are hopeful of repeating over Mt. Savage (1-3) whom they defeated in the series opener, 3-1.

Cecil Warnick will do the whistle tooting in this contest, scheduled at Barton.

Maryland Plays Miami Tonight

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 22 (AP)—Maryland's terrible Terrapins, a good bet to play in the Orange Bowl football game next New Year's Day, will get the feel of the big stadium when they meet Miami's Hurricanes tomorrow night.

A crowd of 45,000 is expected at the bowl to see Coach Jim Tatum's mighty Maryland team, ranked third in the nation, go after its sixth straight win of the season against a Miami team that is twice beaten but no pushover. Maryland is a three-touchdown favorite.

Keyser's Tilt With Jackets Tops PVC Card

Romney To Seek 7th In Row Over Hawks

Keyser's engagement with Moorefield High's Yellow Jackets looms as the top attraction in the Potomac Valley Conference today.

The contest is scheduled for Keyser and it will be the twenty-third of a series that started in 1927. Keyser holds a 14-9 edge in victories.

Keyser has an overall record of 4-2 and is 1-0 in the conference while Moorefield's season mark is 2-2-2 and 2-2-1 in the PVC.

Dick McElwee's high-flying Romney High Pioneers are scheduled to play hosts to the Ridgeley Blackhawks today. Romney is 6-0 for the season and 2-0 in the PVC and is an overwhelming favorite to defeat the Hawks who have split even in six contests.

Jesse Riggleman's Petersburg High Vikings who have won three and tied once in the nine-school circuit meet Guy Propst's Circleville Indians (1-2) today at Petersburg.

Tucker county teams will be in action on two fronts today. At Thomas, Ed Supak's Thomas High eleven (4-2) plays host to the Berkeley Springs Indians while Parsons' Panthers (2-4) invade Romney for a contest with the West Virginia School for the Deaf (0-5) at 2:45 o'clock.

In another non-conference test, Franklin's Panthers (4-2) entertain the Elkins High School "B" eleven.

Beall is at home Saturday with the Charles Town (W. Va.) Panthers while Potomac State battles the Shepherd Rams at Shepherdstown.

Watkins, Bates And Mapp Lead Point Scorers

Trio Tops Major Colleges With 48

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—A pair of Big Ten powerhouses and a speedster from the South are leading the race for individual scoring honors in major college football ranks.

They are Bob Watkins of Ohio State, Mickey Bates of Illinois and Johnny Mapp of Virginia Military Institute, tied for the point-making lead with eight touchdowns and 48 points each.

The race became wide open with the disqualification of Joe Ulm of San Jose State, who was declared ineligible because of his previous junior college competition. Ulm had 11 touchdowns and 66 points.

Other individual pace setters are:

Pass catching—Ken Buck of College of the Pacific, who has caught 30 passes for 364 yards and two touchdowns in five games.

Punting—Sammy Morrow of Texas Christian University, who has averaged 48.4 yards on 12 tries in four games.

Punt runbacks—Aramis Dandoy of Southern California, who has returned 11 punts for 206 yards.

Kickoff returns—Jimmy Thacker of Davidson, who has brought eight kickoffs back for a total of 237 yards.

Dittmer Rejected

ELKADER, Iowa, Oct. 22 (AP)—Jack Dittmer, Milwaukee Braves second baseman, said today he has been rejected a third time for military service. Cause of the rejection was not announced by the board here.

Gamecocks Win, 14-7; 35,000 See Contest

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 22 (AP)—The University of South Carolina, bolstered by lightning-like passes and opposition fumbles, rolled to a 14-7 State Fair football triumph over Clemson College here today.

A holiday crowd of 35,000 witnessed the Atlantic Coast Conference game, the 51st meetings of the two schools.

South Carolina struck swiftly in the second quarter after Clemson had lost the ball twice on fumbles deep in South Carolina territory. Quarterback Johnny Gramling passed 45 yards to end Clyde Bennett, who stepped over the goal line to score.

Sub quarterback Harold Lewis passed 21 yards to sub end Joe Silas, all by himself in the end zone, to give South Carolina a third-period score on the end of a 90-yard drive. Placement specialist Jim Jarrett converted after both touchdowns.

A clipping penalty against South Carolina coupled with a short punt from behind its own goal combined to set up Clemson's touchdown late in the final period. After punching out short gains from South Carolina's 28, Clemson sub quarterback Tom Williams passed 13 yards to end Scott Jackson at the goal line.

Clemson	0	0 0 7— 7
South Carolina	0	7 7 0—14

Clemson scoring: Touchdown, Jackson. Conversion, Hubert.

South Carolina scoring: Touchdown, Bennett, Silas. Conversion, Jarrett 2.

Special Shapes Up As Two-Horse Race

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22 (AP)—Saturday's Pimlico Special shaped up late today as a two-horse race, and a pretty lopsided one at that.

Track officials said today that only Tom Fool, Greentree Stable mount who has won all nine of his starts this year, and E. P. Taylor's Navy Page are on hand to become entries.

The entry box will be locked up at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow.

Should the race develop into a two-horse affair, as expected, it is likely that no betting will be allowed and the track will schedule eight other betting races.

I was a mighty low HIGHBALL 'til Calvert raised my spirits!

"They laughed—when I was set down on the piano. Soda... ginger ale... or just plain water only mixed me up. Then I switched to Calvert. I suddenly had more friends than you can shake a swizzle stick at. Make your next whiskey drink with Calvert. You'll really taste the difference!"

TEST WHISKIES BEFORE... and enjoy drinks more!

A Highball or any whiskey drink can only taste as good as the whiskey you put into it. That's why we suggest you compare Calvert with your present brand and see which whiskey is really for you. Here's how:

SNIFF ¼-oz. samples of each whiskey for aroma. TASTE Calvert and the other whiskey critically for smoothness, flavor, freedom from bite. CHOOSE the whiskey your own taste tells you is better.

We're sure you'll pick smoother, mellower Calvert. But you be the judge. Fair enough?

Trio Tops Major Colleges With 48

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—A pair of Big Ten powerhouses and a speedster from the South are leading the race for individual scoring honors in major college football ranks.

They are Bob Watkins of Ohio State, Mickey Bates of Illinois and Johnny Mapp of Virginia Military Institute, tied for the point-making lead with eight touchdowns and 48 points each.

The race became wide open with the disqualification of Joe Ulm of San Jose State, who was declared ineligible because of his previous junior college competition. Ulm had 11 touchdowns and 66 points.

Other individual pace setters are:

Pass catching—Ken Buck of College of the Pacific, who has caught 30 passes for 364 yards and two touchdowns in five games.

Punting—Sammy Morrow of Texas Christian University, who has averaged 48.4 yards on 12 tries in four games.

Punt runbacks—Aramis Dandoy of Southern California, who has returned 11 punts for 206 yards.

Kickoff returns—Jimmy Thacker of Davidson, who has brought eight kickoffs back for a total of 237 yards.

Dittmer Rejected

ELKADER, Iowa, Oct. 22 (AP)—Jack Dittmer, Milwaukee Braves second baseman, said today he has been rejected a third time for military service. Cause of the rejection was not announced by the board here.

Idaho 14, Oregon State 6 . . . OSC's first score, too little, too late.

South Carolina Whips Clemson

Gamecocks Win, 14-7; 35,000 See Contest

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 22 (AP)—The University of South Carolina, bolstered by lightning-like passes and opposition fumbles, rolled to a 14-7 State Fair football triumph over Clemson College here today.

A holiday crowd of 35,000 witnessed the Atlantic Coast Conference game, the 51st meetings of the two schools.

South Carolina struck swiftly in the second quarter after Clemson had lost the ball twice on fumbles deep in South Carolina territory. Quarterback Johnny Gramling passed 45 yards to end Clyde Bennett, who stepped over the goal line to score.

Sub quarterback Harold Lewis passed 21 yards to sub end Joe Silas, all by himself in the end zone, to give South Carolina a third-period score on the end of a 90-yard drive. Placement specialist Jim Jarrett converted after both touchdowns.

A clipping penalty against South Carolina coupled with a short punt from behind its own goal combined to set up Clemson's touchdown late in the final period. After punching out short gains from South Carolina's 28, Clemson sub quarterback Tom Williams passed 13 yards to end Scott Jackson at the goal line.

Clemson	0	0	0	7—7
South Carolina	0	7	7	0—14

Clemson scoring: Touchdown, Jackson. Conversion, Hubert.

South Carolina scoring: Touchdown, Bennett, Silas. Conversion, Jarrett 2.

Special Shapes Up As Two-Horse Race

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22 (AP)—Saturday's Pimlico Special shaped up late today as a two-horse race, and a pretty lopsided one at that.

Track officials said today that only Tom Fool, Greentree Stable mount who has won all nine of his starts this year, and E. P. Taylor's Navy Page are on hand to become entries.

The entry box will be locked up at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow.

Should the race develop into a two-horse affair, as expected, it is likely that no betting will be allowed and the track will schedule eight other betting races.

I was a mighty low HIGHBALL 'til Calvert raised my spirits!

"They laughed—when I was set down on the piano. Soda...ginger ale...or just plain water only mixed me up. Then I switched to Calvert. I suddenly had more friends than you can shake a swizzle stick at. Make your next whiskey drink with Calvert. You'll really taste the difference!"

TEST WHISKIES BEFORE... and enjoy drinks more!

A Highball or any whiskey drink can only taste as good as the whiskey you put into it. That's why we suggest you compare Calvert with your present brand and see which whiskey is really for you. Here's how:

SNIFF ¼-oz. samples of each whiskey for aroma. TASTE Calvert and the other whiskey critically for smoothness, flavor, freedom from bite. CHOOSE the whiskey your own taste tells you is better.

We're sure you'll pick smoother, mellower Calvert. But you be the judge. Fair enough?

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 22 (INS) — When the chariots start rollin' in "Ben Hur," Ava Gardner will be the femme star playing the role of Iris originated by Carmel Myers in the former version.

While Ava stews over her domestic troubles in Palm Springs, MGM is going ahead with big plans for her as though she weren't even married to F. Sinatra.

When somebody asked Ava the basis of her trouble with Frankie, she is quoted as saying, "you can't compete with three children."

If she feels that way, she'll probably be glad that her next two assignments take her away from Hollywood — "Ben Hur" to Italy —and "Prodigal Son" to the Holy Land, probably.

No one hears anything direct from Bette Davis, living like a hermit with Gary Merrill and the children in New England. So, we'll take the word of her agent, Bill Shiffrin, that she's fully recovered from her jaw infection and rarin' to go again.

He says Bette has long had a yen to do a western and he's found just the story she wants, "The Bird Cage," an original by Niven Busch. In fact, he's selling it as a "package deal" with Bette starring and Busch scripting.

"The Bird Cage" is a saloon, in case you're interested, with Bette playing a land baroness who runs it.

Now that her baby is a month old, Esther Williams will be happy to hear that Dorothy Kingsley is working on a very interesting screenplay for her.

The famous Robert Sherwood play, "The Road To Rome," which I seem to remember Jane Cowl did many years ago, is being converted into a musical for Esther and Joe Pasternak. No, Joe won't act, he'll produce it.

And speaking of Joe, how nostalgic it was to see him with Deanna Durbin at the Mocambo. He made all of her great pictures at Universal.

Our town has not had a story in months that so shocked us as the separation of the Ray Millands. Hard to believe it could happen because Ray was so miserable when he and Mal separated twelve years ago and he vowed he would never do another thing to make her unhappy. Somehow, I can't believe this is really for keeps.

I am terribly surprised at the reason behind the separation, and I think when Ray takes a calm survey of the entire situation he will realize what a mistake he is making. One thing, he is very tired. He's doing TV and working at Warners at the same time. He is highly strung and nervous, and in his heart he adores lovely May and he loves his children.

Chatter in Hollywood: I had not heard about June Lang in ages and ages until I was told that Jerry Geisler is getting a divorce for her from William Hayes Morgan, of the wealthy Chicago banking family. June's big complaint is that although her husband is very rich he only gives her fifteen dollars a week with which to run their large house.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Lucky for Johnny Desmond that he has Don McNeill as his boss. Don gave him an extended leave of absence, while poor Julius La Rosa, Arthur Godfrey's singer, was fired for wanting to do outside things.

Hal Perry leaves Monday for New York for a disc jockey job. Two years ago he was "hot" as "The Great Gildersleeve."

Congratulations to the William Bendixes on their 25th wedding anniversary. They celebrated it in Palm Springs with a silver plaque on their wedding cake.

Much admiration given to the beautiful Barry sisters who are packing them in at the Band Box. One looks like Gene Tierney and the other like Loretta Young — and that ain't bad.

Florabel Muir starts her TV show "Florabel Muir Reporting" Nov. 1, twice a week.

On Sunday Humphrey Bogart will be with Jack Benny on TV, while directly opposite him Lauren Bacall will be with Donald O'Connor on a rival network.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

To protect your investment, many of the loveliest materials are being moth-proofed before you get them!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

There's a certain type of woman who always shows up as one of the best-dressed in any group. She's a lover of quality and her clothes always show it. But, contrary to what others think, over a period of years her wardrobe expenditure is no more than that of many who envy her.

Her secret lies not only in knowing quality but in knowing fashion, line and trend—and in understanding perfectly what is right for her life, her coloring and her figure. When it comes to buying clothes, she earns a "cum laude" on every purchase that she makes. Consequently, her wardrobe has gems of fashion that are often years old but eminently wearable.

Durable Moth-proofing

She takes her time in making any selection. She considers it carefully from every angle. Recognizing immediately her knowledge of quality and style, the sales people who aid her respect her judgement. Instead of trying to "sell" her, they carefully note her selections. Invariably each new addition to her wardrobe is another "pearl" of fashion which she will wear for years with pleasure and assurance.

There is some special good news right now for this type of woman. More and more of the fine fabrics that she so loves are being moth-proofed by the manufacturers. It is expected that fifteen million such articles will be made available this year—an increase of more than 100% over last.

Protecting Investments

Most of this extra protection is being given to fabrics made of such expensive luxury animal fibers as cashmere, camels hair, vicuna, alpaca and lambs wool. This durable moth-proofing, a process that is only a few years old, makes quality material almost a "gilt-edged" investment.

For those who are schooled in the art of selecting a "timeless" fashion and who do not tire easily of something that is beautifully made of a beautiful fabric, durable moth-proofing is very good news, indeed!

Tomorrow: Toning exercises.

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

Orson Welles' Lear

Orson Welles, a great ham of an actor, undertook the role of King Lear, a great ham of a part, on "Omnibus" last Sunday and was, I thought, enormously impressive. This was the great Orson's television debut and it was a fortunate inspiration to cast him as Lear. No other part is big enough for Welles who suffers from gigantism of manner and mind.

John Crosby

Welles, whose five-year sojourn abroad has added quite a lot of poundage to his face and the rest of him, was every inch a king, a phrase that came from Lear, and his voice, a redoubtable organ, was superb in declaiming some of the most sweeping poetry in all of Shakespeare.

I had never seen "King Lear" before. It isn't done very often and, when it is performed, is seldom, I'm told, well done. In fact, a body of opinion holds that Lear, magnificent as it is in print, doesn't play very well, that the appalling range of good and evil simply is too outsize to put on a stage.

After watching it Sunday, I fail to see this argument. "King Lear" is not the most plausible of Shakespeare's plays. Lear's abysmal stupidity at the opening of the play, the two daughters Regan and Goneril, conceivably the most evil characters in all literature, the shining nobility of Cordelia, the lust and cruelty and avarice and insanity of some of the characters are a little hard to take all in one play. Shakespeare really threw the book at us in this one.

Still, when put in the hands of a good cast—and this was a very good one—the play comes to life beautifully. Peter Brook, the brilliant young English director, cut the play from two and a half hours to something under 90 minutes. The main plot—Lear's mistreatment at the hand of his wicked daughters—remained substantially intact. The subplot—the Earl of Gloucester's parallel experiences with his two sons—disappeared.

However, since there is a certain overlapping between main and subplots, some of the sense of the play disappeared with it. Gloucester's main function in this version was to have his eyes plucked out, a scene I had just as soon Shakespeare had never written. Since he did, I would have been happy if Mr. Brook had performed the operation out of camera range somewhere. But no, it was all there in all its gory details.

The end of Lear is a tough thing for anyone to pull off successfully. Practically everything is happening at once. The King of France invades the land. Cordelia and the King are captured and imprisoned. Goneril and Regan are both making passes at Gloucester's son, Edmund. Regan is about to walk off with the boy when Goneril poisons her. Incidentally, this was purely inexplicable. Regan suddenly collapses and dies without, to my knowledge, any explanation. In the text, Shakespeare dismisses this particular homicide with only a few lines, but a director must see to it that these few lines are properly emphasized.

Given such lines as "Howl howl howl howl! O you are men of stone," the temptation must be strong to any actor to howl down the wind. Welles resisted it. You can hardly give a restrained performance of Lear, but Welles kept himself decently reined in, even in the storm scene where the language is as wild as the elements.

The production, I'm happy to report, followed classic lines. For once, they didn't put the actors in costumes out of "The Student Prince" against settings out of Louis XIV. The castles were appropriately medieval, full of portcullises, drawbridges, flickering torches and the like. Welles was bearded and majestic and caparisoned like a king.

Beatrice Straight as Goneril and Margaret Phillips as Regan were finely poisonous as the two dear little sisters, though I doubt that any actresses could give full justice to those murderous roles. Alan Badel played the extraordinarily difficult role of the Fool with great compassion and warmth but he was occasionally inaudible. And there were fine performances by Natasha Parry as Cordelia (which isn't really a very good part), Bramwell Fletcher as Kent and Arnold Moss as the Duke of Albany.

Altogether, it was a memorable hour and a half and I hope Mr. Welles proposes to tarry in this country long enough to do a few more plays on television.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 22 (INS) — When the chariots start rollin' in "Ben Hur," Ava Gardner will be the femme star playing the role of Iris originated by Carmel Myers in the former version.

While Ava stews over her domestic troubles in Palm Springs, MGM is going ahead with big plans for her as though she weren't even married to F. Sinatra.

When somebody asked Ava the basis of her trouble with Frankie, she is quoted as saying, "you can't compete with three children."

If she feels that way, she'll probably be glad that her next two assignments take her away from Hollywood — "Ben Hur" to Italy —and "Prodigal Son" to the Holy Land, probably.

No one hears anything direct from Bette Davis, living like a hermit with Gary Merrill and the children in New England. So, we'll take the word of her agent, Bill Shiffrin, that she's fully recovered from her jaw infection and rarin' to go again.

He says Bette has long had a yen to do a western and he's found just the story she wants, "The Bird Cage," an original by Niven Busch. In fact, he's selling it as a "package deal" with Bette starring and Busch scripting.

"The Bird Cage" is a saloon, in case you're interested, with Bette playing a land baroness who runs it.

Now that her baby is a month old, Esther Williams will be happy to hear that Dorothy Kingsley is working on a very interesting screenplay for her.

The famous Robert Sherwood play, "The Road To Rome," which I seem to remember Jane Cowl did many years ago, is being converted into a musical for Esther and Joe Pasternak. No, Joe won't act, he'll produce it.

And speaking of Joe, how nostalgic it was to see him with Deanna Durbin at the Mocambo. He made all of her great pictures at Universal.

Our town has not had a story in months that so shocked us as the separation of the Ray Millands. Hard to believe it could happen because Ray was so miserable when he and Mal separated twelve years ago and he vowed he would never do another thing to make her unhappy. Somehow, I can't believe this is really for keeps.

I am terribly surprised at the reason behind the separation, and I think when Ray takes a calm survey of the entire situation he will realize what a mistake he is making. One thing, he is very tired. He's doing TV and working at Warners at the same time. He is highly strung and nervous, and in his heart he adores lovely May and he loves his children.

Chatter in Hollywood: I had not heard about June Lang in ages and ages until I was told that Jerry Geisler is getting a divorce for her from William Hayes Morgan, of the wealthy Chicago banking family. June's big complaint is that although her husband is very rich he only gives her fifteen dollars a week with which to run their large house.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Lucky for Johnny Desmond that he has Don McNeill as his boss. Don gave him an extended leave of absence, while poor Julius La Rosa, Arthur Godfrey's singer, was fired for wanting to do outside things.

Hal Perry leaves Monday for New York for a disc jockey job. Two years ago he was "hot" as "The Great Gildersleeve."

Congratulations to the William Bendixes on their 25th wedding anniversary. They celebrated it in Palm Springs with a silver plaque on their wedding cake.

Much admiration given to the beautiful Barry sisters who are packing them in at the Band Box. One looks like Gene Tierney and the other like Loretta Young — and that ain't bad.

Florabel Muir starts her TV show "Florabel Muir Reporting" Nov. 1, twice a week.

On Sunday Humphrey Bogart will be with Jack Benny on TV, while directly opposite him Lauren Bacall will be with Donald O'Connor on a rival network.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

To protect your investment, many of the loveliest materials are being moth-proofed before you get them!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

There's a certain type of woman who always shows up as one of the best-dressed in any group. She's a lover of quality and her clothes always show it. But, contrary to what others think, over a period of years her wardrobe expenditure is no more than that of many who envy her.

Her secret lies not only in knowing quality but in knowing fashion, line and trend—and in understanding perfectly what is right for her life, her coloring and her figure. When it comes to buying clothes, she earns a "cum laude" on every purchase that she makes. Consequently, her wardrobe has gems of fashion that are often years old but eminently wearable.

Durable Moth-proofing

She takes her time in making any selection. She considers it carefully from every angle. Recognizing immediately her knowledge of quality and style, the sales people who aid her respect her judgement. Instead of trying to "sell" her, they carefully note her selections. Invariably each new addition to her wardrobe is another "pearl" of fashion which she will wear for years with pleasure and assurance.

There is some special good news right now for this type of woman. More and more of the fine fabrics that she so loves are being moth-proofed by the manufacturers. It is expected that fifteen million such articles will be made available this year—an increase of more than 100% over last.

Protecting Investments

Most of this extra protection is being given to fabrics made of such expensive luxury animal fibers as cashmere, camels hair, vicuna, alpaca and lambs wool. This durable moth-proofing, a process that is only a few years old, makes quality material almost a "gilt-edged" investment.

For those who are schooled in the art of selecting a "timeless" fashion and who do not tire easily of something that is beautifully made of a beautiful fabric, durable moth-proofing is very good news, indeed!

Tomorrow: Toning exercises.

Radio And Television

Orson Welles' Lear

Orson Welles, a great ham of an actor, undertook the role of King Lear, a great ham of a part, on "Omnibus" last Sunday and was, I thought, enormously impressive. This was the great Orson's television debut and it was a fortunate inspiration to cast him as Lear. No other part is big enough for Welles who suffers from gigantism of manner and mind.

John Crosby

Welles, whose five-year sojourn abroad has added quite a lot of poundage to his face and the rest of him, was every inch a king, a phrase that came from Lear, and his voice, a redoubtable organ, was superb in declaiming some of the most sweeping poetry in all of Shakespeare.

I had never seen "King Lear" before. It isn't done very often and, when it is performed, is seldom, I'm told, well done. In fact, a body of opinion holds that Lear, magnificent as it is in print, doesn't play very well, that the appalling range of good and evil simply is too outsize to put on a stage.

After watching it Sunday, I fail to see this argument. "King Lear" is not the most plausible of Shakespeare's plays. Lear's abysmal stupidity at the opening of the play, the two daughters Regan and Goneril, conceivably the most evil characters in all literature, the shining nobility of Cordelia, the lust and cruelty and avarice and insanity of some of the characters are a little hard to take all in one play. Shakespeare really threw the book at us in this one.

Still, when put in the hands of a good cast—and this was a very good one—the play comes to life beautifully. Peter Brook, the brilliant young English director, cut the play from two and a half hours to something under 90 minutes. The main plot—Lear's mistreatment at the hand of his wicked daughters—remained substantially intact. The subplot—the Earl of Gloucester's parallel experiences with his two sons—disappeared.

However, since there is a certain overlapping between main and subplots, some of the sense of the play disappeared with it. Gloucester's main function in this version was to have his eyes plucked out, a scene I had just as soon Shakespeare had never written. Since he did, I would have been happy if Mr. Brook had performed the operation out of camera range somewhere. But no, it was all there in all its gory details.

The end of Lear is a tough thing for anyone to pull off successfully. Practically everything is happening at once. The King of France invades the land. Cordelia and the King are captured and imprisoned. Goneril and Regan are both making passes at Gloucester's son, Edmund. Regan is about to walk off with the boy when Goneril poisons her. Incidentally, this was purely inexplicable. Regan suddenly collapses and dies without, to my knowledge, any explanation. In the text, Shakespeare dismisses this particular homicide with only a few lines, but a director must see to it that these few lines are properly emphasized.

Given such lines as "Howl howl howl howl! O you are men of stone," the temptation must be strong to any actor to howl down the wind. Welles resisted it. You can hardly give a restrained performance of Lear, but Welles kept himself decently reined in, even in the storm scene where the language is as wild as the elements.

The production, I'm happy to report, followed classic lines. For once, they didn't put the actors in costumes out of "The Student Prince" against settings out of Louis XIV. The castles were appropriately medieval, full of portcullises, drawbridges, flickering torches and the like. Welles was bearded and majestic and caparisoned like a king.

Beatrice Straight as Goneril and Margaret Phillips as Regan were finely poisonous as the two dear little sisters, though I doubt that any actresses could give full justice to those murderous roles. Alan Badel played the extraordinarily difficult role of the Fool with great compassion and warmth but he was occasionally inaudible. And there were fine performances by Natasha Parry as Cordelia (which isn't really a very good part), Bramwell Fletcher as Kent and Arnold Moss as the Duke of Albany.

Altogether, it was a memorable hour and a half and I hope Mr. Welles proposes to tarry in this country long enough to do a few more plays on television.

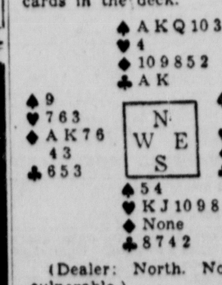
Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

LOCATION IS DECISIVE

MAYBE the word "distribution" does not cover enough ground to explain some of the peculiar results attainable at the bridge table. "Location" might be a better expression to describe the importance of having certain cards just where you hope they are. When such factors are exactly right for your side, it is amazing how you can get spectacular results, though your side may hold only about half of the high cards in the deck.



(Dealer: North. North-South culnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♥	3 ♦
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♥	Pass
5 ♦	Dbl	5 ♥	Pass
6 ♥	Dbl

That exciting bidding, perhaps not according to most of the books, is a good example of what is frequently encountered in social rubber games all over the world. It is one of the big elements in the spicy fun enjoyed by the participants. If you questioned North's final call, the raise to a heart small slam, he could point out that South was virtually marked with the diamond void, since West could bid the suit at the three level, East could double North's bid of 5-Diamonds and he himself had five of the suit.

You won't find anywhere more effective play than was given to that contract by Mrs. Ella Gregory, in whose New York apartment the game was played. The spade 9 lead, marked as a singleton, went to the A and the heart 4 was led. East came in with the A, but failed to return the spade 6 for a ruff. Mrs. Gregory happily ruffed the returned diamond. Now the heart Q had to fall to the K and did, whereupon the 10 drew West's last trump.

When the club A and K brought the 9 and 10 from East, the declarer saw the squeeze chance for which she hoped, if West had no club higher than the 8. She got to her hand with a diamond ruff, then ran the last two hearts. As the final one was led, she also had the spade 5 and two clubs and dummy the spade K-Q-10 and diamond 10, which she discarded. East had the club Q now and three spades. To keep the spades, she tossed the club. Then the club 8, spade K and Q took the last three tricks.

1949 Chrysler N. Y. 4-Dr. Sdn.
The one owner was a Celanese executive, and only drove 13,000 miles a year. The owner kept this car in condition with regular check ups and was garaged every night. A gleaming light grey finish is contrasted by shiny chrome and you have all the safe driving devices, as signal lights, back-up lights, 4-speed fluidmatic transmission with step dowr gear for passing on hills. The powerful 8 cylinder engine is in A-1 condition. The rest of the equipment includes heater, defroster, 8 tube radio, air foam seats, arm rests, plastic seat covers and the tires are new. It will not last long at . . .

1951 Plymouth 4-Dr. Sdn.
How would you like to own a car that will give you 18 miles or better on 1 gallon of gas? Here's a gleaming black finish car that you will not have to spend any money to fix up. Not even to wax. Here again you have all the extra safe driving features of the Plymouth, plus all weather heater, defroster, new seat covers, spotless interior, signal lights, side mirror and the contrasting light grey instrument panel with chrome knobs and handles, really makes a beautiful, economical and safe car also one to be proud of, and the low price. Only . . .
$1145

1949 Chrysler N. Y. 4-Dr. Sdn.
The one owner was a Celanese executive, and only drove 13,000 miles a year. The owner kept this car in condition with regular check ups and was garaged every night. A gleaming light grey finish is contrasted by shiny chrome and you have all the safe driving devices, as signal lights, back-up lights, 4-speed fluidmatic transmission with step dowr gear for passing on hills. The powerful 8 cylinder engine is in A-1 condition. The rest of the equipment includes heater, defroster, 8 tube radio, air foam seats, arm rests, plastic seat covers and the tires are new. It will not last long at . . .

Market's High Close Buoyed By Individual Securities

NEW YORK, Oct. 22 (AP) — The Stock Market was higher today with buoyancy provided by higher prices paid for a sizable list of individual securities.

Volume came to an estimated 1,300,000 shares compared with 1,320,000 shares yesterday.

Union Oil of California up 1¼ at 42, 20th Century-Fox up ⅞ at 15¾. American Telephone up ¼ at 156½. U. S. Steel off ⅛ at 37¾, General Motors up ⅝ at 59, Goodrich up 1½ at 69, Boeing up ⅝ at 48⅛, Dow Chemical off ¼ at 36¼, Du Pont up 1¼ at 104¼, Minneapolis-Moline off 2⅛ at 10⅝, U. S. Lines up ⅝ at 15, and Denver & Rio Grande preferred up ½ at 90¼.

Best gains ran to between 1 and 2 points. The great bulk of plus signs were fractional, which also was the case with losers.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks today advanced 20 cents at $106.80. It was down 10 cents yesterday, the first decline in six sessions. The industrial component of the average added 60 cents while the railroads lost 20 cents and the utilities held unchanged.

The day's most active issue on the big board was General Public Service unchanged at 4 with 25,900 shares traded including a block of 10,000 shares at 4.

It was followed by U. S. Lines up ¾ at 15⅛, American Telephone up ¼ at 156½, Certain-Teed up ⅛ at 12⅛, and Westinghouse Electric up 1 at 47½.

Among stocks up 1 to 2 points were Goodrich, Du Pont, Union Oil of California, 20th Century Fox, Rohm & Haas, Texas Pacific Land Trust, and Eastman Kodak. Also higher were General Motors, Chrysler, Boeing, Mack Trucks, Kennecott Copper, Union Carbide, and Texas Co.

Among losers were U.S. Steel, Radio Corp., Southern California Edison, American Smelting, American Woolen, Santa Fe, and Northern Pacific.

Simon Reilly Attends San Diego Meeting

Simon F. Reilly, this city, a commissioner on the Maryland State Industrial Accident Commission, and Melvin Fine, of Baltimore, chairman of the state agency, attended the annual convention of the National Association of Industrial Accident Commissions in San Diego, California recently.

Reilly toured Mexico and the west following the six-day convention. He said the association will hold its convention next year in Quebec, Canada.

NOTICE OF TAX COLLECTOR'S REPORT OF SALE
Ernest B. Treat, Tax Collector, vs.
The Cumberland Land Co.
No. 2789 Miscellaneous
In the
CIRCUIT COURT FOR ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND

Ernest B. Treat, Tax Collector, having made a report to this Court of the Sale of all that real estate in Election District No. 6 and particularly described in a deed from W. Carl Richards and Emma R. Richards, his wife, to The Cumberland Land Company, dated the 10th day of March AD. 1917 and recorded in Liber No. 121, folio 239, one of the Land Records of Allegany County, Maryland, together with all the proceedings had in relation thereto, and said proceedings have been examined by this Court, and the same appearing to be regular and the provisions of the law in relation thereto appearing to have been complied with it, it is thereupon this 22th day of October, 1953, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, adjudged and ordered that notice be given by advertisement published once a week for three successive weeks in one newspaper published in Allegany County, Maryland, before the 19th day of November, 1953, commanding all persons interested in said property to be and appear in this Court on or before the 3rd day of December, 1953, to show cause, if any they have why said sale should not be ratified and confirmed. The report states the amount of sale to be $140.60.

Market's High Close Buoyed By Individual Securities

NEW YORK, Oct. 22 (AP) — The Stock Market was higher today with buoyancy provided by higher prices paid for a sizable list of individual securities.

Volume came to an estimated 1,300,000 shares compared with 1,320,000 shares yesterday.

Among late prices were:

Union Oil of California up 1¼ at 42, 20th Century-Fox up ⅞ at 15⅝. American Telephone up ¼ at 156½. U. S. Steel off ⅛ at 37¾. General Motors up ⅝ at 59. Goodrich up 1½ at 69. Boeing up ⅝ at 48⅛. Dow Chemical off ¼ at 36¼. Du Pont up 1¼ at 104¼. Minneapolis-Moline off 2⅛ at 10⅝. U. S. Lines up ⅝ at 15, and Denver & Rio Grande preferred up ½ at 90¼.

Best gains ran to between 1 and 2 points. The great bulk of plus signs were fractional, which also was the case with losers.

Minneapolis-Moline, farm equipment maker, fell 2⅛ at 10⅝ after directors took no action on a common dividend. Previous payments were 40 cents quarterly. Other farm equipment makers were narrowly mixed at the close.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks today advanced 20 cents at $106.80. It was down 10 cents yesterday, the first decline in six sessions. The industrial component of the average added 60 cents while the railroads lost 20 cents and the utilities held unchanged.

The day's most active issue on the big board was General Public Service unchanged at 4 with 25,900 shares traded including a block of 10,000 shares at 4.

It was followed by U. S. Lines up ¾ at 15⅛, American Telephone up ¼ at 156½, Certain-Teed up ⅛ at 12⅛, and Westinghouse Electric up 1 at 47½.

Among stocks up 1 to 2 points were Goodrich, Du Pont, Union Oil of California, 20th Century Fox, Rohm & Haas, Texas Pacific Land Trust, and Eastman Kodak. Also higher were General Motors, Chrysler, Boeing, Mack Trucks, Kennecott Copper, Union Carbide, and Texas Co.

Among losers were U.S. Steel, Radio Corp., Southern California Edison, American Smelting, American Woolen, Santa Fe, and Northern Pacific.

City To Seek Solution Of Flood Job Problems

Corps Of Engineers, SRC To Cooperate

Machinery was set in motion here yesterday to learn the answers to a number of urgent problems which must be solved in connection with the completion of the $17,000,000 Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Protection Project.

Officials of the Corps of Engineers and Maryland State Roads Commission, meeting with officials of the City of Cumberland and Ridgeley, agreed informally to begin engineering studies to find the answers to these questions:

1. Can the Wills Creek portion of the work, including pumping stations, be completed before more work is undertaken in the Potomac River?

2. Can flood walls be substituted for levees planned on the West Side of Cumberland and in Ridgeley to reduce the cost of land acquisition (which has been estimated at $500,000) and save a number of homes in the communities?

3. Do State Roads Commission plans for the expressway linking the Overhead Bridge and Braddock Road call for the use of the flood levees on the West Side?

4. Can the schedule for Potomac River levee work be changed to allow the Cumberland Cement and Suply Company time to remove and stockpile supplies of sand and gravel from Smith Island?

5. Can the City of Cumberland secure Congressional approval to substitute flood walls for levees?

Col Ray Adams, Washington District engineer, and Paul Kempter, of the State Roads Commission, told Mayor Roy W. Eves that they would get the studies under way, but asked that the requests be submitted in writing as soon as possible.

Requests To Be Submitted

Also present at the conference held in City Hall were Robert L. Wadsworth, chief of the planning and reports section of the Washington District, Corps of Engineers; Albert L. Grubb, chief, and James H. Miller Jr., assistant in the SRC's bridge design section, and Rex E. Dexter, district engineer for the Corps of Engineers.

The city was represented by Mayor Eves, Thomas B. Finan, city attorney; C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, William V. Keegan, finance commissioner; Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, street commissioner, and James A. Perrin, realtor.

Mayor William D. Bidinger represented the Town of Ridgeley.

Finan first asked consideration of a plan which would substitute flood walls for levees planned on the West Side and in Ridgeley. This, he said, would save some of the homes of the 43 Ridgeley and 21 West Side families who would be displaced to make room for the slopes of earthen levees.

Walls Expensive

Col. Adams said flood walls would cost "considerably" more than levees and would require Congressional action, since it constitutes a change in design.

He said he doubted if the savings in real estate would meet the extra construction costs, but said the matter would be investigated.

And Wadsworth pointed out the present plan for the river is a "give and take" plan designed to save the city from excessive property costs. The original plans, he added, called for an earth levee.

State Roads Commission officials said that group will check present engineering plans for the expressway with the Corps of Engineers to see how the plans would mesh, and learn plans for land acquisition.

In "Yellow Book"

If the State Roads Commission pays for land acquisition for the overhead bridge and expressway, (and the "Yellow Book" lists funds for property acquisition) the cost of land for West Side levees could be reduced if the top of the levee were to be used.

Mayor Eves said many citizens want to see Wills Creek completed first, allowing the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company time to stockpile sand and gravel from Smith Island.

Details of the company's plan for this were presented by W. Earle Cobey and Albert S. Paye, who said the material could be salvaged by 1958, when the flood control job is slated for completion.

Wadsworth promised that the Corps of Engineers will do all possible to defer work so that the company can get its materials out.

He said he did not know the effects of completing Wills Creek

Boy Found Dead Of Gun Wound Near His Home

Robert L. Van Meter Located By Father

An 18-year-old youth, who a few days before had received his armed forces induction notice, was found dead of a shotgun wound several hundred yards from his home in Maysville, W. Va. by his father Wednesday evening.

Grant County Coroner H. G. J. Oates said Glenn Vernon Van Meter, son of Jeff Van Meter and the late Dorothy Retta (Moyers) Van Meter, died of a self-inflicted blast from a 12-gauge double-barrel shotgun.

He said the youth apparently placed the gun against the front of his throat and pulled the trigger, sending the blast of shot through his neck.

Authorities stated the youth left Wednesday morning from his home in Maysville, several miles from Petersburg, taking his shotgun with him. His family assumed he was going hunting in nearby woods.

Later that evening, the youth's father started to walk to a woodland area nearby to cut pulpwood, and found his son lying dead several hundred yards from the house.

Also assisting with the investigation were Trooper D. F. Mease of the West Virginia State Police at Petersburg, and Grant County Sheriff Carl Wimer.

Besides his father, the youth is survived by his stepmother, Mrs. Rhoda Hazel Van Meter; a sister, Miss Ruby Mae Van Meter; two half-sisters, Charlotte Ann and Hazel Elaine Van Meter, all at home; one brother, Robert Lee Van Meter, with the Army at Fort George G. Meade, and one half-brother, Clarence Everly Van Meter, at home.

He was born May 24, 1935 at Maysville.

A funeral service will be held at 1 p. m. tomorrow at the Maysville Gospel Tabernacle with Rev. Lowell R. Rogers, pastor, officiating. Interment will be in Crows Ridge Cemetery, North Fork.

The body will be taken from the Shaffer Funeral Home to the residence this evening.

Gunshot Wound Fatal To Youth At Chaneysville

A Chaneysville, Pa., youth died yesterday of a gunshot wound suffered while hunting in a wooded area near his home.

Bedford County Coroner Vernon Geisel said the death of 17-year-old Robert Lee Tewell was due to an accidental gunshot wound. The accident was reported to have occurred about 2:30 p. m. within about 100 yards of his home.

Authorities said the youth who was alone at the time had gone into the wooded section near his home and was shooting at birds. His mother heard a blast of the 12-gauge double barrell shotgun and later her son screamed. She went to the scene.

The youth was wounded in the abdomen, authorities added. The wooded area is said to be rather treacherous to walk in with pine needles and loose shale along the slope.

He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Tewell and surviving, besides his parents, are a brother, Daniel Tewell, at home; two sisters, Mrs. Betty Bennett, Clearville, RD 1; Donna Tewell, at home.

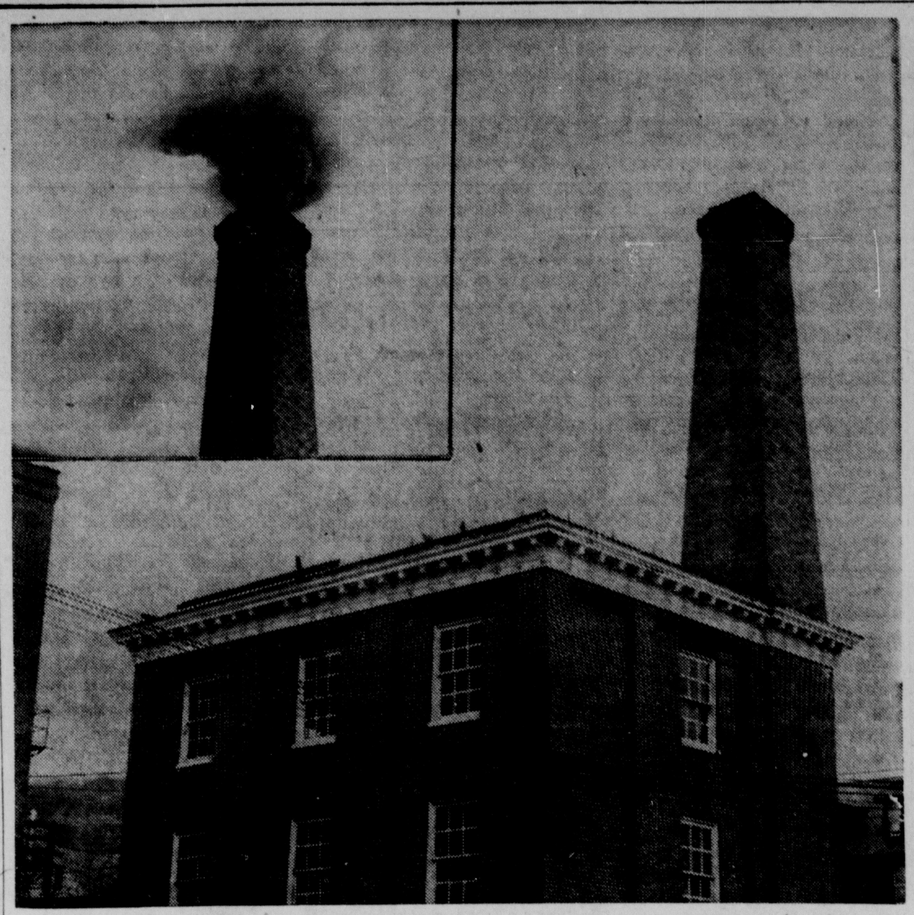
The victim was born March 2, 1937 at Chaneysville.

The body is at the Conner Funeral Home, Everett, Pa., and will be taken to the home at noon tomorrow. A funeral service will be conducted on Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Mt. Zion Christian Church near Chaneysville with Rev. Walter W. Twigg officiating. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

Army Procurement Regulations Are Made Available

Pittsburgh Ordnance District will make available the facilities of its library for the benefit of businessmen in the Tri-State Area. Copies of Department of Defense, Army and Ordnance procurement regulations are available. In order to provide ready access to the information, a card index file has been established for regulations and directives bearing upon the engineering, legal, fiscal, management and industrial relations aspects of Government procurement, inspection and industrial mobilization.

Arrangements may be made to see these regulations or answers to specific questions may be secured by contacting the librarian, Miss Helen Hauck, GRant 1-7582, Extension 141.



New Boiler Jets Tested At Queen City Station

Board To Decide Polling Place Changes Tuesday

Little Interest Shown In Moves

A final decision on whether to change polling places in three election districts to make it easier for citizens to vote will be made at the meeting of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors in the Court House at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

William A. Wilson, board chairman, reports that he has received no response from residents of the three districts since the proposals were discussed at the board meeting a month ago.

Mt. Savage Plan

One of the considered changes involves Election District No. 13. At the present time all three polling places in that district are in Mt. Savage. The proposal would divide the district on geographical lines so that those living between Newtown and Barrelville would be able to vote at a central location rather than travel into Mt. Savage.

A second plan involves Election District No. 7. All residents of that district, which extends some 10 miles along the McMullen Highway, now vote in Cresaptown, which is at the northern end of the district. The plan would divide this district geographically so that those living in the lower half would not have to come to Cresaptown to cast their ballots.

Third Change

The third change would make it easier for residents of Brophytown to vote in Election District No. 8. They now must go through Franklin, past the Westernport Fire Hall where Franklin residents vote, and on to Hammond Street School where their polling place is now located. The board thought it might simplify matters to have them vote at the Fire Hall.

Any persons wishing to be heard on any of these plans should attend the meeting in the board's office, Court House basement Tuesday, said board members.

Meanwhile, Irvin J. Neat and C. William McDermott, registrars for the board, report that some 2,073 more voters have been mailed their registration cards. They bring to 17,451 the number already distributed. That amounts to about 41.5 per cent of the 42,050 registered voters.

The most recently-mailed cards went to Election Districts 11, 12 A-J and 12 K-Z, all in Frostburg, and 6-6 A-J and 6-6 K-Z, both in Bowling Green.

Penn Avenue Safety Patrol Is Commended During Meet

Members of the Pennsylvania Avenue School Safety Patrol were commended for their neat appearance and splendid work during a regular meeting this week.

Copies of "Standard Rules for the Operation of School Safety Patrols," a small booklet obtained from the American Automobile Association, were distributed to patrol members. Several articles in the book were read and discussed.

A report on the "Hours of Duty" was given by Kenneth Boggs, while Michael Hadra talked on "Position of City Patrol Boys," and Norman Shipley, "Bus Duty." Boggs is captain of the patrol, while John Bennett and Ronald Bishop are lieutenants.

Those pupils on street patrol are David Baldwin, Roger Manges, Michael Hadra, John Bennett, Ellis Slonaker, Raymond Athey, Alan Sine, Douglas Torbet, David Cozad, Royce Smith, James Rumer, James Leith, Robert Suesse, John Painter, Kenneth Evans and Robert Seiler.

The patrol meets bi-weekly Tuesday afternoon with Miss Mildred Beck as Safety Patrol advisor. The patrol is sponsored by the PTA with Walter Henry and Mildred Beck as safety chairmen of the group.

Judge Hospitalized

Associate Judge George Henderson is a patient in Memorial Hospital where he was admitted Wednesday night for observation. His condition is described as "good."

Carver School Will Dedicate Piano Tuesday

Special Musical Program Planned

A program of music has been arranged by Carver High School for the dedication of the school's new piano at 1:45 p. m. Tuesday, according to Earle L. Bracey, principal.

The new piano has been acquired through funds from the Board of Education and contributions made by parents and others interested in the welfare of the Frederick Street school.

A varied program has been planned under the direction of Miss Mary M. Robb, who teaches music at Carver and other schools.

Piano solos will be played by Frances Smith and Colbert Gales during the hour-long program. There also will be vocal solos by Arthur Washington and Norwood Edmondson and a vocal duet featuring Rose Marie Darr and Shirley Beckwith.

A five-boy instrumental group called the Hot Rods will play several selections. The junior and senior classes will sing several numbers and there also will be three selections by the sophomores.

Group singing will conclude the program.

Special guests will include Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster, Lewyn C. Davis, supervisor of junior high schools, and W. Valgene Routch, supervisor of music education.

Petersburg Man Killed As Truck Leaves Highway

The crushed body of a 56-year-old Petersburg, W. Va. man was found early yesterday morning near his overturned pickup truck in a field near Dorcas, about five miles southeast of Petersburg.

Grant County Coroner H. G. J. Oates, who investigated, said Fred Gibson Jenkins suffered a fractured skull and crushed chest after the pickup truck he was driving apparently went over a 40-foot embankment and rolled over several times.

Jenkin's body was found at about daybreak yesterday morning by a passing area resident who saw the overturned truck in the field with its lights burning, and went down to investigate.

According to Oates, Jenkins was suffering from a severe heart ailment, and had apparently suffered a heart attack when the accident occurred.

Oates added the heart attack caused Jenkins to lose control of his vehicle which plunged over the embankment. Jenkins had either jumped from the vehicle or was thrown out, and the truck had rolled over him, crushing his head and chest. The mishap was estimated to have occurred between 3 and 4 a. m.

Also investigating were Cpl. D. Adams and Trooper D. F. Mease, of the West Virginia State Police detachment at Petersburg.

Jenkins was born August 20, 1897 in Hardy County a son of the late Seymour and Scottie Mae (Hardy) Jenkins.

Surviving are three daughters, Miss Janet Jenkins, Cumberland; Mrs. Lester Coffman, Baltimore, and Miss Neva Jenkins, Washington, D. C.; two sons, Woodrow Jenkins, Cumberland, and Bobby Jenkins, at home; a sister, Mrs. Alice Hardy, Kessell, W. Va.; two brothers, J. William Jenkins, Dorcas, and Jesse J. Jenkins, Durgon, and two grandchildren.

The body is at the Shaffer Funeral Home.

Driver Receives Jail Term, Fine In Motor Case

Defendant Appeals Magistrate Sentence

A local driver was fined $125 and was sentenced to 30 days in the Allegany County Jail yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court on two motor violations in connection with a hit-and-run accident August 8 on Route 220 at Roberts Place.

Raymond Henry Silvious, of 39 Offutt Street, pleaded not guilty to charges of reckless driving and failure to stop after a serious accident. Through his attorney, Edward J. Ryan, Silvious appealed Magistrate Donald W. Mason's decisions to the Circuit Court.

Silvious was arrested by Trooper A. M. Spioch of the Maryland State Police several days after the accident.

In the accident, August 8, Paul F. Lechliter of 1010 Gay Street, a passenger in the auto which was struck, was admitted to Memorial Hospital. He suffered a possible fractured skull and other injuries.

Harvey Jacob Miller, of 940 Gay Street, driver of the car in which Lechliter was riding, was charged with reckless driving, but was found not guilty.

Miller and Lechliter testified yesterday that they had been at the fair grounds at Fairgo on the evening of August 8, and that they had left following an argument with Silvious. They declared Silvious had threatened them. to "get you."

The two told the court they noticed a car following them and were suddenly struck from behind by the other auto. The car in which they were riding was thrown off the highway and rolled over several times.

Aonther witness for the state, represented by Assistant State's Attorney James S. Getty, also testified at yesterday's hearing.

William R. Zinn, of 320 Furnace Street was driving ahead of Miller when he saw the accident in his rear-view mirror and stopped.

Zinn testified he saw the first car turn over after being struck by the second auto which had been following. Zinn said the second car stopped alongside Zinn's auto and the driver—whom Zinn could not identify— got out, inspected damage to his own auto, got back in and sped on toward Cumberland.

Zinn said he took down the hit-and-run car's license number and reported it to police.

Ryan, representing Silvious, said the state had not proved its case since Silvious or his auto were not identified. He asked that the case be dismissed.

After Ryan indicated he intended to appeal the case to Circuit Court, Silvious was released under $500 bond.

Assistant State's Attorney James S. Getty represented the state.

Owens Purchases Drive-In Theatre

Charles Freeman Owens, rear of 404 Washington Street, has purchased the capital stock of the Baland Corporation, which has operated the Potomac Drive In Theatre on Winchester Road.

Owens announced yesterday there will be no change in the policy of the theatre.

Equity Suits Filed

New Jets Are Installed At Queen City Station

The City Smoke Abatement Department announced yesterday that new jet systems have been installed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad on boilers at the Queen City Station.

Charles F. Owens, deputy smoke inspector, said the addition of "Pilojets" will mean there will be no necessity for smoke violations or complaints.

The devices were installed Wednesday under the supervision of J. E. Balsey, Baltimore, electrical supervisor of the Eastern Division of the B & O's Motive Power Department.

They were tested successfully by Balsey and Owens yesterday morning.

Owens termed the devices 95 per cent efficient as compared to the 20 per cent efficiency of the over-fired steam jets with which the boilers have been installed.

Designed to increase the turbulence and to provide additional oxygen to use up unburned gases in smoke, the device consists of six nozzles installed 14 inches above the fire bed. They supply air under high pressure which has been sucked in by motor driven fans.

Owens said the devices cleared up the smoke almost immediately during the test yesterday, which followed the throwing of 10 shovels of green coal upon the fire bed.

Police, Firemen's Ball Set Tonight At State Armory

Russ Romero and his orchestra will provide music this evening for the 31st Annual Police and Firemen's Ball, to be held at the State Armory.

The affair, according to Capt. Vincent H. Wegman of the City Fire Department, general chairman, will be from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m.

Proceeds will be used for sick, accident and death benefits for members of the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association. Plans have been made to accommodate 700 persons and no tables have been reserved.

Appropriate programs will be presented to those in attendance, Wegman added. Tickets may be purchased at any of the four fire stations or at the State Armory door this evening.

United Nations Day Gets Emphasis In Library Display

Because Saturday is United Nations Day, the Cumberland Free Public Library has arranged a showcase display calling attention to the special occasion.

The day is observed because it was on October 24, 1945, that the United Nations Charter came into force. The display calls attention to the United Nations as the only existing instrument by which man can achieve worldwide peace, justice and progress.

Special attention is being given by Miss Mary C. Walsh, librarian, to a new book called United Nations, N. Y., by Dorothy Sterling, which is written for high school use.

Among other volumes on the United Nations in the library's collection are the Charter of the Unitd Nations, "United Nations In Action," by E. P. Chase, "United Nations Handbook," by Dolivet, "The United Nations" by Herbert V. Evatt, "You and the United Nations," by Tom Galt," Partners: United Nations and Youth," by Eleanor Roosevelt, "UNESCO— Its Purpose and Its Philosophy," by Julian S. Huxley, and "United Nations Primer," by Sgrid Arne.

Fort Hill Pupils Visit Building

Some 13 seventh grade pupils from Fort Hill High School yesterday visited the Board of Education Building on Washington Street to interview Assistant Superintendent of Schools Richard T. Rizer and Lewyn C. Davis, supervisor of junior high schools in Allegany County.

The pupils were accompanied by William Williams, their social studies teacher, who made the assignment. Williams is a first-year teacher who was graduated in June from Frostburg State Teachers College.

While interviewing the two school administrators, the boys and girls took flash photographs of both men at their desks. They also were escorted on a tour of the building.

Conservation Steps Taken On 18 Allegany Co. Farms

Subsoiling and ditch-digging were the chief soil conservation activities in the past month, Soil Conservationist Martin M. Gordon told the Allegany Soil Conservation District Supervisors at their meeting yesterday in the office of County Agent Ralph F. McHenry.

Gordon reported that subsoiling was done on some 45 acres on the Piney Plains farms of Paul Mann, J. C. Smith and Olney Whitfield.

The motor grader which is being rented from the Garrett County Soil Conservation District Supervisors was used during the month to dig diversion and open-drainage ditches on some 15 farms in the county.

Diversion ditches were dug on the farms of James H. Weimer, Mt. Savage; James B. Buckley, Twiggtown Road; Roy Shryock Sr., Oldtown; Charles Deffinbaugh, Oldtown; Lester Heinrich, Oldtown, Roy Shryock Jr., Oldtown; C. C. Nixon, Kifer, and C. E. Taylor, Oldtown, where an open-drainage ditch also was instatlled.

Other open-drainage ditches were opened on farms of Glen Savage Dairy, Mt. Savage; George A. Stafford, D. C. Gainer and J. J. Johnson, all Mexico Farms; and E. R. Slider, Edward Shryock and W. T. McLaughlin, all of Oldtown.

One new cooperator was added during the month. He is Noah Carder of Oldtown.

Chest Fund Drive Goes Over Goal

More To Be Added To $94,535 Report

The Red Feather fund campaign went over its goal of $94,492.75 last night with a report of $94,535.90, or 101.1 per cent of the quota.

The figures were given last night at the final report meeting of the 1953-54 Cumberland Community Chest fund drive at Central YMCA.

William H. Buchholtz, general chairman of the drive, said there are more pledges which were not audited last night, since workers did not have the cards with them. When all the pledge cards have been turned in, he said, the campaign goal will have been oversubscribed by $400 or $500. Many of these cards will be turned in by the Sales Army section.

A breakdown shows that the advance gifts section turned in $56,020 to top its goal of $56,000; classified section, $27,082.32, 90.3 per cent of its $30,000 quota; sales army, $6,420.16, 107 per cent of $6,000 goal, and residential section, $5,013.42, 100.2 per cent of $5,000 goal.

At last night's meeting, "Oscar" and "Oscarette" awards were presented to workers who topped their goals by the Red Feather Kids who were present.

Buchholtz thanked workers for their unselfish contribution of time and effort in making the Chest drive a huge success. The general chairman said he was well satisfied with the results of the campaign, and saluted the generous spirit of area residents, business, industrial and professional people who donated to the cause of the Red Feather.

Forest Fires Continue To Plague Area

3 Acres Scorched Near Grantsville

Pendleton County yesterday continued to be nearby West Virginia's chief forest fire trouble spot as four fires, all within a short distance of each other, were reported not far from Franklin.

District Forester Tilden Norris at Romney said he believes all four were deliberately set, probably by the same person. At last report some 25 acres of forest had been burned and the blaze still had not been controlled, Norris said.

The only other fire in Norris' eight-county district was reported in Berkeley County, near Martinsburg, where several acres were burned near the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad right-of-way. Railroad sparks were believed responsible.

In Western Maryland, one forest fire scorched about three acres of land in the Savage River State Forest south of Grantsville.

William H. Johnson, district forester, last night said the fire, which was discovered about 4 p. m., was apparently caused by careless smokers.

Extinguishing the blaze were Elmer Upole, Garrett County Forest Supervisor; Forest Guard Robert Warnick, and other forest employes.

Relief from the weatherman today, as far as rain is concerned, seems unlikely. Forecast for the area is cloudy with temperatures expected to go as high as 70 degrees. Forestry officials continue to remind hunters and motorists to use extreme care in dousing fires or disposing of lighted cigarettes.

The prolonged drought is of concern to dairy and beef cattle raisers as the pasture feed situation for cows has created a problem.

The pastures have dried up to the extent that many herd owners are feeding their stock from winter silage stores. The corn crop also has been affected by the dry spell and the silos were not filled in many cases, a dairy spokesman pointed out.

Man Admits Setting West Virginia Fire

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 22 (AP)—A 22-year-old man was charged with arson today in a woodland blaze which destroyed a Kanawha County home as the Conservation Department went on an emergency basis in the forest fire outbreak.

The department said Kenneth Clay Smith admitted in a signed statement that he set the fire yesterday which spread to the home of Delford Taylor on Bakers Fork off Elk Two Mile.

Smith also admitted, Conservation Officer Noah Payne said, that he started another fire on Monday, one on Tuesday and then "kicked" the disastrous blaze yesterday across a fire line after it had been checked to start it anew.

Smith is to be given a hearing tomorrow

Student Injured

David Dunn, of Lonaconing, a student at Frostburg State Teachers College, yesterday was admitted to Miners Hospital suffering a head injury sustained while taking part in a physical education class.

He was admitted for X-rays about noon and his condition last night was reported as "good."

Corps Of Engineers, SRC To Cooperate

Machinery was set in motion here yesterday to learn the answers to a number of urgent problems which must be solved in connection with the completion of the $17,000,000 Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Protection Project.

Officials of the Corps of Engineers and Maryland State Roads Commission, meeting with officials of the City of Cumberland and Ridgeley, agreed informally to begin engineering studies to find the answers to these questions:

1. Can the Wills Creek portion of the work, including pumping stations, be completed before more work is undertaken in the Potomac River?

2. Can flood walls be substituted for levees planned on the West Side of Cumberland and in Ridgeley to reduce the cost of land acquisition (which has been estimated at $500,000) and save a number of homes in the communities?

3. Do State Roads Commission plans for the expressway linking the Overhead Bridge and Braddock Road call for the use of the flood levees on the West Side?

4. Can the schedule for Potomac River levee work be changed to allow the Cumberland Cement and Suply Company time to remove and stockpile supplies of sand and gravel from Smith Island?

5. Can the City of Cumberland secure Congressional approval to substitute flood walls for levees?

Col Ray Adams, Washington District engineer, and Paul Kempter, of the State Roads Commission, told Mayor Roy W. Eves that they would get the studies under way, but asked that the requests be submitted in writing as soon as possible.

Requests To Be Submitted

Also present at the conference held in City Hall were Robert L. Wadsworth, chief of the planning and reports section of the Washington District, Corps of Engineers; Albert L. Grubb, chief, and James H. Miller Jr., assistant in the SRC's bridge design section, and Rex E. Dexter, district engineer for the Corps of Engineers.

The city was represented by Mayor Eves, Thomas B. Finan, city attorney; C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, William V. Keegan, finance commissioner; Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, street commissioner, and James A. Perrin, realtor.

Mayor William D. Bidinger represented the Town of Ridgeley.

Finan first asked consideration of a plan which would substitute flood walls for levees planned on the West Side and in Ridgeley. This, he said, would save some of the homes of the 43 Ridgeley and 21 West Side families who would be displaced to make room for the slopes of earthen levees.

Walls Expensive

Col. Adams said flood walls would cost "considerably" more than levees and would require Congressional action, since it constitutes a change in design.

He said he doubted if the savings in real estate would meet the extra construction costs, but said the matter would be investigated.

And Wadsworth pointed out the present plan for the river is a "give and take" plan designed to save the city from excessive property costs. The original plans, he added, called for an earth levee.

State Roads Commission officials said that group will check present engineering plans for the expressway with the Corps of Engineers to see how the plans would mesh, and learn plans for land acquisition.

In "Yellow Book"

If the State Roads Commission pays for land acquisition for the overhead bridge and expressway, (and the "Yellow Book" lists funds for property acquisition) the cost of land for West Side levees could be reduced if the top of the levee were to be used.

Mayor Eves said many citizens want to see Wills Creek completed first, allowing the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company time to stockpile sand and gravel from Smith Island.

Details of the company's plan for this were presented by W. Earle Cobey and Albert S. Paye, who said the material could be salvaged by 1958, when the flood control job is slated for completion.

Wadsworth promised that the Corps of Engineers will do all possible to defer work so that the company can get its materials out.

He said he did not know the effects of completing Wills Creek

Boy Found Dead Of Gun Wound Near His Home

Robert L. Van Meter Located By Father

An 18-year-old youth, who a few days before had received his armed forces induction notice, was found dead of a shotgun wound several hundred yards from his home in Maysville, W. Va. by his father Wednesday evening.

Grant County Coroner H. G. J. Oates said Glenn Vernon Van Meter, son of Jeff Van Meter and the late Dorothy Retta (Moyers) Van Meter, died of a self-inflicted blast from a 12-gauge double-barrel shotgun.

He said the youth apparently placed the gun against the front of his throat and pulled the trigger, sending the blast of shot through his neck.

Authorities stated the youth left Wednesday morning from his home in Maysville, several miles from Petersburg, taking his shotgun with him. His family assumed he was going hunting in nearby woods.

Later that evening, the youth's father started to walk to a woodland area nearby to cut pulpwood, and found his son lying dead several hundred yards from the house.

Also assisting with the investigation were Trooper D. F. Mease of the West Virginia State Police at Petersburg, and Grant County Sheriff Carl Wimer.

Besides his father, the youth is survived by his stepmother, Mrs. Rhoda Hazel Van Meter; a sister, Miss Ruby Mae Van Meter; two half-sisters, Charlotte Ann and Hazel Elaine Van Meter, all at home; one brother, Robert Lee Van Meter, with the Army at Fort George G. Meade, and one half-brother, Clarence Everly Van Meter, at home.

He was born May 24, 1935 at Maysville.

A funeral service will be held at 1 p. m. tomorrow at the Maysville Gospel Tabernacle with Rev. Lowell R. Rogers, pastor, officiating. Interment will be in Crows Ridge Cemetery, North Fork.

The body will be taken from the Shaffer Funeral Home to the residence this evening.

Gunshot Wound Fatal To Youth At Chaneysville

A Chaneysville, Pa., youth died yesterday of a gunshot wound suffered while hunting in a wooded area near his home.

Bedford County Coroner Vernon Geisel said the death of 17-year-old Robert Lee Tewell was due to an accidental gunshot wound. The accident was reported to have occurred about 2:30 p. m. within about 100 yards of his home.

Authorities said the youth who was alone at the time had gone into the wooded section near his home and was shooting at birds. His mother heard a blast of the 12-gauge double barrell shotgun and later her son screamed. She went to the scene.

The youth was wounded in the abdomen, authorities added. The wooded area is said to be rather treacherous to walk in with pine needles and loose shale along the slope.

He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Tewell and surviving, besides his parents, are a brother, Daniel Tewell, at home; two sisters, Mrs. Betty Bennett, Clearville, RD 1; Donna Tewell, at home.

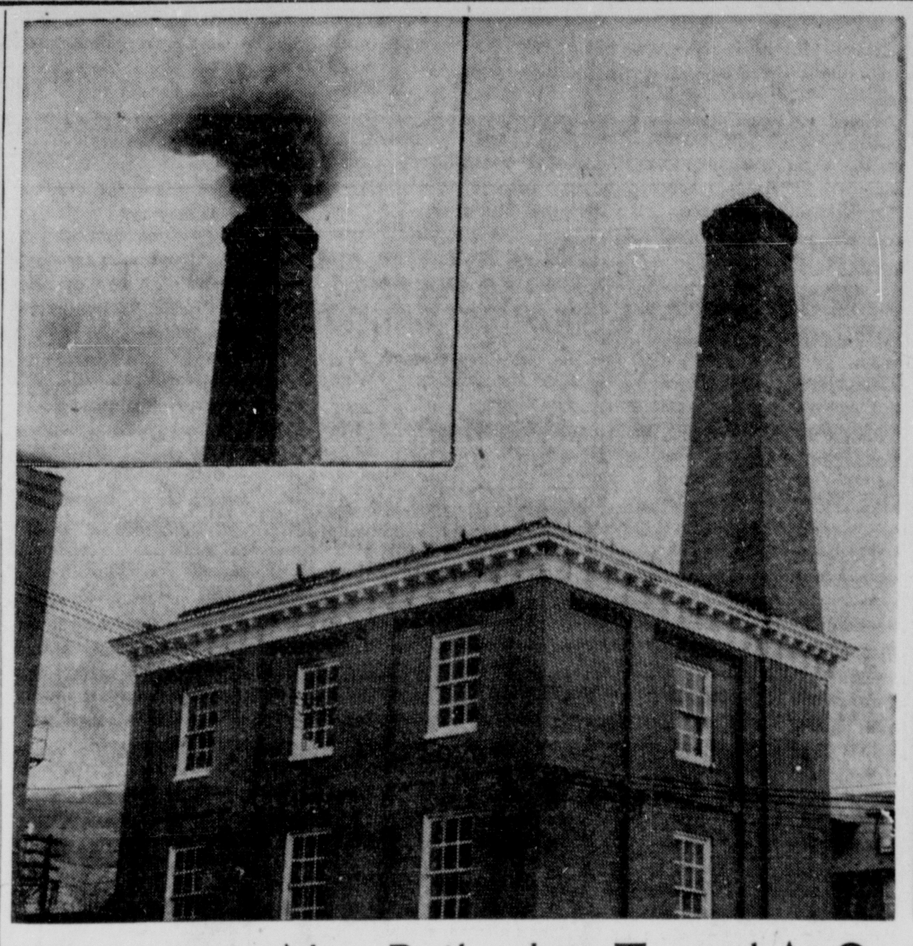
The victim was born March 2, 1937 at Chaneysville.

The body is at the Conner Funeral Home, Everett, Pa., and will be taken to the home at noon tomorrow. A funeral service will be conducted on Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Mt. Zion Christian Church near Chaneysville with Rev. Walter W. Twigg officiating. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

Army Procurement Regulations Are Made Available

Pittsburgh Ordnance District will make available the facilities of its library for the benefit of businessmen in the Tri-State Area. Copies of Department of Defense, Army and Ordnance procurement regulations are available. In order to provide ready access to the information, a card index file has been established for regulations and directives bearing upon the engineering, legal, fiscal, management and industrial relations aspects of Government procurement, inspection and industrial mobilization.

Arrangements may be made to see these regulations or answers to specific questions may be secured by contacting the librarian, Miss Helen Hauck, GRant 1-7582, Extension 141.



New Boiler Jets Tested At Queen City Station

Little Interest Shown In Moves

A final decision on whether to change polling places in three election districts to make it easier for citizens to vote will be made at the meeting of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors in the Court House at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

William A. Wilson, board chairman, reports that he has received no response from residents of the three districts since the proposals were discussed at the board meeting a month ago.

Mt. Savage Plan

One of the considered changes involves Election District No. 13. At the present time all three polling places in that district are in Mt. Savage. The proposal would divide the district on geographical lines so that those living between Newtown and Barrelville would be able to vote at a central location rather than travel into Mt. Savage.

A second plan involves Election District No. 7. All residents of that district, which extends some 10 miles along the McMullen Highway, now vote in Cresaptown, which is at the northern end of the district. The plan would divide this district geographically so that those living in the lower half would not have to come to Cresaptown to cast their ballots.

Third Change

The third change would make it easier for residents of Brophytown to vote in Election District No. 8. They now must go through Franklin, past the Westernport Fire Hall where Franklin residents vote, and on to Hammond Street School where their polling place is now located. The board thought it might simplify matters to have them vote at the Fire Hall.

Any persons wishing to be heard on any of these plans should attend the meeting in the board's office, Court House basement Tuesday, said board members.

Meanwhile, Irvin J. Neat and C. William McDermott, registrars for the board, report that some 2,073 more voters have been mailed their registration cards. They bring to 17,451 the number already distributed. That amounts to about 41.5 per cent of the 42,050 registered voters.

The most recently-mailed cards went to Election Districts 11, 12 A-J and 12 K-Z, all in Frostburg, and 6-6 A-J and 6-6 K-Z, both in Bowling Green.

Penn Avenue Safety Patrol Is Commended During Meet

Members of the Pennsylvania Avenue School Safety Patrol were commended for their neat appearance and splendid work during a regular meeting this week.

Copies of "Standard Rules for the Operation of School Safety Patrols," a small booklet obtained from the American Automobile Association, were distributed to patrol members. Several articles in the book were read and discussed.

A report on the "Hours of Duty" was given by Kenneth Boggs, while Michael Hadra talked on "Position of City Patrol Boys," and Norman Shipley, "Bus Duty." Boggs is captain of the patrol, while John Bennett and Ronald Bishop are lieutenants.

Those pupils on street patrol are David Baldwin, Roger Manges, Michael Hadra, John Bennett, Ellis Slonaker, Raymond Athey, Alan Sine, Douglas Torbet, David Cozad, Royce Smith, James Rumer, James Leith, Robert Suesse, John Painter, Kenneth Evans and Robert Seiler.

The patrol meets bi-weekly Tuesday afternoon with Miss Mildred Beck as Safety Patrol advisor. The patrol is sponsored by the PTA with Walter Henry and Mildred Beck as safety chairmen of the group.

Judge Hospitalized

Associate Judge George Henderson is a patient in Memorial Hospital where he was admitted Wednesday night for observation. His condition is described as "good."

Carver School Will Dedicate Piano Tuesday

Special Musical Program Planned

A program of music has been arranged by Carver High School for the dedication of the school's new piano at 1:45 p. m. Tuesday, according to Earle L. Bracey, principal.

The new piano has been acquired through funds from the Board of Education and contributions made by parents and others interested in the welfare of the Frederick Street school.

A varied program has been planned under the direction of Miss Mary M. Robb, who teaches music at Carver and other schools.

Piano solos will be played by Frances Smith and Colbert Gales during the hour-long program. There also will be vocal solos by Arthur Washington and Norwood Edmondson and a vocal duet featuring Rose Marie Darr and Shirley Beckwith.

A five-boy instrumental group called the Hot Rods will play several selections. The junior and senior classes will sing several numbers and there also will be three selections by the sophomores.

Group singing will conclude the program.

Special guests will include Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster, Lewyn C. Davis, supervisor of junior high schools, and W. Valgene Routch, supervisor of music education.

Petersburg Man Killed As Truck Leaves Highway

The crushed body of a 56-year-old Petersburg, W. Va. man was found early yesterday morning near his overturned pickup truck in a field near Dorcas, about five miles southeast of Petersburg.

Grant County Coroner H. G. J. Oates, who investigated, said Fred Gibson Jenkins suffered a fractured skull and crushed chest after the pickup truck he was driving apparently went over a 40-foot embankment and rolled over several times.

Jenkin's body was found at about daybreak yesterday morning by a passing area resident who saw the overturned truck in the field with its lights burning, and went down to investigate.

According to Oates, Jenkins was suffering from a severe heart ailment, and had apparently suffered a heart attack when the accident occurred.

Oates added the heart attack caused Jenkins to lose control of his vehicle which plunged over the embankment. Jenkins had either jumped from the vehicle or was thrown out, and the truck had rolled over him, crushing his head and chest. The mishap was estimated to have occurred between 3 and 4 a. m.

Also investigating were Cpl. D. Adams and Trooper D. F. Mease, of the West Virginia State Police detachment at Petersburg.

Jenkins was born August 20, 1897 in Hardy County a son of the late Seymour and Scottie Mae (Hardy) Jenkins.

Surviving are three daughters, Miss Janet Jenkins, Cumberland; Mrs. Lester Coffman, Baltimore, and Miss Neva Jenkins, Washington, D. C.; two sons, Woodrow Jenkins, Cumberland, and Bobby Jenkins, at home; a sister, Mrs. Alice Hardy, Kessell, W. Va.; two brothers, J. William Jenkins, Dorcas, and Jesse J. Jenkins, Durgon, and two grandchildren.

The body is at the Shaffer Funeral Home.

Defendant Appeals Magistrate Sentence

A local driver was fined $125 and was sentenced to 30 days in the Allegany County Jail yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court on two motor violations in connection with a hit-and-run accident August 8 on Route 220 at Roberts Place.

Raymond Henry Silvious, of 39 Offutt Street, pleaded not guilty to charges of reckless driving and failure to stop after a serious accident. Through his attorney, Edward J. Ryan, Silvious appealed Magistrate Donald W. Mason's decisions to the Circuit Court.

Silvious was arrested by Trooper A. M. Spioch of the Maryland State Police several days after the accident.

In the accident, August 8, Paul F. Lechliter of 1010 Gay Street, a passenger in the auto which was struck, was admitted to Memorial Hospital. He suffered a possible fractured skull and other injuries.

Harvey Jacob Miller, of 940 Gay Street, driver of the car in which Lechliter was riding, was charged with reckless driving, but was found not guilty.

Miller and Lechliter testified yesterday that they had been at the fair grounds at Fairgo on the evening of August 8, and that they had left following an argument with Silvious. They declared Silvious had threatened them. to "get you."

The two told the court they noticed a car following them and were suddenly struck from behind by the other auto. The car in which they were riding was thrown off the highway and rolled over several times.

Aonther witness for the state, represented by Assistant State's Attorney James S. Getty, also testified at yesterday's hearing.

William R. Zinn, of 320 Furnace Street was driving ahead of Miller when he saw the accident in his rear-view mirror and stopped.

Zinn testified he saw the first car turn over after being struck by the second auto which had been following. Zinn said the second car stopped alongside Zinn's auto and the driver—whom Zinn could not identify— got out, inspected damage to his own auto, got back in and sped on toward Cumberland.

Zinn said he took down the hit-and-run car's license number and reported it to police.

Ryan, representing Silvious, said the state had not proved its case since Silvious or his auto were not identified. He asked that the case be dismissed.

After Ryan indicated he intended to appeal the case to Circuit Court, Silvious was released under $500 bond.

Assistant State's Attorney James S. Getty represented the state.

Owens Purchases Drive-In Theatre

Charles Freeman Owens, rear of 404 Washington Street, has purchased the capital stock of the Baland Corporation, which has operated the Potomac Drive In Theatre on Winchester Road.

Owens announced yesterday there will be no change in the policy of the theatre.

Equity Suits Filed

New Jets Are Installed At Queen City Station

The City Smoke Abatement Department announced yesterday that new jet systems have been installed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad on boilers at the Queen City Station.

Charles F. Owens, deputy smoke inspector, said the addition of "Pilojets" will mean there will be no necessity for smoke violations or complaints.

The devices were installed Wednesday under the supervision of J. E. Balsey, Baltimore, electrical supervisor of the Eastern Division of the B & O's Motive Power Department.

They were tested successfully by Balsey and Owens yesterday morning.

Owens termed the devices 95 per cent efficient as compared to the 20 per cent efficiency of the overfired steam jets with which the boilers have been installed.

Designed to increase the turbulence and to provide additional oxygen to use up unburned gases in smoke, the device consists of six nozzles installed 14 inches above the fire bed. They supply air under high pressure which has been sucked in by motor driven fans.

Owens said the devices cleared up the smoke almost immediately during the test yesterday, which followed the throwing of 10 shovels of green coal upon the fire bed.

Police, Firemen's Ball Set Tonight At State Armory

Russ Romero and his orchestra will provide music this evening for the 31st Annual Police and Firemen's Ball, to be held at the State Armory.

The affair, according to Capt. Vincent H. Wegman of the City Fire Department, general chairman, will be from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m.

Proceeds will be used for sick, accident and death benefits for members of the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association. Plans have been made to accommodate 700 persons and no tables have been reserved.

Appropriate programs will be presented to those in attendance, Wegman added. Tickets may be purchased at any of the four fire stations or at the State Armory door this evening.

Births

Memorial Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Diehl, RD 1, Braddock Farms, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lawrence, Rawlings, a daughter yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Digman, 33 Pennsylvania Avenue, a daughter Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dailey Bohon, Springfield, W. Va., a son Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Lewis, 1005 Virginia Avenue, a daughter Wednesday.

United Nations Day Gets Emphasis In Library Display

Because Saturday is United Nations Day, the Cumberland Free Public Library has arranged a showcase display calling attention to the special occasion.

The day is observed because it was on October 24, 1945, that the United Nations Charter came into force. The display calls attention to the United Nations as the only existing instrument by which man can achieve worldwide peace, justice and progress.

Special attention is being given by Miss Mary C. Walsh, librarian, to a new book called United Nations, N. Y., by Dorothy Sterling, which is written for high school use.

Among other volumes on the United Nations in the library's collection are the Charter of the Unitd Nations, "United Nations In Action," by E. P. Chase, "United Nations Handbook," by Dolivet, "The United Nations" by Herbert V. Evatt, "You and the United Nations," by Tom Galt," Partners: United Nations and Youth," by Eleanor Roosevelt, "UNESCO— Its Purpose and Its Philosophy," by Julian S. Huxley, and "United Nations Primer," by Sgrid Arne.

Fort Hill Pupils Visit Building

Some 13 seventh grade pupils from Fort Hill High School yesterday visited the Board of Education Building on Washington Street to interview Assistant Superintendent of Schools Richard T. Rizer and Lewyn C. Davis, supervisor of junior high schools in Allegany County.

The pupils were accompanied by William Williams, their social studies teacher, who made the assignment. Williams is a first-year teacher who was graduated in June from Frostburg State Teachers College.

While interviewing the two school administrators, the boys and girls took flash photographs of both men at their desks. They also were escorted on a tour of the building.

Conservation Steps Taken On 18 Allegany Co. Farms

Subsoiling and ditch-digging were the chief soil conservation activities in the past month, Soil Conservationist Martin M. Gordon told the Allegany Soil Conservation District Supervisors at their meeting yesterday in the office of County Agent Ralph F. McHenry.

Gordon reported that subsoiling was done on some 45 acres on the Piney Plains farms of Paul Mann, J. C. Smith and Olney Whitfield.

The motor grader which is being rented from the Garrett County Soil Conservation District Supervisors was used during the month to dig diversion and open-drainage ditches on some 15 farms in the county.

Diversion ditches were dug on the farms of James H. Weimer, Mt. Savage; James B. Buckley, Twiggtown Road; Roy Shryock Sr., Oldtown; Charles Deffinbaugh, Oldtown; Lester Heinrich, Oldtown, Roy Shryock Jr., Oldtown; C. C. Nixon, Kifer, and C. E. Taylor, Oldtown, where an open-drainage ditch also was instatlled.

Other open-drainage ditches were opened on farms of Glen Savage Dairy, Mt. Savage; George A. Stafford, D. C. Gainer and J. J. Johnson, all Mexico Farms; and E. R. Slider, Edward Shryock and W. T. McLaughlin, all of Oldtown.

One new cooperator was added during the month. He is Noah Carder of Oldtown.

Chest Fund Drive Goes Over Goal

More To Be Added To $94,535 Report

The Red Feather fund campaign went over its goal of $94,492.75 last night with a report of $94,535.90, or 101.1 per cent of the quota.

The figures were given last night at the final report meeting of the 1953-54 Cumberland Community Chest fund drive at Central YMCA.

William H. Buchholtz, general chairman of the drive, said there are more pledges which were not audited last night, since workers did not have the cards with them. When all the pledge cards have been turned in, he said, the campaign goal will have been oversubscribed by $400 or $500. Many of these cards will be turned in by the Sales Army section.

A breakdown shows that the advance gifts section turned in $56,020 to top its goal of $56,000; classified section, $27,082.32, 90.3 per cent of its $30,000 quota; sales army, $6,420.16, 107 per cent of $6,000 goal, and residential section, $5,013.42, 100.2 per cent of $5,000 goal.

At last night's meeting, "Oscar" and "Oscarette" awards were presented to workers who topped their goals by the Red Feather Kids who were present.

Buchholtz thanked workers for their unselfish contribution of time and effort in making the Chest drive a huge success. The general chairman said he was well satisfied with the results of the campaign, and saluted the generous spirit of area residents, business, industrial and professional people who donated to the cause of the Red Feather.

Forest Fires Continue To Plague Area

3 Acres Scorched Near Grantsville

Pendleton County yesterday continued to be nearby West Virginia's chief forest fire trouble spot as four fires, all within a short distance of each other, were reported not far from Franklin.

District Forester Tilden Norris at Romney said he believes all four were deliberately set, probably by the same person. At last report some 25 acres of forest had been burned and the blaze still had not been controlled, Norris said.

The only other fire in Norris' eight-county district was reported in Berkeley County, near Martinsburg, where several acres were burned near the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad right-of-way. Railroad sparks were believed responsible.

In Western Maryland, one forest fire scorched about three acres of land in the Savage River State Forest south of Grantsville.

William H. Johnson, district forester, last night said the fire, which was discovered about 4 p. m., was apparently caused by careless smokers.

Extinguishing the blaze were Elmer Upole, Garrett County Forest Supervisor; Forest Guard Robert Warnick, and other forest employes.

Relief from the weatherman today, as far as rain is concerned, seems unlikely. Forecast for the area is cloudy with temperatures expected to go as high as 70 degrees. Forestry officials continue to remind hunters and motorists to use extreme care in dousing fires or disposing of lighted cigarettes.

The prolonged drought is of concern to dairy and beef cattle raisers as the pasture feed situation for cows has created a problem.

The pastures have dried up to the extent that many herd owners are feeding their stock from winter silage stores. The corn crop also has been affected by the dry spell and the silos were not filled in many cases, a dairy spokesman pointed out.

Man Admits Setting West Virginia Fire

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 22 (AP)—A 22-year-old man was charged with arson today in a woodland blaze which destroyed a Kanawha County home as the Conservation Department went on an emergency basis in the forest fire outbreak.

The department said Kenneth Clay Smith admitted in a signed statement that he set the fire yesterday which spread to the home of Delford Taylor on Bakers Fork off Elk Two Mile.

Smith also admitted, Conservation Officer Noah Payne said, that he started another fire on Monday, one on Tuesday and then "kicked" the disastrous blaze yesterday across a fire line after it had been checked to start it anew.

Smith is to be given a hearing tomorrow

Student Injured

David Dunn, of Lonaconing, a student at Frostburg State Teachers College, yesterday was admitted to Miners Hospital suffering a head injury sustained while taking part in a physical education class.

He was admitted for X-rays about noon and his condition last night was reported as "good."
